Dave Beck's Conviction Is Reversed

U. S. Tax Evasion Case Remanded To Lower Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dave Beck, predecessor of James R. Hoffa as Teamsters Union boss, won a reversal Saturday of his conviction of evading more than $240,000 in federal income taxes.

He had been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $40,000 —then released on bond pending outcome of his appeal.

The U.S. Court of Appeals remanded the case to District Court for a new trial but upheld Beck's conviction on charges of filing false tax returns for his union. For that he got five years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

HAILS ACTION

In Seattle, Beck hailed the reversal and said the court's affirmation on the union's return charges, would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I never took a nickel from anyone in my life," Beck asserted.

At issue in the reversal was the taxability of embezzled funds as income.

The appeals court decision pointed out that Beck's income included "an amazing series of embezzlement."

In 1945, the appeals court had decided embezzled funds were not taxable.

This was reversed by the U.S. Supreme Court May 15, 1961 in the case of Eugene C. James, a Chicago union official. The high court ruled that embezzled money is taxable.

But Beck was convicted two years earlier—Feb. 19, 1959 — so the James ruling could not apply in his case.

Saturday, in Washington, D.C., a spokesman for the Justice Department said the appeals court decision reversing Beck's conviction on income tax evasion charges "reflects the position taken by the Department of Justice." The spokesman added, "We will have to study the decision before determining whether to seek a new trial."

The appeals court, in its decision, took note of the James case ruling.

The decision, written by Justice Stanley N. Barnes, who was chief of the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice from 1953 to 1956, said the jury failed to make clear how much of the

OAS CONFERENCE

Action Urged Against Cuba

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Central American delegates to the Punta del Este conference Saturday night made an implied threat to pull out of the Organization of American States unless strong measures are taken against Cuba Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime.

The conference opens Monday, with the governments of the Western Hemisphere deeply divided on what action to take to prevent the spread of communism from Cuba.

GREET CUBANS

Central American sources said their countries plan to face the big nations with the question of whether the OAS is to continue as a force for inter-American unity. They contended other nations must protect the weaker from Cuban subversion—or the smaller must go it on their own. They expressed confidence, however, that the conference would vote stiff sanctions against Cuba.

The Cuban delegation landed Saturday night at Montevideo's airport and was greeted by a crowd of about 2,000, mostly teenagers, shouting "Cuba si, Yankee no." The head of the delegation, President Osvaldo Dorticos, was given a 21-gun salute as a visiting head of state. After Dorticos reviewed an honor guard of Uruguayan troops, the delegation left by car for Punta del Este.

Police took strict security measures and set up checkpoints on

IN TWIN CITIES

Student Safety Week Scheduled

Student Safety Week, an automobile safety campaign designed to cut down the accident and injury rate in the Twin Cities, will be launched here in a combined effort of Monroe and West Monroe high schools, it was announced yesterday.

Dates for Student Safety Week are Jan. 29 to Feb. 3.

The campaign is being sparked by the student leaders of the three high schools offering driver training instruction. These are Neville High, Ouachita High and West Monroe High Schools.

As outlined in a joint meeting of student chairmen and driver training instructors, Student Safety Week has four main objections:

OBJECTIONS

To de-emphasize speed as a test of driving skill. To prove that safe driving is economical driving and that real driving skill requires planning and foresight. To stress each driver's responsibility for the safety and well being of his passengers. To emphasize every car owner's obligation to maintain his car in safe mechanical condition.

Student Safety Week, which has been in the planning stages for several weeks, has already generated a great amount of enthusiasm from civic leaders, school officials, and law enforcement officers of the Twin Cities.

Both Mayors J. Allan Norris of West Monroe and W. L. Howard of Monroe have expressed the hope that the emphasis placed on safety during Student Safety Week will be continued throughout the year.

Prime target of Student Safety Week is to have a no-accident, no-injury, no-fatality week in the Twin Cities.

The secondary target is to show a sharp improvement over the same week a year ago when there were 24 accidents and nine injuries on the streets of Monroe and West Monroe.

The students have taken on the

Dr. Sarah Frances Anders, daughter of Mrs. W. B. Hedgepeth, 715 Clayton St., West Monroe, recently made a study for the United States Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington, D. C.

She made the study, from 1960 Bell County, Tex., court records which include details and facts surrounding the divorces and annulments during a four and one-half month period, at the request of Dr. Hugh Carter, Division of the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Washington.

Teachers Hold Closed Session On PAR Survey

Fifth district members of the Louisiana Teachers Association met in a closed-door session here yesterday to hear an address by their state field secretary.

It was understood, however, that the topic of discussion was the proposed Public Affairs Research Council study of the school system.

The field secretary, H. C. Robinson, obviously a critic of the press, advised the membership that he didn't think it would be to "their best interest to let the press in on what I have to say."

He contended, however, that he personally didn't care. "I'll say what I think before the press, the PAR or anybody else," Robinson declared.

The teachers decided that the press would be barred from the proceedings.

Robinson said before the meeting that he would go on record as "opposed" to the survey.

Saturday's meeting was held in the First Baptist Church on St. John Street.

Coast Slaying Suspect Held

WEST LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Police Saturday night announced the arrest of a former mental patient in connection with the slaying of a 32-year-old physician's wife in her $100,000 home earlier this month.

West Los Angeles detectives identified the suspect as Gerald M. Magee, 29, Brentwood Heights, Calif., an investment company employe.

Police Lt. R. A. Jackson said Magee was booked after admitting the slaying of Mrs. Doris June Bowman, the mother of three, in her luxury Pacific Palisades home.

Jackson said Magee was apprehended earlier Saturday walking in the rain in his pajamas near his home. Jackson said that after being taken into custody, Magee admitted the slaying.

ENTOMBED IN MINE

Hopes Abandoned Of Rescuing Boys

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Hope for survival of two boys entombed in a forgotten clay mine faded fast Saturday night as officials used last ditch rescue methods.

But the anguished fathers of Larry Husted, 10, and Wesley Lowe, 13, refused to give up their sons as lost.

The fathers, Ernest Lowe and Eugene Husted, went down into the twisting tunnels, some of them flooded, as a dragline began scooping the shallow overburden in another area.

A report that the fathers had descended for a last look forced a halt to the dragline and a bulldozer.

Officials in charge of the seven-day search had held off using the dragline because its tremendous weight was expected to cause further collapse in the abandoned shaft near Morgan Run, 15 miles southeast of here.

A dragline is a variation of a power shovel. It consists of a scoop bucket suspended by a cable from a long boom. The bucket is thrown forward, then pulled backward, ripping off the earth.

David B. Millward, district state mine inspector, sent workers in to bring back the two fathers.

Use of the dragline was ordered by State Mines Secretary Lewis Evans after he had made a personal inspection at a crater-like cave leading into the mine.

Earlier, Millward and other officials made a final exploration of the tunnels in a rubber life raft.

Millward reported afterward that additional roof falls during the night made further underground searching dangerous and impractical.

Plane In Gusty Winds Crashes, Five Are Killed

By United Press International

A wind - driven snow storm slashed across the West into the Midlands Saturday, leaving transportation facilities in shambles and cutting off telephone service in some places.

A two - engine C119 transport plane, whipped about by gusty winds, crashed shortly after takeoff from Hill Air Force Base near Clearfield, Utah. All five crewmen were killed.

ROARS EASTWARD

The storm began with heavy rain and snow in northern California Friday. It roared eastward Saturday and was expected to dump up to four inches of snow on northern Indiana by Sunday night.

The Midwest already was suffering from bitter, record-setting cold.

Heavy snow slammed into parts of the West Saturday in the latest of a dreary succession of road-blocking, fuel-consuming winter storms.

The intense, wind-driven storm headed for the Midwest, where bitter, record-setting cold continued to sting.

Warnings were issued for stockmen and motorists in Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska. The region already has endured two weeks of cold and snow.

Child Hurt Critically In Collision

A one and one-half year old Monroe child was in critical condition last night after the truck she was riding in was involved in a head-on collision on U.S. Highway 165 north of Monroe. Five other persons were injured.

Listed in critical condition at the St. Francis hospital with a fractured skull and other injuries was Janice Ogden of 1501 Jackson St., Monroe.

Others injured in the collision include drivers J. M. Robinson, 34, of 304 Slack St., West Monroe, head and chest injuries; Lewis A. Scoggins, 39 of 300 South Second St., West Monroe; passengers, Bess Ogden, 34, 1501 Jackson St., Bobby Lynn Ogden, 7, same address, Gary Ogden, 4, same address and Janice.

The Ogden's were passengers in the Scoggins truck which was headed north on the highway.

State police said that Robinson was driving south on the highway approximately 12.7 miles north of Monroe when the accident occurred. Troopers said he attempted to pass another vehicle and met Scoggins truck headon. Both vehicles were demolished.

All members of the Ogden family and Scoggins were taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment. Robinson was taken to Wright Bendel Clinic.

No charges were filed by state police last night pending completion of the investigation.

81,000-MILE JOURNEY

Astronaut Orbit Flight Plans Set

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States will try to rocket astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., on an earth-girdling, 81,000-mile journey through the lifeless blue-black of space next week, perhaps Wednesday.

Basically, the purpose of the bullet-like flight atop a 360,000-pound thrust Atlas missile is this:

To add to mankind's meager fund of space knowledge in order to determine whether earthlings ultimately can travel safely to the moon and beyond.

HAS DUTIES

To find out what happens to a man in space. Glenn on his flight will do certain exercises, eat and spin himself about to see what happens to his sense of balance.

Everything that man can do to insure the success of the flight and Glenn's safety has been done.

Even now an armada of 15,000 men aboard 24 ships, including three aircraft carriers, is being deployed around the world to keep track of the red-haired, quick-smiling Glenn on his flight, and to rescue him when necessary.

In making the trip the balding, 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel will follow a flight path that is planned to take him three times around the world at altitudes varying from 100 to 150 miles.

Glenn will pass at 17,500 miles an hour through a fantastic realm in which an unprotected man facing the sun could bake as in a slow oven at 248 degrees fahrenheit, while the flesh on his backside froze and became as brittle and breakable as glass at minus 157 degrees.

Glenn's great speed will keep him in orbit over the 4½ hours

6,000 Dine With JFK, Aid Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and leaders of his party trained their oratory and checkbooks Saturday night on the Republicans and the Democratic Party deficit.

The impact of the oratory awaited a decision in the November elections. But the deficit dropped appreciably as a result of a $100 a plate fund-raising dinner on the first anniversary of Kennedy's inauguration.

About 6,000 persons paid for the privilege of dining in the cavernous District of Columbia Armory with President and Mrs. Kennedy and virtualy every top Democrat of the nation. These ranged from former President Harry S. Truman to the Roosevelt eras Democratic national committee chairman, James A. Farley.

Speakers appearing ahead of the chief executive included Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who extolled the late speaker Sam Rayburn, and Truman, who took the occasion to urge adoption of Kennedy's liberalized foreign trade program.

Agents Question Injured Pilot In Italian Hospital

TARANTO, Italy (UPI) — A Bulgarian jet spy plane carrying a reconnaissance camera and machine-gun crashed Saturday near a secret U.S. missile base in what could become an aerial espionage case like that of Francis Gary Powers.

The Soviet - built MIG-19 jet crashed about six miles from Gioia del Colle, where the United States maintains a medium-range ballistic missile base. The base is so secret that its existence is not officially admitted.

The pilot was injured but alive. He was identified as Myiloca Podgoros of the Bulgarian Air Force. Peasants took him from the wreckage, and police rushed him to a nearby hospital, where he was treated for a head wound, a broken arm, and shock.

RECALL U-2 CASE

The incident recalled the Powers case. Powers' U-2 reconnaissance jet was said by the Russians to have been shot down 1,250 miles inside the Soviet Union on May 1, 1960. The resultant furor broke up the Paris summit conference.

Powers, 32, of Norton, Va., was sentenced to a 10 year term in Moscow in August, 1960.

The Bulgarian plane's identification as a MIG-19 meant it was an advanced model of the Soviet-built jet.

Many MIGs supplied to satellite air forces are the earlier and slower MIG-17's.

The silver-colored jet was marked with a large red Communist star on its side.

U. N. Reports New Slayings By Congolese

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Rampaging troops once loyal to Antoine Gizenga were reported Saturday to have killed five more Europeans in eastern provinces as the pro-Communist leader returned to Leopoldville under U.N. guard to face possible trial.

The latest killings by the leaderless troops were reported by reliable sources at Shangugu in the neighboring trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi to have taken place Monday at Kindu in Kivu Province.

CONFIRM REPORT

The informants said the nationality and identity of the victims was not known, but that they understood U.N. representatives at Bukavu, the Kivu capital, had confirmed the report. The report attributed the killings to soldiers under the former command of a Gizenga aide, Col. Alphonse Pakassa. Pakassa returned to Stanleyville, capital of the former pro-Communist regime of Gizenga Friday, and was arrested.

It was at Kindu that troops under Pakassa's command mutinied last November and butchered 13 Italian U.N. airmen. Some of the same troops are believed to have been responsible for the reported machine-gun slaying and mutilation of 19 Roman Catholic missionaries at Kongolo in northern Katanga Province on Jan. 1.

Yet another Catholic mission station, at Sola, 15 miles north of Kongolo, appeared to have been overrun by the marauding soldiers. A U.N. aerial survey of Sola disclosed no sign of the 40 teen-age African girl students and the 11 or 12 white priests and nuns there—only two soldiers running for cover and two trucks believed to be military.

Two U.N. Canberra jets searching for the renegade troops were fired on by a knot of about 200 soldiers between Sola and Kongolo, but were not hit.

The pilots reported seeing burning houses south of Sola, and a U.N. spokesman said the survey "seems to indicate the worst—that the soldiers attacked the mission and are now in control of the compound."

GO UNDERGROUND

Family Tries Out Shelter In Freeze

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—William R. La Coste of rural Eight Mile has a new use for fallout shelters: he and his family lived in their underground shelter during the recent 86-hour freeze which crippled Alabama.

La Coste moved his wife, Theresa, and their two children, Mike 13, and Michelle, 16 months, into the shelter Jan. 10 after the mercury plumetted to a frigid seven degrees.

"My water pump and all the pipes froze Wednesday morning and by Wednesday afternoon, with all the heaters in the house burning, plus the stove, the place was still like an ice box," he said. "It was then I decided we would be warmer in the underground bomb shelter which I had recently completed."

And warmer he was. "Even in the morning after the heater has been off several hours, the shelter still remains at least 50 degrees warmer than the outside temperature."

The 8½ foot by 38 foot shelter—located some 200 yards from "Bill, the Barber's" home—is gas heated and contains a two-burner gas stove, four bunk beds, a portable television set, radio, 700 gallons of water, with 82 kept in a glass-lined tank for drinking, and enough food for two months.

La Coste built the shelter himself as a "hobby". From the outside, it looks much like a potato bank, but it's constructed of 10-inch reinforced concrete and covered with three to six feet of dirt.

Mrs. La Coste didn't have much to say about the family's four days underground. "It's alright," she said, but with a noticeable lack of enthusiasm. However, young Mike thought the whole idea "fun—just like a campout."

Goldwater For Break With U.N.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — If necessary, the United States should abandon the United Nations, break off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and use forceful intervention in Cuba, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Saturday night.

Goldwater, a leader of the conservatives in this country, made the remarks in an interview taped for broadcast Sunday night by the Manion Forum, a weekly radio program directed by Clarence E. Manion, former Notre Dame Law School dean. The tapes are supplied to 235 radio stations.

Goldwater said the United States should "sever connections" with the United Nations if it "prevents us from taking unilateral action against Communist Cuba," and "if the United Nations is not a valuable means" to "our victory over communism."

"The Communists ignore the United Nations whenever it suits their purposes to do so. And in the interest of self-preservation, we must do likewise," the senator added.

Speaking about Cuba, Goldwater said: "Now that (Prime Minister Fidel) Castro has told us, cold turkey, what many of us knew all along" that "he has set up a full-fledged, Kremlin-dominated Communist outpost on our flank in Cuba, we should proceed to liquidate that outpost.

"The Monroe Doctrine should be invoked, and economic sanctions should be imposed against Cuba. We must liberate Cuba if we wish to preserve our own freedom."

Agents Question Injured Pilot In Italian Hospital

agents began questioning the pilot at his hospital bedside after finding photo reconnaissance equipment in the wreckage of the fully armed plane.

The defense ministry said the jet carried large amounts of fuel, "leading to the suspicion that it had a long range."

The crash occurred in a coastal area, about 200 miles across the Adriatic Sea from Communist Albania. Bulgaria is farther eastward, separated from Albania by Yugoslavia.

Italian military authorities at Acquaviva said radar picked up a flight of planes about 40,000 feet over the community.

The officials said one of the planes veered sharply and began to descend. It made two low-flying passes, striking a tree on the second pass and shearing off a wing.

A thick stream of fuel began pouring from the jet just before it sliced into the ground and lost the other wing. There was no explosion and the fusilage remained intact.

A Defense Ministry communique described the tracking of the plane but did not go into the possible causes of the crash.

The comunique identified the pilot as Lt. Myloch Podgoros and said he was based at the Gabrovitza Air Field in Bulgaria.

Officials declined comment on whether he was carrying out a reconnaissance mission.

In Washington, the State Department said it had not received any information on the crash and had no comment.

roads leading to this luxurious resort.

They were protecting the Castro delegation—and also preparing to intercept 300 pro-Castro workers and students making a slow march along the 80-mile route from Montevideo to the conference scene for the purpose of staging an anti-Yankee demonstration.

The U.S. delegation, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, is expected to arrive Sunday and go into huddles throughout the evening in attempts to iron out difficulties with other big OAS members in advance of the formal opening.

Members of "Los Quatro Grandes"—the Big Four—Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and Chile, have shown varying degrees of reluctance toward taking definite action against Castro.

The State Department in a White Paper on Jan. 3 warned that Cuba has become a bridgehead of Chinese-Soviet imperialism in the Western Hemisphere and that Castro's purpose is to spread communism through the Americas by revolution, subversion and propaganda.

Officials of Central American countries have been reported conferring for two days in various capitals, and a bloc appeared to be emerging calling itself CAP—Central America and Panama—which seems intent on standing firm for diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba's communism.

Central American nations are particularly vulnerable to Castro infiltration because of their proximity to Cuba and their own tricky internal situations. They are reported planning to push to the hilt the Inter-American Peace Committee report of two days ago condemning Castro for violations of human rights. Adoption of this report, these diplomats feel, would practically force the foreign ministers to apply sanctions against Castro.

Mexico, Brazil, and to a lesser extent Argentina have been opposing far-reaching action.

Services Set For Victim Of Collision

Funeral services for Ann Whitman, 17, sister of a Monroe woman, Miss Alice Faye Whitman, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Welcome Home Baptist Church near Herbert with the Rev. Fred Keys and The Rev. Houston Roberts officiating.

The Whitman girl was killed at 10:40 p.m. Friday when the car in which she was a passenger collided with a Missouri Pacific freight train six miles south of Columbia.

The accident occurred at the Burkhall crossing just off highway 16.

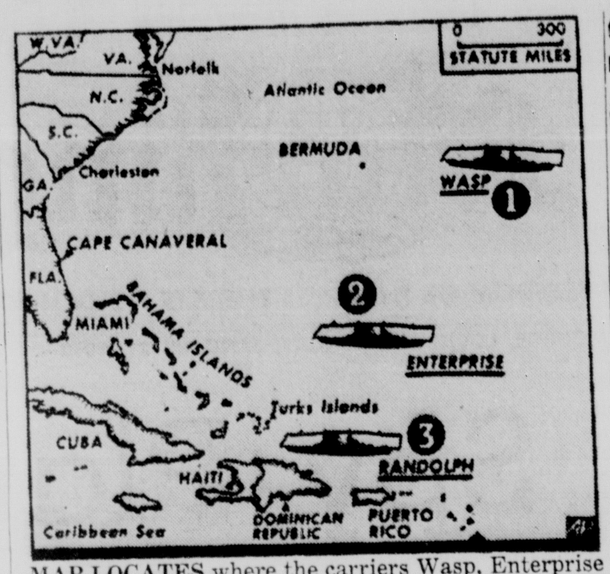

Another passenger in the car, Lynn Elledge, 17, had her right leg amputated in the accident. Shelby Curl, 18, Pineville, driver of the car, was only slightly injured. The Elledge girl is presently in a Monroe hospital where she is reportedly resting well.

As their car approached the crossing a south - bound train had just crossed, blocking the view of a second train which was going north, when the car started over the tracks it was struck by the north-bound train and carried about 20 feet down the track, according to police officials.

Burial will be held in the Hebert Cemetery under the direction of Riser and Sons Funeral Home of Columbia.

Survivors besides here sister include her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Whitman, Hebert; one other sister, Miss Betty Ruth Whitman, Hebert; and five brothers, James Whitman, John Whitman, William Whitman, Goldman Whitman and Gordon Whitman.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home until about 1 p.m.

of the projected flight. The principle is that of centrifugal force, balancing the tug of gravity, the same principle kids use to keep a rock swinging at the end of a string.

The balance of centrifugal force and gravity is what makes Glenn weightless.

If all goes as planned, Glenn will pass from the sunshine of Launch Pad 14 to the blue-black of space in about 2½ minutes. At lift-off he will experience a force seven and a half times that of gravity and thus weigh for a moment seven and a half times as much as his normal 165 pounds.

Glenn will be able to see the earth through a small window and with a periscope. Where the earth's white cloud-cover parts, the ground will appear as patches of brown and green surrounded by blue water.

Out where Glenn will be, the vacuum will be so close to absolute that even if a bomb exploded 10 feet away, he would not be able to hear it. Sound does not travel in a void.

The stars will appear as distant, round orbs minus the twinkle they seem to have from earth, a twinkle caused by the diffusion of light through the dusty atmosphere.

As matters now stand, Glenn will be launched on his historic journey sometime between 7:30 a.m., and 12:30 p.m., Wednesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration cautioned, however, that the trip might be postponed on a day-to-day basis by weather or the merest hint of malfunctions.

The flight is timed to give the recovery forces at sea three hours of daylight if needed in which to search for Glenn and his space capsule after his return to earth. If all goes as planned, Glenn will land about 800 miles southeast of here in the waters off Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas.

Glenn is due to climb into his bell-shaped space craft atop the Atlas missile sometime just before dawn. NASA officials said Glenn named his ship the "Friendship 7."

This space capsule stands nine and a half-feet high and measures six feet across the base. At lift-off it weighs 4,200 pounds, 3,000 pounds while in orbit and 2,400 pounds upon return to earth.

As it travels along the spaceship will automatically jettison certain equipment that is no longer needed.

The whole assembly—missile, spacecraft and escape tower—stands 93-feet tall on the launch pad and weighs 125 tons fully fueled with liquid oxygen and kerosene.

The escape tower itself is 16 feet high. In event of a malfunction on the flight at anytime between blastoff and going into earth orbit over Bermuda, an automatic sensing device fires a rocket in the tower.

Immediately, the spaceship with its passenger is pulled up and away from the big booster and then a parachute lets the capsule return gently to earth.

As the space capsule gets safely under way, the escape tower is cast off.

As he circles the earth, Glenn's progress will be monitored by 18 tracking stations stretching across the Atlantic, Africa, the Indian Ocean, Australia, the Pacific and the United States, Canada and Mexico. Some 500 technicians man these stations.

Aboard the capsule, Glenn will have 3,000 calories of food—beef and mixed vegetables similar to the stuff babies eat—in toothpaste tubes. He'll also have six pounds of water. In addition, he will have some quick-energy sugar tablets.

Air pressure inside the cabin will be maintained at six pounds per square inch—at sea level it is 15 pounds—so that Glenn should have no trouble breathing.

Glenn will travel strapped to a contoured couch made of a special crushable honeycomb material bonded to a fiberglass shell lined with rubber padding.

Attached to his body will be medical sensors to register pulse, respiration, body temperature and heart action.

Throughout the flight Glenn will be able to communicate with the tracking stations by radio.

Everything needed to support life in the capsule has been doubled up and all circuits needed to operate the systems are duplicated just in case.

Glenn will be almost surrounded by instruments—over 100 lights, fuses, controls, switches and displays which tell him what is going on and where he is.

A 16-mm camera will take continuous pictures of the control consoles and another will register Glenn's reactions. Glenn will also take pictures of the instruments with a small still camera.

Through his periscope he will have a 360-degree view of the horizon and he can adjust the view through the lens to inspect an area of earth as small as 80 miles in diameter or as large as 1,900 miles in diameter.

The flight can be terminated by Glenn or from the ground at any time. If he makes only one orbit, he will land 500 miles east of Bermuda. After two orbits he will come down 500 miles south of Bermuda.

If Glenn makes the planned three orbits of the earth, he will begin his re-entry into the atmosphere preparatory to landing as he nears the western coast of the United States.

By firing braking rockets, the speed of the space craft will be reduced and the force of gravity will pull him earthward.

In a little over five minutes his speed will drop from 17,500 miles an hour to 270 and by the time he reaches an altitude of 25 miles the heat shield on the blunt end of the capsule will have reached a temperature of 3,000 degrees.

At 21,000 feet a small parachute will open, slowing descent still more. At 10,000 feet a 63-foot diameter main landing 'chute will spread and lower the capsule into the ocean.

His descent will be radar-tracked by the recovery ship in the area. As soon as he touches water frogmen from hovering helicopters will leap into the sea to attach a huge rubber belt—something like an innertube—to the capsule to prevent it from sinking in case it springs a leak.

At this point Glenn will leave the capsule through a side or top hatch and be raised by a cable into the helicopter overhead.

If he has to make an emergency exit, Glenn can leave by triggering the explosive bolts holding the side hatch. At the same time a life raft will be launched. He also has a small life jacket attached to his space suit that can be inflated by a gas device.

Once aboard the recovery ship, Glenn will undergo a preliminary physical examination and then be flown to one of the nearby islands for a more complete check.

For the United States the flight of Glenn will be the high point in a man-in-space effort, which so far has cost $400 million.

Student Safety Week Scheduled

task of showing adults — by example and through an intensive week-long safety campaign—how this accident rate can be reduced.

Student leaders, working with the high school driver training instructors, are:

West Monroe: James Allen Norris, chairman; Bennie Grant, co-chairman; Coach Dan McClure, instructor.

Neville: Mollie Shelton, chairman; Wayne Smith co-chairman; Coaches Buck Stewart and Chic Childress, instructors.

Ouachita: Dennis Warner Chairman; Sandra Ferguson, co-chairman; Coach Pat Patterson, instructor.

Twin City officials endorsing Student Safety Week are: Mayor W. L. Howard, Mayor J. A. Norris, Police Chief Jeff W. Caldwell, Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr., State Police Captain M. E. Kidd, Superintendent W. W. Ward, Superintendent Van D Odom, Principal Sidney Seegers, Sheriff Bailey Grant, and Juvenile Probation Officer Buster Crowley.

As a means of getting the entire community behind their safety effort, Student Safety Week leaders will be addressing service clubs and other adult groups of the Twin Cities during Safety Week.

A "Safety" parade through the two business sections is being arranged by the students for Saturday, Jan. 27.

There will be two main areas of activity during Safety Week.

A two-mile "driver education" course has been set up at Selman Field by the local Sports Car club. Full details of the competition in this event will be released later this week.

A second activity spearheaded by the students will be a concentrated drive on car owners to have their car safety inspected to meet the state law requirements.

Inspection tickets will be available from students of the three participating schools, and when these tickets are turned in at inspection stations during Safety Week, the responsible high school will receive point credit.

An award committee, composed of students, is setting up a trophy award, which will go to the school earning the most points in the various types of Safety Week competition.

Teachers Hold Closed Session On PAR Survey

attend, it is not known if any attended.

PAR is expected to ask permission from the State Board of Education to carry out a survey of schools in the state. The survey will reportedly be aimed at determining why some high school graduates do better in college than graduates of other schools.

The survey would be made by educators from throughout the state.

State Superintendent of Schools, Shelby M. Jackson, and the Fourth District Classroom teachers have also gone on record as against the survey.

'PINK LADIES'

St. Francis Guild Starts 6th Year

The St. Francis Hospital Guild, or the "Pink Ladies," is moving into the sixth year of operations soon, and, as the president, Mrs. Bert Root, points out, is looking forward to an expansion of its work.

The group of dedicated Ouachita parish women have during the short period of existence worked closely with hospital officials and patients to bring about better understanding of the program and plans of the facility. This, in fact, is the preimary purpose of the organization.

"Our primary purpose," the president stressed, "is to make the patient's stay at the hospital a little more pleasant and to interpret the hospital's program and problems to the community."

To obtain these goals the group has set up several committees, all of which work closely with other and the public.

The immediate past president, Mrs. T. H. Scott, said work during the past year showed a vast need for additional women to handle various jobs. Not all of these are in the patient's room she stressed, nor do they require a full day or full week each month. Oftentimes the jobs can be done by working only a few hours a week, sometimes only an hour a day or week. But by working together, the group is able to accomplish may of the otherwise undone things for the patient.

EXAMPLE

As an example, Mrs. Scott pointed out, recently a family was brought into the hospital following a wreck. Both the man and woman were hurt, not too seriously, but to much so to allow the woman to care for her two small children. Members of the "Gray Ladies" took over the children, relieving the mother of what was happing to the youngsters.

Some of the committees and the individual chairmen presently operating include:

Gift Shop committee, which operates the convenience in the lobby of the hospital for the patients and visitors. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mayer Glazer, the group have been handling this operation for several years. Incidentally, funds taken in by this group is used to place items in the hospital, which otherwise would not be available — and which in their operations are not charged to the patients.

Another group is the volunteer women who take the carts around to the rooms with magazines and books. This group works in shifts during the morning and afternoon, allowing all patients to be able to select reading materials at their convenience.

Under the direction of Mrs. Z. M. Moore, another committee works constantly with the pediatric and geriatic sections of the hospital. The elderly persons in the hospital are aided daily, as are the youngest patients — and their parents when in need.

A personal relations commitee, under the direction of Mrs. S. E. Huey, makes contacts with out of town patients, persons brought in for injuries, or any other who does not have someone to help. The women in this group often do the shopping, writing of letters and other "little things" for these patients. And although the patients leave the hospital, they seldom forget the Gray Ladies— as letters to them will testify.

The Candy Stripers is the title given to the teen-age girls who aid in the work. These girls must be 14 years or older and work mainly during the week end, assisting the nurses, reading to patients, or making favors for trays on special occasions. Mrs. Robert Lewis is the chairman of this group, which has some 50 members.

Although it does not touch the patient directly, the Gray Ladies also sponsor a nurses scholarship fund, which aids worthy persons seeking to become registered nurses. As soon as one student nurse is graduated, another applicant is sponsored. Mrs. Oliver Vreeland is chairman of the committee.

With the expansion plans for the hospital, the Guild is also stepping up its plans for the future. This, Mrs. Root, said, will mean the addition of more workers.

In addition to Mrs. Root, the current officers include Mrs. L. N. Waddell, vice-president; Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, secretary; Mrs. DeWitt Milam, treasurer; and Mrs. S. E. Huey, corresponding secretary.

SARAH F. LITTLE

Sarah Little Is Member Of Fraternity

Sarah F. Little, Monroe senior marketing major at Northeast Louisiana State College, has been made an associate member of Pi Sigma Epsilon, national professional fraternity in marketing, sales management and selling.

Miss Little earned this honor because of her outstanding ability as a student of marketing and her interest in this field, D. D. Vines, faculty advisor, has announced.

A resident of 1304 McGuire, Miss Little, 22, plans to graduate from Northeast in August.

A staff reporter for the Morning World, she has earned many honors at Northeast. She is a member of the honor society, the women's recreation association, a selection to Who's Who Among American Universities and Business, received the News - Star World publishing award for outstanding campus reporter in 1960, was a member of the Pow Wow staff and of the concert choir.

Pi Sigma Epsilon has as its purposes those of creating a collegiate brotherhood of men who are interested in the advancement of marketing, selling and sales management, the promotion of the study of marketing, selling, sales management, and related fields, the bringing together academically qualified students, the encouragement of the establishing of courses preparing men for careers in professional marketing, selling and sales management, methods and techniques in the fields, and the instilling in its members the highest possible ethical standards of the profession.

Miss Little was given the honor under a stpecial type of membership adopted in order to allow her to be affiliated with the organization for men.

Master Plan Is Considered By Area Town

VIDALIA (Special) — The town of Vidalia, parish seat of Concordia Parish, is considering a Master Plan, similar to that now in use by the neighboring Mississippi City of Natchez.

According to Mayor Sidney A. Murray Jr., of Vidalia, the use of a Master Plan for the development of Vidalia is under consideration and a number of city planning experts among them Arch Winters, who made the present Natchez Master Plan, have been contacted.

Mayor Murray said no decision has been reached regarding proposals. He added that due to the continued growth of Vidalia and constant expansion, the need for planned growth is necessary.

BETH GUERRIERO

Miss Guerrero Named Beauty At Start High

START (Special) — Beth Guerrero, daughter of Mrs. Bonnie Guerrero, has been named most beautiful girl at Start High School.

Television personality Garry Moore made the selection from pictures of the 10 candidates nominated by popular vote of the student body.

Runnerup was Sue Jvachim, daughter of Mrs. Mayvine Hardwick, Third place was captured by Janice Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fuller; fourth by Joan Hays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hays, and fifth, Gay Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lannie Sullivan.

Moore, in a letter, wrote that "it was not very easy" to pick the most beautiful girl in the contest.

The winners will be pictured prominently in the favorites section of the 1962 "Blinking Eye," the school yearbook.

Gilbert Wants Catahoula Crop Insurance Plan

JONESVILLE (Special) — The director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has been requested to include Catahoula parish on its lists of parishes in which crop insurance is written. The request was made by Senator J. C. "Sonny" Gilbert of the 33rd Senatorial District, comprised of Franklin, Richland and Catahoula.

Gilbert said in his letter, "It is my understanding that at the present time a cotton farmer in Catahoula parish can not insure his cotton crop against loss due to weather conditions over which he has no control." Gilbert pointed out that cotton farmers of adjoining parishes "can, if they desire, secure this insurance protection from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation."

"This program is controlled and backed by the federal government and I feel that my people and fellow farmers in Catahoula parish are entitled to this protection against loss along with surrounding parishes," Senator Gilbert said.

"I well realize that portions of Catahoula parish are subject to overflow, however, by the same token, many sections of Catahoula are above flood stage and have never been known to overflow," he added.

Federal Credit Union Elects Officers At Meet

Officers of the Monroe Telco Federal Credit Union were elected Friday at the 25th annual meeting of the group.

The 65 members attending the session at the Southern Bell plant center on Tower Drive, elected three officers for both the board of directors and the credit committee.

Those selected to serve on the board of directors include, J. D. Hudson, Geraldine M. Gray and Wilmer E. Cooper. New members of the credit committee are Charles A. Hill, Oliver Gilbert Jr. and Evelyn Tarver.

In addition to the election of board and committee officers, another highlight of the meeting was a report by the president, Travis M. Freeman, who announced a six per cent dividend for the year.

Hearings Set On Tax-Free Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time, a congressional committee is taking a hard, detailed look at the financial dealings of some of the big tax-exempt foundations.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of a special committee on small business, will announce to the House Monday that his group will hold hearings in the next few months on these tax-free foundations, which have grown from 12,295 in 1952 to more than 45,000 in 1960.

Patman long has held that these foundations, often set up by commercial business firms, are getting a stranglehold on the national economy and are one of the forces squeezing small business out of existence.

On his own initiative last summer, Patman sent a questionnaire to 500 of the biggest foundations, many of them company sponsored.

A vast amount of information has flowed in voluntarily in return. An aide estimates a 75 per cent return of the questionnaire. When this mass data is analyzed, he says, a detailed accounting of the tremendous holdings and income of these foundations will be spread on the record for the first time.

In an unpublicized meeting recently, Patman's committee backed up his one-man campaign by unanimously approving, with one abstention, a resolution okaying the probe and authorizing subpoena power if necessary to get more information.

Are some of these foundations tax-dodging gimmicks?

"There's no question about that," says Patman's aide, "but it's all legal."

The telethon will benefit The Cerebral Palsied Children and adults of Northeast Louisiana and southern Arkansas.

Two Groups Plan Meets With Solons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hundreds of business and union leaders will descend on Washington this week to pepper congressmen with generally conflicting views on how the legislators should act on key issues.

The labor union chiefs will open on Monday a four-day economic and legislative conference sponsored by the AFL-CIO. The business spokesmen, mostly heads of trade and professional associations, will convene Wednesday and Thursday for a similar rally sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Both groups plan extensive meetings with congressmen on Capitol Hill. Much of the pending legislative program as outlined in President Kennedy's State of the Union message is opposed by the chamber. Most of it is supported by the AFL-CIO.

The labor union meeting will be opened Monday morning with speeches by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and AFL-CIO President George Meany. The labor union rally, aimed also at drumming up support for legislation to combat the unemployment problem, is to attract an estimated 500 union leaders.

A panel discussion between rival Democratic and Republican congressional leaders will feature the opening session of the Chamber of Commerce rally Wednesday, due to bring together more than 1,000 business leaders.

Three Booked For Battery By Monroe Police

Two cases of aggravated battery investigated by Monroe police Saturday resulted in three persons being booked on battery charges.

Chief James C. Kelly said L. T. Fletcher, 45, no permanent address, and Harvey W. Johnston, 56 of Sixth and Depot Streets were both booked for aggravated battery and use of a weapon. Johnston was also charged with disturbing the peace.

They were booked following the investigation of a complaint by W. L. Whittington, 49 of 310 Sixth St., who said he had been beaten up.

Witnesses said that Fletcher hit Whittington in the head with a beer bottle, then asked Johnston if he wanted to do anything to Fletcher, according to police.

The report stated that Johnston then took a half pint of whiskey from his pocket and smashed Fletcher in the head with it. Fletcher was given emergency treatment at E. A. Conway Memorial hospital for the beating.

The incident allegedly took place at a Monroe cafe early Saturday.

Saturday night, a 32-year-old Negro, Charles Neal Williams of 112 Vicksburg St., was booked for aggravated battery and use of a weapon.

He allegedly stabbed another Negro, Roy Beaman, 906 Oak St., while the pair were at the Oak Leaf Bar on Oak Street.

Beaman suffered a stab wound in the chest, but officials at E. A. Conway Memorial hospital last night did not believe the wound to be serious.

DWI Conviction Appeal Slated

A 51-year-old West Monroe man, convicted of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages in West Monroe court action Friday, promptly entered an appeal on the case.

Harry A. Moore, of 203 Lomaland Dr., West Monroe, was found guilty on the DWI charge and fined $300. However, he was granted an appeal and released under a new $350 bond.

He was booked by West Monroe police Sept. 23 on the charge and tried in city court Friday.

Feed Mill Burns At Lake Charles

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — The Lake Charles feed mill was destroyed by a fire Friday which spread to four adjacent homes.

Damage to the mill was estimated by an executive of the company at about $200,000. Stocks of feed valued at an extimated $75,000 also burned.

Four homes were damaged and a railroad box car on a siding caught fire.

ON LAUNCHING PAD

Atlas Is Ready For Orbit Shot

By VERN HAUGLAND

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Atlas is ready. One Atlas in particular: No. 109D, standing 93 feet on its launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

It is ready to loft astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., into orbit around the world this week—possibly three times around in the space of 4½ hours.

Already two more Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles—Nos. 107D and 113D—have been given the special Project Mercury decal indicating that they have been built with that extra degree of care required for a "man-rated" missile.

These last two lie side by side at the General Dynamics-Astronautics plant here, one in the space occupied until early last December by 109D.

Ultimately, Nos. 107D and 113D will be sent to Florida to hurl companions of Glenn into similar orbits at 17,500 miles per hour.

The readiness of the Atlas for its new assignments was stipulated by officials of Astronautics during a conducted tour of the huge San Diego factory where the Atlas is in production for the Air Force.

In company with other newsmen, I made the tour of the plant earlier last week.

Incidentally, the Air Force reportedly bills the National Aeronautics and Space Administration $2 million for each Atlas diverted from the ICBM assembly line to the man in space and other civilian space-science programs.

James R. Dempsey, senior vice president of General Dynamics and president of Astronautics, told his newsmen guests:

"The forthcoming Mercury-Atlas shot is the culmination of a long development effort by many people. We are prepared for a major event in the exploitation of space—a preparation that has been undertaken very carefully.

"There are uncertainties, of course, just as with a pilot making his first flight in a new test plane. But we have made sure that everything involved in the operation works.

"We are prepared to look John Glenn in the eye and say 'We think we are ready,' and we are sure that he also feels that way."

Charles S. Ames Jr., director of the company's space launch vehicle program and a leader of the 1946 ballistic missile team that designed the MX774 research rocket that was the grandfather of the Atlas, echoed Dempsey's assurances:

"The best efforts of our entire team have been incorporated into missile 109D which stands ready at the Cape.

"The testing that has gone into it, and the background of engineering knowledge and experience, are the best that this country knows how to achieve. We feel that the Atlas is ready."

Ben A. Hohmann, Mercury space-boosters program director for Aerospace Corp.—the El Segundo, Calif., nonprofit organization set up to provide the Air Force with technical assistance in missile and space projects—put it a bit more directly.

A World War II German experimental engineering test pilot, one of the first to fly the ME160—the first German rocket plane capable of taking off under its own power—Hohmann was asked whether he would be willing to take Glenn's place.

"I would not hestiate to make the flight myself," Hohmann said.

Since the flight test program began in June, 1957, there have been 112 launchings of Atlas missiles. These have included nose cone flights which hit target areas 8,000 miles away.

Sovereignty Commission Film Cited

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Completion of "We, The People," a 13-minute color film on constitutional government, was announced by the Louisiana State Sovereignty Commission, which will offer it for showing on television and before interested organizations.

Theme of the picture is Article Ten of the Amendments to the U. S. Constitution, providing that powers not specifically delegated to the federal government are reserved to the states.

A similar theme was used by the Sovereignty Commission last year in a cartoon booklet, with the same title, which was distributed by the Education Department to high schools over the state.

In the picture, as in the booklet, the discussion of constitutional principles is between a father and son, with the latter mostly asking questions.

The father attempts to explain why and how the federal government has taken over more and more powers he says belong to the people and the states. Asked what can be done about it, he says:

"We've got to vote, carefully, for good Americans. Then we must tell our representatives in Washington that we want our government returned to the people."

Commission Chairman Frank Voelker Jr. said copies of the film are being made and will be available soon, on application to commission offices in the Capitol, for showing before civic clubs and other interested groups.

Wall Street Journal Views State Politics And Present Governor

By JAMES HARWOOD

BATON ROUGE, La. — On a tree-shaded lane near the Mississippi River here, a dozen overalled workmen are building a rather extraordinary structure. When completed, it will feature 18 bathrooms, 12 bedrooms, a gymnasium and a facade of 20 three-story columns.

This will be an official home, the magnificent residence of Jimmie Hyde Davis, governor of Louisiana, as long as he remains in office. The $1 million cost will be paid by the state's taxpayers. And, when its doors open, the plush palace will stand as testimony to the rapid rise of a new star in a political theater long noted for its zany productions.

For in less than two years, guitar - strumming Jimmie, a 57-year-old show business veteran whose accomplishments include authorship of the country - style ballad "You Are My Sunshine," shows promise of up-staging all his illustrious predecessors in the governor's mansion.

That will take some doing. There was "Kingfish" Huey Long, of course, who assumed the dimensions of a near-dictator before being shot and killed in the capitol 25 years ago. More recently, another Long, brother Earl, was hauled off by his wife in 1959 to a mental institution where he continued to run the government. In 1960, after leaving office, he died of a heart attack.

But Gov. Davis is learning fast. Consider the financing of his new home, for example, when the Governor first proposed the idea, the legislature was frightened by a looming deficit in the state budget and flatly refused to put up the money. Undaunted, patient Jimmie simply sat and swapped public-works projects with the lawmakers until he got his house. One legislator, Sen. Jamar W. Adcock of Monroe, La., reports he traded his "yes" vote for six construction projects — worth "about $5 million" — for his constituents. Calling the move "practical politics," the Senator says:

"The Governor made it pretty clear those who didn't go along with him were through. At least I'm open about what I did. While others are getting favors for themselves and jobs for their relatives, at least I'm out getting things done for the people who elected me."

While such political hanky-panky isn't particularly new to the Pelican State, it nonetheless is distressing a sizeable group of Davis supporters. After Earl Long stepped down, voters turned to the infectious hillbilly singer as the least of evils. His opponents were Willie Rainach, an arch - segregationist unacceptable to moderates, and de Lesseps Morrison, the Catholic former mayor of New Orleans, unacceptable to Protestants and rural voters. Despite Jimmie's theatrical past and a lackluster World War II term as governor, there was some hope that even if he didn't uplift the governorship this time he might at least prevent further deterioration.

A RIDE UP THE STEPS

That hope has been sorely tested. Last fall Jimmie became the first Louisiana governor to gallop up the mountainous steps of the capitol and into his office on a white charger. Embarrassing as this horsing around was to the more optimistic Davis backers, other developments during his administration have rankled even more deeply. For example:

Members of the Plainsmen Quartet, which warbled with Mr. Davis on the campaign trail turned up on the public payroll in jobs ranging from insurance rate supervisor to inspectors in the Agriculture Department. Later investigation disclosed that the jobs did not interfere with the quartet's singing commitments throughout the country. The troubadours are no longer on the public payroll.

Another state official, John E. Coon, was indicted for keeping on the payroll a deputy fire marshal who, it was charged, did no work for the state but was employed full time by a chemical firm. The deputy, Gibson O. Kimberlin, also indicted, testified at a hearing that he received $1,250 in salaries during five months on the payroll. The indictments are still pending.

Though his critics claim to see the Governor's hand in these dealings, Mr. Davis says he was unaware of their existence before they were revealed. To a visitor, he confesses, "There are a lot of things that go on around me I don't know about, but most of the complaints depend on whose ox is being gored. I don't have to explain things to my friends and my enemies wouldn't believe me anyway."

Some of his aides, however, blame the frequent "scandals" on the Governor's weak hand at the helm, which allows associates to maneuver behind his back. Muses one state official, an oldtimer who has been in the state government since Huey's reign:

"Huey and Earl always knew exactly where all of the bodies were buried, who buried them and how to keep them buried. But Davis isn't as domineering, doesn't know quite how to threaten people. He lets things get out of hand."

Some suggest that this weakness was foreshadowed by Gov. Davis' first stay in the statehouse, during World War II. That term branded a "do nothing Davis" marking on the Governor, who spent much of his time making movies in Hollywood, cutting phonograph records, and wandering about the country on singing tours.

SUAVITY FOR CITY FOLK

This analysis, however, benefits in large measure from hindsight. For, in truth, the Governor ran things smoothly during his first term — itself something of an accomplishment in Louisiana politics. Moreover, he does exhibit a more sober side at times. For one thing, Gov. Davis holds a master's degree in psycholgy and formerly taught the subject at Louisiana State University. And, unlike Huey and Earl who capitalized exclusively on their hill - country manners, the governor does try to blend a little suavity for the city voters with his hillbilly approach designed for the upcountry folk.

Like the Longs, however, Gov. Davis tries a pocket book appeal to the voters. In relations with the Federal Government, he quietly bargains less racial disturbance for more Federal aid projects. He keeps welfare spending high, builds more roads and highways, steps up repair work on public landmarks, colleges, hospitals and prisons.

On the super - charged racial issue, Gov. Davis opposes desegregation, but his mild manner contrasts sharply with the belligerent stance assumed by some Southern governors. During the New Orleans desegregation "crisis" Gov. Davis was off "hunting" much of the time.

This desire to avoid the more inflammatory aspects of racial conflict helped Jimmie win the governorship. He was segregationist enough for the rural voters, but not too radical to suit the moderates.

But if this middle road got Mr. Davis to the governor's office for the second time, his performance since inauguration in May 1960, has veered sharply to clownish extremes.

Some friends say Jimmie is obsessed with the idea of eradicating the "do-nothing" label of his earlier term by making a name for himself this time. This, of course, is not easy in a state where the name Long has been dominant for so long. So, the Governor's friends reason, frustration has driven Jimmie to outlandish antics and accounts for his horseback ride up the capitol steps and the $1 million monument to his administration.

Whatever the reason even some of the Governor's closest friends no longer take him seriously. Says one: "Jimmie is like a lovable puppy dog caught in his first hailstorm. Things are falling all around him and he doesn't know what, why or where to run."

ESTIMATE OUTPUT

DETROIT—Car output this week will total an estimated 142,655 units or about one per cent below last week's assemblies, according to Ward's automotive reports. But production this week will be more than 50 per cent above out put in the corresponding 1961 week.

Anti-Communist Views Weakened

By U. S. SENATOR STROM THURMOND

Many indications of determination to muzzle military personnel and encumber their effectiveness against communism have been manifested in Department of Defense actions during 1961.

As far back as March 10, 1961, a Defense Department memorandum prohibited the use of the film "Operation Abolition" by the services in training military personnel, restricting it to an "on call" basis. This film is a documentary of actual communist-led rioting against the House Un-American Activities Committee in San Francisco in May, 1960.

I witnessed this despicable rioting by communist-duped students and teachers. I saw a known communist, Archie Brown, inciting students into irrational actions. J. Edgar Hoover has vouched for the fact that the riots were communist-inspired and led. The House Un-American Activities Committee has recently published a document entitled "The Truth About the Film 'Operation Abolition' " in answer to attacks by THE WORKER and by many leftist groups and publications.

The March 10 directive countermanded an Army directive of October 11, 1960, prescribing that "Operation Abolition" be "Utilized in the troop information program to the maximum extent possible." A subsequent order issued on May 19, 1961, further restricted the film to an "on-call basis for internal use only."

Some officers did not realize that the technical language used to ban the film was really a way of saying that the film was "strictly taboo." On June 14, 1961, two officers in Seattle were reprimanded and relieved of duty for allowing the film to be shown. The film was requested to be shown by reserve officers attending a collateral training drill period.

In addition to "Operation Abolition," other effective anti-communist films have been banned or shelved. In place of these anti-communist films, the Department of Defense substituted what I have described as a "namby-pamby, gutless" film, "Challenge of Ideas." This film conveys the false impression that military aggression is the only threat posed by communism and that we don't oppose communism itself.

More evidence of success of the campaign to gag anti-communism can be found in directives dated July 10, 1961, and October 5, 1961. The former is pregnant with censorship powers for Arthur Sylvester, Asisstant Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs. The other puts military officers on notice that they speak on the subject of communism at risk of grave peril to their military careers. In effect, it has all but ruled out military participation in anti-communist seminars and has even scared off some retired officers who have caught the true import of the directive.

Actions taken either directly or indirectly by the Defense Department resulted in the cancelling or postponement in Louisiana, Indiana, Illinois, Virginia and the Canal Zone of several planned seminars and discouragement of others in the embryonic stage.

The sum total of all actions taken against anti-communist statements and seminars, more of which will be discussed in subsequent articles, strikes at the very heart of what should be our principal strength in the war against the godless ideology of communism. This strength is the morale of both the Armed Services personnel and the civilian American public. Without good morale, the will to win, and the belief in our ability to win, the protracted conflict with communism cannot be resolved in our favor.

Board Postpones Funchess Action

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The East Baton Rouge Parish School Board Saturday voted 6-5 to postpone acceptance of any resignation by Supt. Lloyd V. Funchess and selection of a successor.

Funchess Friday was named superintendent of the State School for the Deaf here by the State Board of Education. Funchess did not offer any formal resignation Saturday from his school board post.

A special meeting was called to consider the matter. But the board decided to take it up at its regular meeting Thursday, giving members time to select a qualified successor to Funchess.

Guest Speaker

JONESVILLE (Special) — Bishop Aubrey Walton of the Louisiana Methodist Conference, will be the guest speaker at the First Methodist church in Jonesville on Sunday, Jan. 28 at 11 a.m., and at the Harrisonburg Methodist church at 2:45 p.m. on the same day.

Mayor, Board Praise Heads Of Departments

VIDALIA (Special) — A resolution complimenting the manner in which heads of the various departments of the City of Vidalia maintained service during the recent snow and sleet storm was passed at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen.

Mayor Sidney A. Murray, Jr., and the board cited the work done by the various departments in maintaining complete services without interruption and stated that the Utility Department headed by Virgil Jackson as well as others had done excellent work in maintaining service.

"We had several large valves to freeze and other obstacles," the mayor said, but operation was uninterrupted and utility plants of the city are now in complete working order."

Appreciation was also expressed to the Vidalia Law and Fire Departments for assisting in routing traffic over the Mississippi River bridge and in otherwise helping motorists to get through the ice, snow and sleet prevailing.

In addition to Mayor Murray, those signing the resolution were Aldermen A. J. Gardner, David O'Neal, Percy L. Rountree, Jr., W. T. Deal and William C. Moseley.

Police Probe Duplex Fire

Monroe police are investigating the cause of an early morning fire that caused partial damage to a Negro duplex apartment on Pine Street Saturday.

Officers were questioning a Negro juvenile in connection with the fire of a frame building located at 1205 Pine St.

Two units, numbers one and three, and ladder two from the Monroe fire department extinguished the fire in the apartment on Pine Street. They said the apartment on the east side of the building was undamaged.

The property was owned by Sylvester Breard and occupied by Negro Willie Lee Gilbert. Firemen were called to the fire by a neighbor of Gilbert's around 8:15 a.m. They said the blaze of undetermined causes started in the back bedroom.

Firemen also answered a call at 310 Collier St. earlier Saturday morning, but had to make two calls on the dwelling before putting the blaze completely out.

The one-story frame home of Alton Robinson at 310 Collier St. was filled with smoke around 2:30 a.m. and Robinson notified the fire department.

Trucks three and five answered the call, quickly extinquishing the blaze which began in the kitchen. Firemen said it was started when a broom next to the hot water heater ignited.

Later, at 5:09 a.m., they had to return to the house and extinquish another small blaze that had ignited from smoldering ashes left from the earlier flame.

Father Seized For Supplying Guns To Gangs

NEW YORK (AP)—Police Saturday seized a 29-year-old father they said had been supplying guns to Brooklyn teen-age gangs.

Officers identified him as Israel Eschevarria and said he had been doing a flourishing business for more than five months at prices up to $35 a gun.

Also seized when Eschevarria was arrested at his home, it was said, was an arsenal of 52 guns.

According to police, Eschevarria bought German-made .22 caliber pistols of a type used to start races and converted them into weapons by boring out the barrels in a workshop in his apartment.

His business was so good, they said, that he was able to outfit his apartment lavishly, buy a new car and put $6,000 in the bank.

Eschevarria, father of a 10-year-old son, was booked on a charge of possession of illegal weapons.

Nine 4-H Clubs Named Winners Of UG Awards

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Nine Louisiana 4-H Clubs have been named winners of Best Community 4-H Club awards presented annually by United Gas, according to C. S. Shirley, state club agent.

First place winners in their respective districts are St. James Jr. 4-H Club in St. James Parish, southeast district; Colfax 4-H Club in Grant Parish, central-southwest district, and Baskin Jr. 4-H Club in Franklin Parish, northern district. The St. James and Colfax clubs also were first place winners last year.

Second place winners, and their districts, are St. Francis de Sales 4-H Club in Terrebonne Parish, southeast district; St. Joseph Sr. 4-H Club in Pointe Coupee Parish, central - southwest district, and Collinston 4-H Club in Morehouse Parish, northern district.

Third place winners, and their districts, are St. John Sr. 4-H Club in Iberville Parish, southeast district; Iota Sr. 4-H Club in Acadia Parish, central - southwest district, and Farmerville Sr. 4-H Club in Union Parish, northern district.

The winners were chosen by officials of the Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service on the basis of their accomplishments toward the betterment of the communities in which they are located. United Gas will present each first place winner a $50 cash prize; the second place winners $30 each and the third place clubs $20 each.

United Gas has made similar awards for 14 consecutive years as part of its broad 4-H Junior Leadership program sponsored in cooperation with the Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service. Other phases of the program include trips to various state and national 4-H Club activities awarded each year to outstanding individual 4-H Club members.

In CLASS 3, Rambler Ambassador 270-hp V-8 scores over V-8 Chevrolets, Dodge Darts and Plymouths in economy!

The Rambler Ambassador V-8 "400"—one of America's true high-performance automobiles—has once again proved its top economy!

20.21 Miles Per Gallon

Two high-powered Rambler Ambassadors with overdrive scored first and second to amass the greatest number of points for "most miles per gallon" in Economy Test of Class 3 (301 to 361 cu. in.) in the 1962 Pure Oil Performance Trials. With its 20.21 miles per gallon, the action-packed Rambler Ambassador delivered the greatest gas economy of any V-8 in any class.

Point to remember: Rambler's proved gasoline economy goes hand-in-hand with lowest prices, lowest upkeep, and top resale value—full all-around economy from America's most trouble-free cars!

2,000,000 AIR CONDITIONERS CAN'T BE WRONG

Fedders, world's largest maker of Air Conditioning for the home, uses a proven engineering principle to bring you better whole-house cooling at a far lower cost.

FlexHermetic as shipped from the Fedders factory consists of outdoor section which is connected to indoor section by flexible copper tubing protected by sprial steel armor. Flexible tubing unfolds in seconds at the installation site.

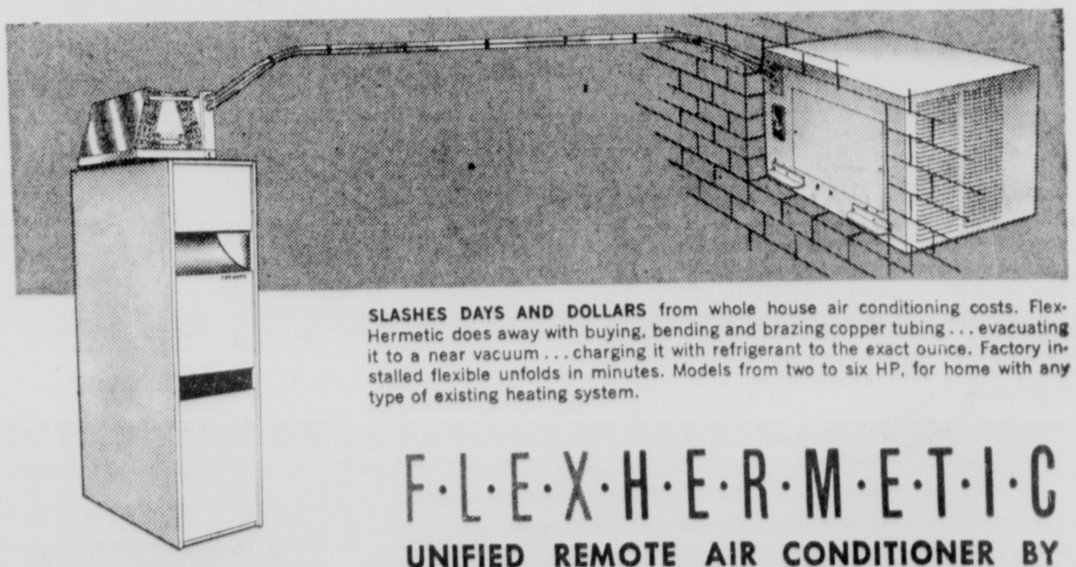

Among remote whole-house air conditioners, the Fedders FlexHermetic is unique. Instead of being shipped from the factory as several separate components to be connected together and hermetically charged with refrigerant under makeshift at-the-site conditions, FlexHermetic is completely assembled . . . charged . . . and tested in the Fedders factory under ridged controls.

In designing this new whole-house air conditioner, Fedders utilized the same manufacturing and test procedures it employed in making more than 2,000,000 Fedders Air Conditioners now serving throughout the world. Their enviable reputation for reliability and long life is due in large measure to the fact that all costly and critical hermetic assembly work was performed and tested in the factory . . . exactly as it is for these new FlexHermetic models.

FlexHermetic gets rid of all guesswork . . . hermetic assembly eliminates all the hazards which on-the-site problems hold for air conditioning enjoyment. Gets rid of most of the work, too. Slashes days and dollars from installation costs.

Authorized Fedders Contractors are ready to pass these savings on to you now. They can amount to hundreds of dollars. Telephone today for a survey of your home and a detailed estimate by a trained air conditioning specialist. No obligation of course.

SLASHES DAYS AND DOLLARS from whole house air conditioning costs. FlexHermetic does away with buying, bending and brazing copper tubing . . . evacuating it to a near vacuum . . . charging it with refrigerant to the exact ounce. Factory installed flexible unfolds in minutes. Models from two to six HP, for home with any type of existing heating system.

Officers Try To Identify Ferriday Bandit

FERRIDAY (Special) — Law enforcement officers here and in other areas of Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas are attempting to identify an unknown bandit who tied up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Calhoun in Ferriday Monday night after threatening to kill Calhoun.

According to Chief of Police Bob Warren of Ferriday, the bandit tied up and robbed Calhoun, 74, and his wife and said that he had been paid $5,000 by "the highest officer in Concordia Parish to kill Calhoun."

The Ferriday chief - of - police said that Calhoun had looked at police line - ups in Natchez, Vidalia and Ferriday, in an attempt to identify the culprit and he and Mrs. Calhoun went to Baton Rouge and Angola where they saw "mug shots" of known criminals and former Angola inmates.

Date Is Set On Reopening Negro School

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Southern University for Negroes said Saturday classes will resume Jan. 29, ending a temporary shutdown arising from students' anti-segregation activities.

A spokesman said notices will be mailed to students Monday, and registration will be held Thursday through Saturday.

President Felton G. Clark ordered the shutdown Thursday, after continued demonstrations by students and what he called vandalism and intimidation of student and faculty.

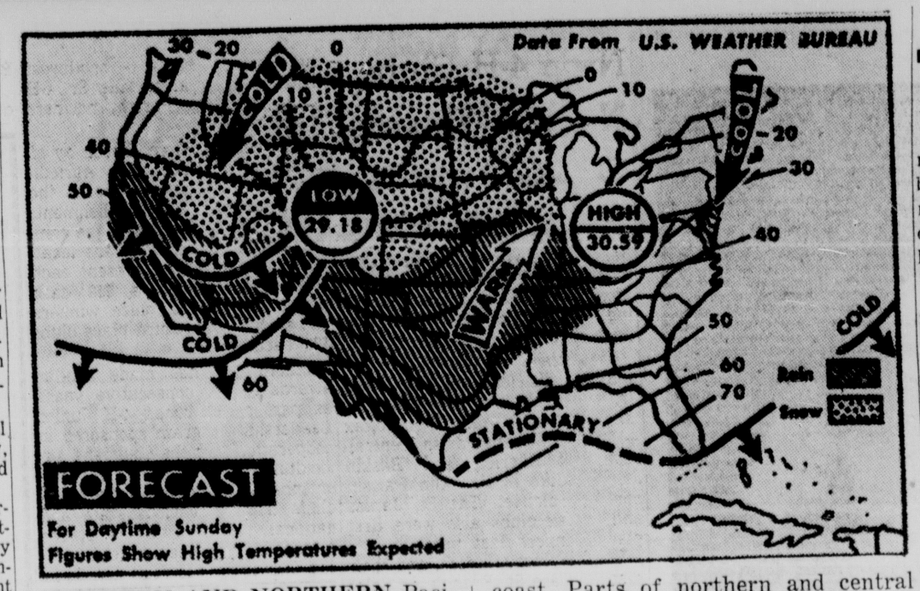

The Congress of Racial Equality had led Southern University students in demonstrations against segregation in Baton Rouge and on the school campus contrary to rules laid down for all colleges and universities under the State Board of Education.

Some 73 Southern students were arrested in mid-December, and seven of them were suspended by the university because their cases were unresolved.

Action against the other 66 was withheld pending outcome of the cases against the seven leaders.

Only three days of classroom work will be lost by students returning for the second semester. The first semester normally would have ended Friday, and second semester registration would have begun Monday for Thursday classes.

The university spokesman indicated students will be screened on basis of academic standing and other reasons.

SOUTHERN AND NORTHERN Pacific Plateau can expect precipitation Sunday as can area eastward through Mississippi Valley and part of the Lakes area. Snow is expected north of Central Plains and Plateau regions and mid-Mississippi valley with rain in southern areas and southern Pacific coast. Parts of northern and central plains, northern Mississippi Valley and the Lakes will get warmer. It will continue cool along eastern coast and continue colder in parts of northern Plains Plateau and Pacific Northwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Tech Faculty Appointments Are Approved

RUSTON (Special) — Appointments of three faculty members at Louisiana Tech and the naming of a men's dormitory under construction at the college here are among matters approved by the State Board of Education.

Dr. R. L. Ropp, Tech president, said Saturday the appointees will fill vacancies caused by resignations. They are:

Dr. Frederick E. Beckett, a member of the Agricultural Engineering faculty at Tech since 1952 who has been made head of that department succeeding Dr. John J. McDow. Dr. Beckett received the B.S. degree from Mississippi State College and the M.S. and PhD degrees from Oklahoma State University.

Mrs. June Dyson of Ruston, acting dean of women from Feb. 1 to June 30 succeeding Mrs. Martha Condra Hinkel. Mrs. Dyson, a native of Verda, received a B.S. degree from Northwestern State College and the M.A. from Texas Womens University.

Robert Paul Cantrel instructor in education and a psychologist, replacing Richard S. Mechem. Cantrell holds the bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Baylor University.

Following a recommendation of the Tech Alumni Assn., President Ropp asked the State Board of Education to name the new dormitory for men of the William Leroy Mitchell Hall.

Mitchell was a staff member at Tech for 34 years during which time he served as professor of engineering in the school of engineering and later as dean of men. He was named dean of men emeritus by the State Board of Education in 1953.

Dean Mitchell received the bachelors and masters degrees from Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The State Board also has approved specifications for furnishings for the new Mitchell Hall now being built and furnishings for a dormitory for women students now under construction, the latter dormitory has not been named.

In other action, the State Board approved preliminary plans for air conditioning Howard Auditorium and authorized the engineer to prepare specifications for advertising for bids. This air conditioning project as well as remolding the old library building will be financed from funds remaining in the sum appropriated for building the new library here.

Police Force Put On 8-Hour Shift In Vadilia

VIDALIA (Special) — The Mayor and Board of Aldermen have decided unanimously to put the local police department on 8 hour shifts.

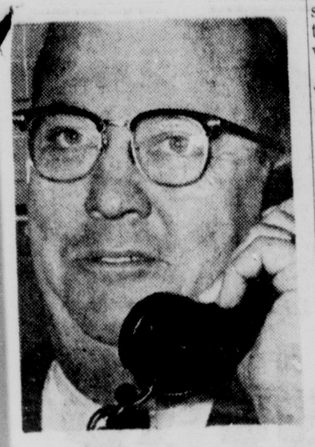

The recommendation was made by David O'Neal, police department alderman. The new hours will be 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.; 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. and 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. Under the old set - up each officer worked a 12 - hour shift

Alderman O'Neal said that he felt this move will increase the efficiency of the police department and offer better protection to the citizens of Vidalia. The new shifts went into effect immediately.

IN CONGRESSIONAL SESSION

Passman Forsees More Cuts From Foreign Aid

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

Congressman Otto E. Passman is confident that his committee will cut President Kennedy's foreign aid request for the next fiscal year, but critical of a "continuing socialistic trend" in Washington.

The Fifth District solon, who planned to leave today after coming home to address a rural electrification meeting here Friday, predicted a lengthy session of Congress despite the election year.

In an interview before his departure, Passman, chairman of the House sub-committee on foreign appropriations, touched on various items in the current session.

In short, he predicted the following:

1. Funds for the 9-foot channel in the Ouachita River will be allocated.

2. House Speaker John McCormack and President Kennedy will work together despite reported differences between the two.

3. He will oppose the President's medical care for the aged legislation.

4. His committee will again chop the foreign aid bill.

5. There is a lack of public support for the President's federal aid to education bill.

Here are the questions and answers from the Passman interview:

AS EFFECTIVE

Will Speaker McCormack be as effective as the late Sam Rayburn?

"I question whether he could be as effective as the late Mr. Sam, because he has not had the experience that Mr. Sam had. But I am of the opinion that the new Speaker will work untiringly to make a good speaker. There is a vacuum there, with Mr. Sam gone, that is very noticable. In my candid opinion, no real political or personal differences exist between Speaker McCormack and President Kennedy. They both know where they are trying to go and they will walk the road together."

What can the Fifth District expect from this session of Congress?

"I have been asked the question about projects for the Fifth District. I can assure the people of the Fifth District that as a member of the committee on appropriations, having a say on all appropriations, that my district will continue to fare well with the respect to adequate funds to continue the all - important flood control protection program started many years ago that is now approaching completion."

Will funds for the 9-foot channel be allocated?

"I predict that I will have no difficulty in obtaining funds for the 9-foot channel development when funds are needed. Presently, the pre-construction plans are yet to be completed and until we have a firm plan for the channel, additional funds may be somewhat difficult to justify."

What is your position on the President's medical care for the aged legislation?

"If I had any convincing proof that the present Kennedy medical care bill would help the intended recipients, I could give it more sympathetic consideration. But in other parts of the world, history has proved that in the end personal attention from the family physician disappeared and the planned recipients suffered rather than benefited. Without a doubt, there is some merit to the proposal for medical aid to the aged, but its disadvantages far outnumber any advantages. I am of the opinion that the Kennedy proposal, if enacted, would be another step toward outright socialism and solialized medicine. If think the American people, including the anticipated recipeints, should think this thing over very carefully before stamping their approval on it."

Will there be a second effort by the administration to pass the federal aid to education bill?

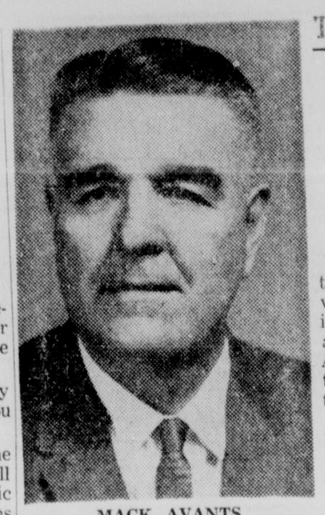

"Without a doubt, there will be a very strong effort on the part of the administration to get an outright federal aid to education bill through this session of Congress, not withstanding the fact that there is a lack of public support for such a bill. The desire to control the educational system and dictate its textbooks may prompt the administration to go all out for a federal aid to education bill. And again I question any differences of opinion between the President and Speaker McCormack, as you may have read in the news medias."

Will election year have any bearing on the session? Do you expect a short session?

"I see no indication that the present session of Congress will be a short one. The Democratic party has substantial majorities in both branches of Congress and it may be that they will feel that by keeping the Congress in session that would serve as an advantage to the incumbents, especially if certain socialistic proposals start getting through. This would encourage the powers that be to strive for even more of the administration's many unusual proposals. I have been asked the question many times if it wouldn't be to may advantage to support the administration on a lot of its, what I cann socialistic proposals. My answer will always be that I have an obligation to think of the next generation rather than the next election."

What do you expect in the foreign aid fight?

"The foreign aid request for the next fiscal year is about $5 billion, which is a substantial increase over last year's request. This is another indication that our foreign policy has degenerated to where it is simply a matter of our checkbook. I shall this year as in previous years be methodical, consistent, in conducting the hearings on the request. I feel that I will again be fortified with facts to establish more waste than ever, more double-crossing on the part of the receiving nations than ever before, and with these facts reduce the request very substantially."

Vandals Cost State Money In Road Signs

BATON ROUGE (Special) — A highway sign may save a life in time.

Or yet it may cost one, according to Highway Director Ray W. Burgess, commenting upon extensive vandalism of signs along Louisiana's vast network of more than 15,000 miles of highways.

"Each year some $150,000 of the taxpayer's money goes down the drain in replacing highway signs due to vandalism alone," Burgess pointed out.

The highway director said that Louisiana has an investment of more than $1,800,000 in highway signs. This does not include the giant Interstate program, 90 per cent of which is financed by the federal government.

"However," he added, "after initial installation, maintenance of these expensive signs on the Interstate revert to the state. Whereas a simple stop or directional sign may cost as little as $12 to $15, some of the Interstate installations may run as high at $30,000 according to size and type."

The number of signs along Louisiana highways averages about 10 to the mile, or an approximate overall of 150,000. Each year, some 50,000 have to be replaced for one cause or another, about one-third being attributed to outright vandalism.

BAD DAY ALL DAY

PEMBINE, Wis. (AP) — It was just one of those days for William Anderson, who farms and also has a job in a garage.

At 7:30 a.m., a cream separator exploded, cutting his face, neck, arms and legs.

At 9 a.m., a car battery foamed up and splattered his clothes with battery acid.

At 2 p.m., a jack handle slipped and cut him on the nose.

At 6 p.m., Anderson slipped on ice and sprained an ankle.

TUESDAY NIGHT

Louisiana Tech Graduation Set

RUSTON (Special) — Graduation exercises at Louisiana Tech will be held in Howard Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, with the address to be given by Mack Avants of Baton Rouge, executive assistant for higher education in Louisiana.

The graduating class includes 184 students, 21 of whom are seeking masters' degrees. Two candidates for degrees not previously announced are:

James Clyde McKay of Monroe, master of arts in elementary education, and Simeon Heniger Wall of Tallulah, bachelor of science in liberal arts.

Final examinations, beginning on Thursday morning of this week, will end Wednesday morning.

Registration for the spring semester is scheduled for Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 in Memorial Gymnasium.

Physical examinations will be given over a three-day period beginning Jan. 30 for new students and Tech students who have completed four or five semesters at the college here.

Classes for the new semester will begin at 8 a.m. on Friday, Feb. 2.

Natchez Girl Receives Best Wishes Of JFK

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — Catherine Lorena Case, the 12-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Case of Natchez has received a letter from the White House signed "With Best Wishes" by President John F. Kennedy.

Some time ago, Catherine, a seventh grade student at the Cathedral Elementary School in Natchez, wrote a letter to the President, asking for his autograph. In less than two weeks she received a letter postmarked White House, Washington, D. C., with the president's signature and best wishes.

Catherine is proudly displaying the letter. It was placed on the school's bulletin board by her teacher, Sister Mary Joseph, and Catherine intends to keep it "as long as I live because it will be a prize possession," she said. "Only in the United States could a little girl hear from the chief executive of the nation," she declared.

Rural Progress With Electric Use Reviewed

"Twenty years of progress in rural Concordia, LaSalle, Catahoula, and parts of Tensas and Grant parishes is indicated by the growth and public acceptance of Concordia Electric Cooperative," E. E. Taylor, manager of Concordia Electric, said recently in an interview.

"It was just 20 years ago on January 29 that Concordia Electric energized its first 132 miles of lines, serving 182 families in Concordia parish only," Taylor recalled. "Today the Co - op serves 6,201 families on 1,411 miles of lines, and these families represent at least 24,000 persons.

"Until Concordia Electric began operations 20 years ago this month, these rural folks could not get electricity. Less than two per cent of them had this modern convenience.

"Today the Co-op maintains 99 percent rural area coverage.

"On the money it has borrowed, the Co-op now pays interest at the rate of $183 per day. And we are ahead of our re - payment schedule on loans and interest."

The Almanac

By United Press Intlernational

Today is Sunday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of the year with 344 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The evening star is Mercury.

On this day in history:

In 1861, Sen. Jefferson Davis resigned from the U.S. Senate, 12 days after Mississippi seceded from the Union.

In 1874, Morrison R. Waite of Ohio became chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, succeeding the late Salmon P. Chase.

In 1918, the Soviet Council of People's Commissars ruled that all foreign debts incurred by the former Czarist government were "absolutely and without exception" null and void.

A thought for the day: American Roman Catholic Bishop Fulton J. Sheen once said: Baloney flattery so thick it cannot be true, and blarney is flattery so thin we like it."

Lemon Flavor Recipe Checks Rheumatic and Arthritis Pain

If you suffer the nagging minor pains of rheumatism, arthritis or neuritis, try this simple inexpensive home recipe that thousands are using. Get a can of RU-EX Compound, a 2 weeks supply, today. Mix it with a quart of water, flavor with the juice of 4 lemons. It's easy! No trouble at all and pleasant. You need only 3 tablespoonfuls 2 times a day. Often within 48 hours—sometimes overnight—splendid temporary results are obtained. If the pains do not quickly leave and if you do not feel better, return the empty can and RU-EX will cost you nothing. You are the sole judge as RU-EX is sold by your druggist on a money back guarantee. Over 7 million cans used. ADV.

Home-Owned Electric Co-op Pioneers Pathways to Progress

1938 Less Than 2% of the Parish's Rural Homes and Farms Had Electricity.

1962 The Local Member-owned Electric Co-op Provides 99% Area Coverage —a National Record With Immeasurable Benefits to Town and Country Prosperity.

CARVING NEW PATHWAY to Progress in Remote Area of Parish . . . Will Mean More Business.

WHAT TOTAL AREA COVERAGE MEANS TO THE PARISH . . (Provides Balance)

The rural power line in our picture was sliced through a wilderness to serve a few needy families along a remote river bank. Perhaps it doesn't look like much today, but in a few tomorrows it'll serve a thriving self-supporting community with modern homes, recreational camps, and, possibly, a small industry.

Progress always follows rural power lines. Everybody benefits, both Town and Country . . . More jobs, more production, bigger payrolls—better living.

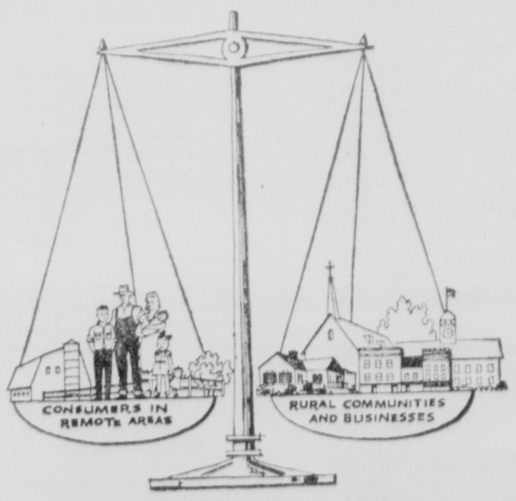

Why was it necessary to invest so much to serve so few? Well, the prosperity of our towns, our communities—our parish—state, and nation, depends upon the TOTAL economic and social progress of ALL our people. It is vitally important that ALL citizens have access to such community-building services as ELECTRICITY at reasonable costs.

Total area coverage with electric service at competitive prices is a bold, new concept in the electric utility business—the exclusive brain-child of non-profit, member-owned Electric Co-ops. These local private enterprises are dedicated to serving ALL who need and want electricity regardless of financial or social standing.

In 1938, when less than 2% of the rural homes and farms in the parish had electricity, some called the "area coverage concept" a pipe dream. But, today the Co-op offers 99% area coverage—a national record with immeasurable benefits to Town and Country progress, especially to mainstreet business and industry.

Locally-owned and managed, Electric Co-ops pay their own way. They are STILL the ONLY way ALL rural people can have electricity at rates ALL can afford.

Just think what that means to the continued progress of our Parish.

If Co-ops had been told they couldn't serve cross-roads and new business in their service areas, there'd be little rural electricity today. Electric Co-ops must be allowed to develop their territories to enable service at reasonable rates to remote areas, back-forty farmers, etc.

Annual Meet Of Crossett Chamber Set

CROSSETT (Special) — Miss Willie Lawson, of Little Rock, will be the principal speaker at the Annual meeting and banquet of the Crossett Chamber of Commerce Thursday, Jan. 25, at 7 p.m. at the Rose Inn in Crossett.

Miss Lawson, a business executive with the Democrat Printing and Lithographing Company in Little Rock, was a member of the Arkansas Highway Commission for four years.

She was the only woman in Arkansas and in the United States to hold such a position.

In recent years she was Arkansas Woman of the Year in a major newspaper poll, is a past president of Arkansas Retired Teachers Asso., and teaches a Sunday School class in Little Rock, which bears her name. Her subject for the Chamber of Commerce banquet will be, "How it Got That Way."

Also included on the evening's program will be recognition of local industries which have completed major expansion of their plants or have such expansion underway.

TO SPLIT STOCK

NEW YORK—Directors of Associated Dry Goods Corp. announced plans to split the common stock two for on and to increase the dividend rate on the new stock. The increase would place the new dividend on a $1.40 annual basis which would be equal to $2.80 a share on the present shares.

Medical Tests Solve 'Malady' At Twist Dance

TIMMINS, Ont. (AP)—A mystery malady which knocked out 22 twisters at a teen-age dance in the Community Center here Friday night was solved Saturday by blood tests which showed the victims had suffered carbon monoxide poisoning.

Doctors were unable at first to pinpoint the cause of fainting spells which hit 21 teen-agers and an adult after a number of twist tunes had been played. The dancers started fainting without warning and were taken to a hospital, where some had to be revived as often as four times. The last dancer had left the hospital by Saturday morning.

Dr. Aurele Bergeron, who conducted the blood tests, said the spasms suffered by the dancers would happen after extreme exertion such as would be experienced by doing the twist.

So much car for so little money deserves a medal...

CHEVY II WINS AWARD FOR ENGINEERING EXCELLENCE!!!

This is the Nova 400 Sport Coupe, just one of 11 Chevy II models you can pick from.

The men who know cars best put Chevy II to the test. And, after they had compared it with the rest of the '62 crop, the editors of Car Life magazine picked Chevy II for their coveted Engineering Excellence Award. Why? Well, here are just a few of the reasons in the editors' own words: "We think the Chevy II, in either 4- or 6-cylinder form, represents an important development in the American automotive field. . . .

"The car is maximum transportation at minimum cost—minimum in both initial price and cost of operation." And sprinkled throughout the editors' reports on the engineering and road testing you'll find authoritative accolades like "easy maintenance and service" . . . "long wearing ruggedness" . . . "simple elegance" . . . "modern in concept and design" . . . "reasonable size" . . . "sound and solid" . . . "delightful car to drive" . . . "up to date as the missile age."

Get the full story on the spunky, stylish Chevy II in the February, 1962, issue of Car Life. Or, better yet, get on down to your Chevrolet dealer's and see for yourself why liveliness, luxury and low price have never been more beautifully blended!

Editors Rate Kennedy's First Year

EDITOR'S NOTE: It's been a crowded and difficult 12 months for President John F. Kennedy. At the end of his first year in office, what does the balance sheet show? What's the future likely to bring?

You'll find informed — and informative — answers in a candid symposium, by leading U. S. editors and publishers, on this page.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A year and a day ago in cold, snow - covered Washington, John F. Kennedy took the oath of office and delivered a short but eloquent inaugural address.

"Let us begin anew," the youngest man ever elected to the American presidency proposed. "Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans . . ."

If the generation was new, the problems it faced were not. Overriding most other concerns as Kennedy took over was the Cold War. There were splutters in the domestic economy. Unemployment was considerable. Farm surpluses continued to glut the nation's agricultural coffers. And then there was Castro.

QUESTIONS

How is the President making out at the end of his first 12 months in office, in the opinion of observers who keep daily tabs on national and international affairs? What's the administration's outlook for the future?

The Associated Press asked a number of leading editors and publishers throughout the country for their appraisal of the first Kennedy year and its portents of things to come.

The assessments, of course, varied. If the general tone of the majority seemed favorable, few were unequivocal either in praise or condemnation.

They ranged from statements that Americans "on the whole have just cause to be proud of their President" who has "the respect and support" of most citizens to verdicts that Mr. Kennedy's record "is mainly full of sound alone" and that his advisers "have led the administration from one mistake into another."

EVALUATION

Evaluation of the administration's outlook included predictions that the President would have continued trouble with Congress, that support for his foreign policy would broaden, that his leadership would profit by the experiences of his first year, and that U. S. relations with the European Common Market, and the question of American trade policies, would be among the key issues of the second year.

To a man, contributors to the symposium deplored the Cuban debacle. But the President came in for praise, among other things, for his vigorous handling of the Berlin crisis, for stronger leadership after a slow beginning, for greater realism in dealing with foreign affairs, and for his interview with Izvestia which spread his views before a large Soviet audience.

Major criticisms, in addition to the Cuban fiasco, dealt with assorted foreign policy weaknesses, trouble with NATO allies over policy toward the Congo, Angola, and underdeveloped nations, high domestic spending and delay in ordering a resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Following are the individual appraisals, either personal expressions by editors and publishers in response to the AP survey or condensations of newspaper editorials on the subject.

Roy A. Roberts, president, Kansas City Star:

Last January I predicted Mr. Kennedy would be a great president, or a bust. The story is yet to be told. Thus far, it is more plus than minus.

The administration fumbled on foreign affairs almost at once — Cuba, Laos, and too much talking. Experience has been a hard teacher. There has been a firming up of policy with wider public acceptance.

World tensions have overshadowed domestic affairs so there is little basis for judgment. Considerable recovery, yes. But we have yet to see whether Kennedy can hold the line on spending, avoid inflation and get the national growth rate really rolling. I hope he can.

Robert B. Choate, editor and publisher, Boston Herald-Traveler:

In a world changing so fast that today's success may be tomorrow's disaster, I am convinced the Kennedy administration has done — on the whole — an outstanding job in 1961.

Except for the Castro disaster the president has shown great courage, firmness and resolution. His domestic policies may give us conservatives concern, but no one can deny the great prosperity of the country.

With his tremendous problems, I say good luck to him and success.

A statement by the Dallas Morning News:

The News feels, and has so expressed editorially, that his administration has been weak, uncertain and inconsistent in forging a foreign policy to combat international communism.

On the domestic front, we feel his administration has pushed the New Frontier too far. Spending has been grossly excessive. No effort is being made to balance the budget or cut down the debt. We cannot survive unless the dollar is stable and merits world confidence.

Our criticisms are not against Mr. Kennedy personally, but against his policies.

Barry Bingham, editor and publisher, Louisville Courier-Journal and Times:

Kennedy isn't the first president to have the rhythm of planned progress on domestic affairs disrupted by explosive foreign events. Stumbling badly on Cuba, he has given good evidence of learning by experience. He impresses by coolness, by clarity of thought and speech. He exhibits the root requirement for presidential greatness — ability to grow under fierce White Hiuse pressures.

Prediction: Continued trouble with Congress on domestic issues, increasing support on foreign policy.

From an editorial for the Scripps - Howard Newspapers:

President Kennedy appears a steadier and wiser man (but) still has to prove himself. With the unfortunate exception of the Cuban fiasco, (he) has rated rather high marks in foreign affairs. This is notably true in his dealings with Khrushchev.

He has refused to give ground on fundamentals but avoided big talk and needless provocation, leaving the way open for the Soviets to negotiate with good grace if negotiaton is what they want . . . If it is war the Soviets intend, Kennedy has moved promptly to build up military strength . . .

Notably among his washouts is the so - called farm program, a billion - dollar mess . . . The president has promised a balanced budget for next year and seems to mean it, indicating he has soured on the idea we can borrow and spend ourselves into prosperity . . .

Barring trouble abroad, the most important issue of Mr. Kennedy's next three years probably will have to do with trade policies. The decision here may prove historic. Do we retreat into economic isolationism or do we get out into the world and compete?

These and other issues will take . . . guts. We hope he's got 'em. For we want him to succeed. The welfare of the country, and perhaps its very survival, depends on it.

Paul Miller, editor and publisher, Rochester (NY) Times-Union:

Like most administration in our history, that of John F. Kennedy has not always matched promise with performance. In domestic matters, politics as usual largely prevails despite inspiring talk indicating priority for the national interest.

In foreign affairs, the administration stumbled on Cuba and has not fully recovered since. I believe President Kennedy has the stuff, but was slow getting going, for various reasons, in 1961. I predict better for him in 1962.

From an editorial in the Chicago Tribune:

That mawkish term "togetherness" rather fittingly describes the foreign policy objectives of the United States at the moment, but the more we seek to cuddle, the more other countries draw coldly away. Even our best friends won't tell us. Their diminishing taste for togetherness makes it sometimes seem as if only the Russians are our friends, and you know how friendly they are.

At the U.N. (we) teamed up with the Soviet Union in sponsoring a new resolution to promote the aimless quest for disarmament ... At the Paris conference of Western foreign ministers there was ill-concealed suspicion of our motives and purposes in both Berlin and the Congo... In Viet Nam they are unhappy with us ... In Belgium they march against the U.S. embassy...Portugal ieily upbraids us....

When one looks back on the rosy picture delineated in last year's campaign by Mr. Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson on how American foreign policy was going to blossom out like the unfolding petals of the rose, one yearns for the familiar lunacies of Eisenhower, Truman, or even Roosevelt.

Walter Annenberg, publisher, Philadelphia Inquirer:

At the close of his first year in office President Kennedy has, I believe the respect and the support of a majority of the people of this country. His administration has acted, except in the unfortunate Cuban episode, with vigor and clarity. On most of the great issues of the day the President has firmly established his leadership.

On a personal note, as a member of a large family myself, I admire the loyalty, the spirit and the hearty team play of the Kennedy family.

Marshall Field Jr., president and publisher, Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News:

On balance, I believe the President has domestic and foreign problems well in hand. Following the Cuba and Laos disasters his policies have firmed.

I admire his handling of the Berlin crisis and his decision to take a firm stand in South Viet Nam.

I disagree in two areas with administration policy. Our course in the Congo strikes me as misguided. Second, I think it imperative that we do not further delay atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons.

President Kennedy's concern over the outflow of gold, and his determination to balance the budget are commendable.

The important story in coming months will be our relationship with the Common Market.

Robert C. Notson, managing editor, Portland Oregonian:

The Kennedy administration began zestfully, has been sobered by responsibility for momentous problems. It has enjoyed good success with Congress. But foreign affairs have seen intensification of old crises.

Kennedy has been involved in a fiasco in Cuba and sucked into a morass of trouble in East Asia and the Congo. Berlin and the nuclear arms race remain terrifyingly threatening. Labor declines cooperation to defeat inflation. Our allies, strong with infusion of American dollars, seek economic advantage while shirking financial support for world defense and aid to underdeveloped peoples. The deficit burgeons. Isn't this where the Eisenhower administration went out?

Newbold Noyes Jr., executive editor, Washington Star:

Kennedy's first year is a case study in the difference between word and deed. Few candidates ever talked a brasher campaign, yet the job itself seemed to convert him almost overnight into a model of caution. Cuba, his one lapse, only reinforced the trend. This, of course, is to his credit. A weaker man might have felt compelled to live up to his "image."

Erwin D. Canham, editor, Christian Science Monitor:

The Kennedy administration's first year has been more stable, less experimental, than the Democratic campaign platform and pledges would have indicated. Foreign policy differed little from the Eisenhower administration, though its implementation somewhat ran into conflicts between the strong group of advisors in the executive office and elsewhere outside the State Department.

The Berlin crisis was faced vigorously at year's end. However, many problems loom ahead: a more definitive solution on Berlin, the great battle over foreign trade policy, the Congo mess, the continued Cuban infection, the weakness in Southeast Asia.

President Kennedy has found that miracles cannot be achieved readily, nor the power position in the world altered by oratory and good intentions.

From an editorial in the New Orleans Times - Picayune:

The first year of the Kennedy administration . . . is closing on a higher note than it opened.

Low spot of the year . . . was April, when invasion of Cuba by Cubans assisted by the U. S. government failed. The President manfully accepted responsibility for the debacle.

In recent weeks there have been several cheering developments: (a) when (Ribbicoff) announced his intention to inject a "great new spirit" into the nation's fast-growing welfare program . . . to catch relief chiselers, (b) President Kennedy pointing out realistically the needs (for) protecting (U. S.) foreign trade, (c) the publication in Izvestia . . . of its editor's interview with the President . . . of great significance, (d) the President's call, on Nov. 14, for "careful and frugal" spending and (e) another plus . . . Kennedy's visit to Venezuela and Colombia.

Nick B. Williams, editor, Los Angeles Times:

The Kennedy administration, narrowly elected and quickly demoralized by the Cuban catastrophe, seemed at year's end fighting off new disasters. What it had gained on Red China's rejection by the U. N. it certainly lost at Goa. What it may have gained in Laos it probably was losing in the Congo, and possibly in Scandinavia.

Domestically, it lost more than it won in Congress, and the racial issue became even more explosive. The President swung accurately at extremism but was off target on the press.

Few of his problems began during his administration but even fewer could he claim he had solved. Despite all this, his popularity increased. The American people were praying for him, for if he failed the defeat was theirs.

Kenneth MacDonald editor, Des Moines Register and Tribune:

Internationally the administration's accomplishments, except for Cuba, are all that could reasonably be expected.

Action at times seemed disorganized compared with the force and clarity of administration pronouncements, but negotiations with Russia are in progress and the danger of war has lessened.

The necessity of a firmer alliance of the free nations is recognized and a more realistic foreign aid policy is developing. Domestically the pattern is less clear, but Congress and economic forces probably will steer the administration more to the center than to the left in 1962.

William Randolph Hearst Jr., editor-in-chief, the Hearst newspapers:

I think Americans on the whole have just cause to be proud of their President.

Against great odds, the young senator from Massachusetts, John F. Kennedy, succeeded last year in getting himself elected to the presidency of the United States—a job which I am sure has turned out to be a lot tougher than he had ever imagined it to be.

On the home front he has done his best to deliver on his pre-election promises. In the foreign field, after taking a bad shellacking in Cuba and suffering what must have been keen disappointment and frustration from Krushchev's broken promises in Asia, he went, in the words of John Foster Dulles, " to the brink of war" over Berlin and regained the respect of the free world by winning the day for our country's position and principles.

With these experiences behind him I believe that he will profit by them and give our country and the world the kind of capable leadership that will be expected of him, and that this great country of ours deserves.

James S. Copley, chairman of the Corporation, The Copley Press, Inc.:

To describe a problem does not solve it. This is a fact that President Kennedy must be well aware of after a year of earnest searching and troublesome readjustment.

It is encouraging that Mr. Kennedy now knows that to be a strong executive — as he sees the Presidency — will require, not snap judgment, but wise counsel.

This counsel, if he is to lead, must be made representative of all the people.

Eugene C. Pulliam, publisher, Phoenix Gazette and Arizona Republic:

Despite President Kennedy's obvious and sincere determination to solve the many problems confronting the nation, his advisers have led his administration into one mistake after another. The foulup in Cuba, the irresolution in Southeast Asia, and the support of U. N. aggression against Katanga — the last two of which have badly splintered the NATO alliance — are three examples of the administration's foreign policy failures.

However, during recent weeks President Kennedy has given evidence of becoming a real leader. His visit to South America was a brilliant and timely success. He has said we need firmness abroad and frugality at home. If he follows through on this promise, he will have the enthusiastic support of an overwhelming number of Americans.

Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher, Denver Post:

President Kennedy is steering a realistic course in a period marked by some of the most grave and complex problems the nation has ever faced.

He has been building America's strength as a basis for his firm stand against Russia, but at the same time has kept the door open to negotiations that have any serious chance of increasing the prospects of peace.

John Kennedy has had some setbacks — the Cuban invasion was the outstanding one — but, in general, he has done as well as, and in some respects better than, anyone has a right to expect in an age as difficult as this one.

From an editorial in the Philadelphia Bulletin:

On balance, it is those who voted against (President Kennedy) who seem the more pleasantly surprised by the actual record of 1961. The aggressive young man of 1960 has shown himself less reckless — at least since the Cuban affair — than his campaign rhetoric had made him appear.

Yet nagging doubts remain;

In the domestic field, how much of the showing of growing responsibility has, in fact, only been forced upon him by a more sober-minded Congress?

In the foreign field, there have been distressing developments: the Cuban debacle, a retreat from strong words in Laos, growing quarrels with our NATO allies over policy on Berlin, Angola and the Congo. Could surer leadership have produced a better record? Has our national prestige gained or lost?

From an editorial in the New York Daily News:

How is Mr. Kennedy doing at the end of his first year in office? We'd say he hasn't done as well as his political and press fawners and flatterers say he has, or as badly as is supposed by his out and out political and press enemies.

He . . . presented Congress with a fantastic fistful of proposals for doing something for any number of special groups — youth, farmers, old people, and so on — at enormous cost to the taxpayers.

Congress' majorities of conservative Republicans and Democrats slapped most of these handouts down. The White House didn't go all - out to resist the conservatives — which leads one to hope that Mr. Kennedy at heart is not as prodigal as he seems.

On the foreign affairs front, the Kennedy record to date has been spotty at best.

If he holds Khrushchev in his tracks in Berlin (as Eisenhower did) or rolls him back, he'll have deserved well, not only of the Republic, but the whole free world. If he betrays Berlin, intentionally or unintentionally, we'd all better prepare as best we may for a nuclear war sooner or later — with West Germany quite possibly allied with Moscow.

Ralph McGill, Atlanta Constitution:

From the Carribean to the Congo, the difficulty of choices that face America becomes clear. President Kennedy is manfully and ably making the right choices, in our opinion, basing them on what is wise and backing them with power.

They are not simple choices. They are not the easy ones to make — witness the decisions on the Dominican Republic and the Congo — in the face of intense political opposition. But they are clear.

On the home front, in civil rights and domestic programs, the choices have not been easy either: But they have been made and reflect national needs. President Kennedy is emerging as a strong leader and shows signs of becoming the strong president that was predicted when he was elected.

James J. Kilpatrick, editor, Richmond News Leader:

Mr. Kennedy certainly has raised the intellectual tone of the White House. He made a good appointment in McNamara and scored a ten - strike in McCone. In the lovely Jackie, he has the closest thing to a national dream girl since the sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

Otherwise, the picture is bleak. Mr. Kenedy draws in pastels — a pale gray indecisiveness abroad, a pale pink liberalism here at home. He makes some eloquent speeches, but they turn out to be all foam and no beer. His record is not even full of sound and fury, his record is mainly full of sound alone, but it still signifies nothing and Mr. Khrushchev knows it.

Once the country wearies of Mr. Kennedy's charm, we will see him, with a shock, as the poorest president since Harding, perhaps the poorest since Arthur.

John S. Knight, Editor and Publisher, The Knight Newspapers:

I have been pleased with the first year of President Kennedy. This is not to say that I am enamoured of all his associates or in complete agreement with administration policies. Much of the fuzziness of the New Frontier still beclouds the national horizon. But there is less theoretical nonsense . . and more hard thinking ... Jack Kennedy took (the Cuban) blow like a man. Cuba marked the turning point in the Kennedy Administration. As of that moment it began to mature.

The Kennedy - Khrushchev conference at Vienna proved to the President that we are dealing with no clowning buffoon ... The Russian premier is shrewd and dangerous ... I have liked the President's firmness and lack of bluster on Berlin. He isn't threatening anyone but says we'll fight if pushed too far. Khrushchev can understand that kind of talk.

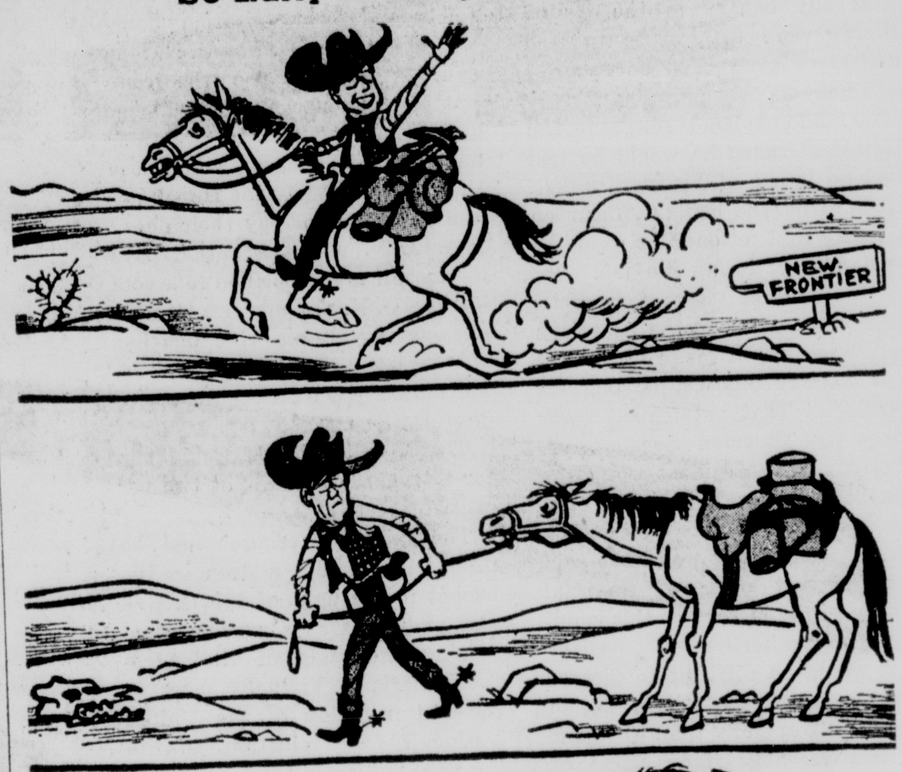

No problems are being ignored or swept under the rug. And if some cabinet members occasionally make jackasses of themselves, the President carries himself with dignity and a proper reserve. John F. Kennedy has the qualities to become a great President ... My best wishes to a valiant young man, beset by many trials and saddened by the illness of his distinguished father.

U.N. Bombs For Boobs

If any banker in the United States were to propose to lend $1,000 or even $100 on security as flimsy as that proposed for the $200 million in bonds sought by the United Nations, he would be told to lend it out of his own pocket. If he lent the bank's funds on security that unsound he would be in danger of losing his job.

"The biggest piece of financial fakery presented to the American people recently is the proposal that this country buy United Nations 'bonds.' " That statement was made by Thurman Sensing, executive vice-president of the Southern States Industrial Council. Instead of saying "recently," Mr. Sensing might well have said the "biggest piece of financial fakery in the history of this country or ony other.

It would be difficult to picture the hopelessness of the situation any more forcefully than was done in two recent cartoons. One of them showed President Kennedy saying "I'll give you a hot tip—bet $100 million on United Nations." The caption read, "Betting on a Dead Horse." In the picture, however, the horse, bearing the initials "U. N.," not only was dead but had been reduced to a shattered skeleton. The other cartoon showed President Kennedy saying, "He'll bail out." Uncle Sam was in a leaky boat labeled "U.N." and was trying to bail it out with a bucket labeled "$100 million in bonds." The bad part of the situation, though, was that the boat was already at the bottom of the ocean and dipping out with the bucket never lessened the amount of water.

Those two situations show just how much chance we have of getting any return on our money, either financial or otherwise.

Issuance of United Nations bonds was approved by the U. N. general assembly in December. Shortly thereafter, President Kennedy proposed that the United States buy half of the bonds. It is doubtful that any other country would buy any of them, particularly Russia, which does not bet on dead horses nor try to bail out boats that are already far under the water.

The upshot would be that the United States, at best, would buy half of the bonds, while the entire rest of the world would buy the other half. Chances are we would buy half and the other countries would not buy any.

Citing the current U. N. deficit of $107 million, expected to reach near $200 million by next June, the general assembly said the only way to keep the organization going was to issue bonds. The U. N. is in debt largely because the communist-bloc nations and some others have refused to pay their dues. What chance would the U. N. have to repay the money unless those nations pay their dues?

Actually, unless a nation pays its dues, it is not entitled to a vote but the U. N. not only has let non-dues-paying Russia vote but has allowed it to veto, on 100 occasions, the majority vote of the entire organization.

The so-called bonds would run for a term of 25 years, at two per cent interest.

The initial offering would be $200 million, only a drop in the bucket in the light of the U. N.'s new ambitions as a warlike force serving the ends of the Afro-Asian nations. Virtually none of the 104 members of the United Nations had any reluctance to vote the $200 million in bonds, as there was no expectation that any of them except the United States would be foolish enough to buy any of them.

No matter how one looks at this whole bond issue proposal, it is an insult to the intelligence of Americans and other western peoples. It is inconceivable that even President Kennedy should have fallen for such a deal and that he should not have realized the affront against this country.

In the first place, these so-called "bonds" are no such thing. A legitimate bond involves a guarantee of repayment with interest. The United Nations not only cannot make such a guarantee but there was no probability and no expectation that repayment would be made. The whole thing is simply a scheme to make the United States, which has already borne not only most of the burden of financing the United Nations operations but most of its unjustified armed interference in the affairs of other nations, come across with another $100 million. This would enable the U. N. to engage in more wars for the benefit of Russia and the communist bloc.

If the United Nations were a municipality, it could not raise five cents by a bond arrangement. Experts in bond financing would term it completely impossible as a risk.

Under no circumstances should the United States buy a single United Nations bond. The truth is that the only proper slogan for a United Nations bond campaign in this country would be: "Buy a United Nations bond and help spread communism."

Golf-Course Closings

Because of government interference with purely local affairs, a good many swimming pools, golf courses and parks operated by cities in the south have been closed.

Among the latest to suffer a blow of this kind were all the city golf courses in Birmingham, Ala. A few days ago workmen posted "No trespassing" signs on all the city courses, announcing that they had been ordered closed by the park and recreation board. The parks were closed after a federal court had ordered them desegregational facilities in that Alabama city.

There can be no doubt that recreational facilities in the south have been retarded by the fervid campaign of the United States supreme court and of some high government officials, including the Kennedy brothers, President John and Attorney General Robert, in behalf of the forced mixing of the white and Negro races, although this generally is not satisfactory to either race. Many cities have refused to create any new parks, golf courses or swimming pools because they are convinced that the government won't let them operate those facilities as they choose. Rather than be forced to put undesirable mixing into practice, many of the cities either are closing the facilities they already have or are not making plans for any expansions.

Under the equal-but-separate rulings of previous supreme court decisions, Negroes were enjoying many additional benefits. New schools and recreational facilities were being built for them all over the south so they could enjoy facilities without intruding upon those used by white people. The infamous 1954 "black Monday" decision of the supreme court, holding that Negroes must use the same facilities as whites, has put an end to recreational projects in many cities.

Thus we have a stifled, instead of an improved, situation.

Foreign Aid Vote

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Many dissenters maintain that the constitution spells out what congress can raise funds for through its various tax avenues. These people maintain that "foreign aid" is not one of the things so authorized. Constitutional lawyers and the courts could "haggle" over that for years since the constitution has developed so much "rubber" content that it seems it can be stretched to fit anything the administration wants to do.

All representatives and one-third of the senators will be up for election this fall. I will be the first to agree that it won't be done, and probably couldn't be done, but wouldn't it be interesting if every one casting a vote had the opportunity to express his opinion as to "foreign aid" by simply putting as X in a box marked yes or no, or pulling a lever on the voting machine indicating yes or no?

Compensation Law

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

With a considerable degree of interest, I read your editorial of January 12 on the subject of Workmen's Compensation, which reviewed the recent PAR brochure on the subject.

During the 1960 Session of the Legislature, Governor Davis recognized that a problem faces both industry and labor under our present Workmen's Compensation Act and the jurisprudence on it which is being formulated by our courts. As an indication of this recognition on his part, he appointed a study committee which was instructed to conduct hearings on the subject and come up with recommended remedial legislation. Representative T. T. Fields was selected as chairman of the committee and has been very diligent in his capacity as such. Several meetings of the committee have been held; and groups representing labor, industry, the public, the Louisiana Bar Association, the Louisiana Association of Claimants' Attorneys, and insurance associations, have been permitted to make recommendations. As a result of the numerous appearances made by representatives of these groups the committee should have a clear picture of the problems and some very constructive suggestions for remedial steps have been made.

Your referred editorial emphasizes the fact that both industry and labor are suffering as a result of application of provisions of the present Act as a result of jurisprudence on it. The important factor which stands out above all others is that the employee who is justly entitled to relief as a result of actual permanent disability in many cases is not receiving a fair compensation for his disability; but in other instances, employes actually make a travesty of justice by procuring judgments for permanent and total disability as a result of more or less minor injuries. As an example, for instance, an employe who sustains a hernia during the course of his employment is protected by the jurisprudence of this state in being permitted to refuse to be operated on and is entitled to a judgment of compensation for 400 weeks. If he had had both legs cut off, or his back broken, he would have received the same amount. Another instance is that of an employe being injured while performing one particular type of work and being awarded permanent and total disability benefits of 400 weeks' compensation while, at the same time, he is employed at another occupation at a wage either equal to or higher than that which he was receiving at the time of his injury.

The above two examples have been pointed out repeatedly to the study commission during its deliberations.

Your editorial should enlighten the public on the problem, and every pressure should be brought to bear upon the Legislature in 1962 to recognize the inequities which are apparent.

More On Compensation

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

First, let me commend you for the very excellent editorial on Workmen's Compensation in the January 12, 1962, issue of the Monroe Morning World. All interested civic - minded Louisiana citizens that have not seen the editorial should secure a copy of Friday's newspaper and familiarize themselves with a subject of great importance to the present or future industrial expansion of many Louisiana operations. After reading your editorial, no doubt, many Louisianians will want to contact their State Representatives and Senators to discuss this vital problem and solicit legislative support for a 1962 amendment to Section 1221; (the section concerned with the definition of Permanent Total Disability) of our present State Workmen's Compensation Law.

Next, I would like to quote a few paragraphs of a report, submitted in late 1961 to the Louisiana Legislative Workmen's Compensation Study Committee by the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, on this subject of Workmen's Compensation payments and the Louisiana jurisprudence on the "Definition of Permanent Total Disability; "This subject has been discussed at length in the statement to which this memorandum is appended. As pointed out therein, under court decision in Louisiana an employee is entitled to compensation for permanent total disability, if he is unable because of injury to do work of the same or similar character to that which he was doing at the time of injury. Such compensation must be paid even though he engages in another occupation at equal or greater wages. (Schram v. Lake Charles Ready Mix, Inc. 1960, La. Ct. of Appls. 3d Circuit 125 S. 2d 213. Ranatza V. Higgins Industries, Inc. 18 So. (2nd) 202; Butzman v. Delta Shipbuilding Company, Inc., et al, 21 So. (2nd) 80.)

Judgment for permanent total disability has been rendered in cases such as the fracture of the heel of one foot and the loss of the first phalange of the middle and ring fingers and a phalange and a half of the little finger. See Brown v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. 1960, La. Sup. Ct. So. 2d 768 and Young vs. Central Surety and Insurance Corps., La. Circuit 1944, 41 So. 2d 700. As a matter of act in the latter case, which involved loss of the phalanges, the defendant was the appellant because he felt a judgment for 100 weeks was excessive. The court on appeal increased the amount to 400 weeks, that payable for permanent total disability. We believe that in no other jurisdiction would an injury of that type be considered as constituting permanent total disability.

Workmen's compensation laws were enacted to replace wage loss. The desirability of providing permanent total disability benefits where there is no loss of earnings and the employee is actually working or where he is able to work, might well be questioned. It serves to depress benefit levels for those who are suffering actual disability and are unable to work. We believe that this definition of disability, as adopted by the courts is the single most important factor in affecting costs in Louisiana. It is different from that in effect in the other states."

I encourage you to keep this matter before the public, and perhaps it would be beneficial to this area; if you could treat this same subject again in late April or early May 1962, based on any new developments in relation to this subject at that time.

To the Editor:

In yesterday's paper, and again in this morning's World, there is quite a squawk by our so-called State Department about the sale of planes by England to Red China. This is so ridiculous in view of what this country has done in the last few months. Someone in Washington has flunked out once more where brains and sense are concerned.

I remember only last fall a major at a Texas Air Force Base gave out that Communist pilots were being trained at this base. This created a modest stir, more especially when the public found out that this country, or some gang in the upper echelons in Washington had already sold to Communist Yugoslavia several fighter planes (obsolete) as stated in the news article. Now who is squealing???

In the light of fairness in this situation, which is worse, England selling commercial airliners, or this outfit selling fighter craft, then teaching the enemy how to fly them? Of all the stupid, nonsensical, brainless, unexplainable addle pated tricks to pull on America, this deal with Yugoslavia wins the rubber barrelled shotgun.

The excuse about the dirty thing has been, "These planes are obsolete." This is phony as the deal itself—didn't we use such things as Piper Cubs in WWII, as well as many other items which might be termed obsolete. If nothing else, our own pilots could use such planes for some training. It's a case of "Old Uncle Sugar" again.

It's bad enough that the "gang" in the U. N. allowed Russia to veto proposals during 1961 while not paying her dues to that body, or, that any nation could have its envoys seated whose dues were not paid. It is tiresome to an American to know how we, the people are being "taken" in this affair, yet the man in the White House wants to buy bonds to keep the U. N. going, while no one has the GUTS to tell Russia and her stooges to "either pay up, or shut up, and get OUT! Let's get on the offensive—once.

If we are going to live in this country, let's keep America for the Americans.

Writes To Ellender

Girard, La.

Hon. Allen J. Ellender,
U. S. Senate Office Bldge.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Ellender:

I have many requests from throughout the country, even from Washington, D. C. from individuals, and organizations to do what I can to help stem the steam-rolling political tide of the present administration in their efforts to sink us farther into self-bankruptcy, so weakening our economy that it will destroy our moral, destroy our initiative, contribute to our enemies, by subsidizing our competitors, throughout the world.

It is encouraging to know that the American people are awakening to the facts of our predicament, and are ready to take the proper steps in a conservative course to hasten the end of this mad trend of waste plunder, turmoil and strife among our people.

Through complacency, appeasement, coalition, tolerance, co-operation, sanction, ecumenical — analyse each of these words, and see how easy it has been for us to swallow the whole prescribed concoction. All this to make us stronger, but has made us weaker. The one world ideoligy that has so affected our own government, that we have found traitors, inside various departments, handling our security affairs, our supposed secrets carrying them to our enemies, un-molested, just referred to by the simple acceptable cause, "He Defected." He was defected before he got in the place, and some defectors got him the job to start with. I even know that any financial aid to the foreign-controlled U. N. by the U. S. is a contribution to our enemies and against the traditions of our great nation, and deserves the enthusiastic, fervent opposition of all loyal Americans holding office under the rights of the choice of the people voting him in office.

To the Editor:

Please accept my delayed thanks for buying my pig at the fair this fall. Due to a "mix up" I have just learned who gave me such wonderful support.

I am so grateful for without you I would have lost money on my pig. Your interest in me gave me courage to keep fighting to do better next time.

To The Editor:

I wish to write and thank you for the publicity you have been giving me and other 4-H boys and girls.

The promptness with which a story was put in about my trip to the International Livestock Show in Chicago was appreciated.

These newspaper clippings are saved, and there is a special place in our 4-H records for them.

Your paper has a wide circulation, which enables many people to read about the activities and rewards of 4-H work. It is appreciated very much.

'No Win' Policy

American Public Entitled To Know What Committee Will Find

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Before the Stennis subcommittee on Preparedness begins on next January 23rd to examine the No Win policy at the Pentagon, the American public is entitled to know what the Stennis group will find —if it looks hard enough.

The material I am using is available to the Senators. There is nothing here that they will not find in the directives of the National Security Council, many of which originate at the Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department and are filtered through the Defense Department.

Let us begin with an official but imprecise definition of the policy which says, "Thou shalt not win against Russia." The Administration's information chief, Edward R. Murrow, who sits in on National Security Council meetings, puts it in these words:

"Fundamentally, the thing to which we are opposed is the aggressive nature of the Communist State."

The imprecision would be mended if Murrow had added one word, "military." This Administration, like Gen. Eisenhower's before it, is opposed to the "military aggressive nature of the Communist State." It is not against Communism, which tries to "bury" us by propaganda, subversion and regimented labor.

This is the heart of the matter, the gist of the No Win policy, the finger of fate which writes upon the wall.

The White House, since the decision to seek a short-of-victory peace in Korea, has been opposed to the use of force for resolving international disputes. Public speeches, campaign pledges, disarmament talks and Congressional resolutions, dozens of organizations for "peace" and scores of books with pious, peace-loving titles, all go to make up this Anatomy of Appeasement — all are given approval sometimes loud and clear, sometimes tacit, by the President and the brain trust which forms and speaks his mind.

We have a military policy called "deterrence." Its purpose is to deter war — but the purpose ought to be to deter communism. We should have a policy to defeat Communism, not to tolerate it. The Communist policy against us is one of obliteration. The Marxians have borrowed from Machiavelli, Mahon and Clausewitz in their determination to bury capitalistic democracy. Nowhere on earth is Communism tolerant of our form of government. Everywhere the Reds are out to frustrate and destroy our way of living. But our response to this challenge is to outlaw war, to share-our-wealth, to build defensive (no win) alliances and policies.

Thus we coddle and befriend Red regimes which are not overtly aggressive as military powers. When President Kennedy was in the Senate, he introduced and supported bills to aid the Red regimes of Poland and Yugoslavia. Now that he's President, Mr. Kennedy unofficially declares that these are "friendly" nations, so that he may send them food under the agricultural giveaway plan called Public Law 480.

If the USA were out to defeat the Soviet Empire, we would not aid these satellites. I talked with Mr. Kennedy when he was a Senator and heard him contend that the American aid helps to make Poland and Yugoslavia more independent of the Soviet bloc. But now that he's President and has a Commander-in-Chief's responsibility for waging the Cold War, it is hard to see how he perseveres in this aid to Communism—when his job is to deter and defeat Communism. The only plausible explanation is that President Kennedy, a fire-eating patriot, has become dependent upon No Win brain-trusters.

It should be reiterated (as this column often has done) that the No Winners are not Reds or traitors. They call themselves internationalists, or "democratic socialists." They believe that time is on our side, that an "evolution" will make Russia more democratic, the USA more socialistic, and the world more united.

All of this, however, is based on theory and flies in the face of fact. There is no democracy where in the Communist State, no chance whatever for the people to revolt against their political police, who conduct periodic purges of every dissatisfied group. There is only one way for the peoples under Communism to be liberated, and that is by military pressure and military rescue by the Western powers.

But our No Win policy precludes the use of our expensive military machine except in self-defense. The No Win policy did not react to Castro's Red revolution of 1959. The President declined to denounce the Red conquest of Finland in 1961 when Khrushchev blackmailed that little country into holding what amounts to a pro-Soviet, one-party, one-candidate election for its President. Only when it became evident that Castro was building a military force to attack nearby Latin American countries did the State Department issue an anti - Communist white paper against Cuba. Not until Russia occupies Finnish bases will we take alarm.

This Administration is against war—it is not against Communism. I invite the Stennis subcommittee to examine the documents and the witnesses which constitute the No Win policy. The Senators will soon see that the No Win policy is giving us peace and defeat in the same package.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

"Insight and Outlook" is an excellent magazine published at the University of Wisconsin. In the March issue Gale Pfund, the editor of this publication, wrote:

"The Soviet Union is scoring victory after victory in the cold war, quite basically because of our own moral indecision, which prevents out taking a firm stand against the demands of Mr. Khrushchev. We, as a nation, have not firmly decided which system, capitalism or communism, ought to prevail. Ostensibly, we brandish our swords against an enemy whose avowed methods and purposes represent everything we abhor, but in reality we pursue policies more closely akin to his ideal than to our own.

"We have overburdened private property and private ownership as a means of production with government regulations and controls. We have convinced ourselves of the equitability of the progressive income tax (which in the USSR isn't nearly as graduated as our own), the advisability of government handouts, the morality of federal social control and the expediency of governmental intervention in the economy and federal manipulation of the money supply. All of which is closer to Karl Marx than Adam Smith.

"Although we do not necesarily hold the philosophical assumptions of historical and dialectical materialism, we nevertheless pattern our social and economic behavior directly upon the collectivist ideal. How can a nation, whose compromise with welfarism is more in sympathy with the Communist ideal than the American, make a firm moral resolve that Western institutions ought to prevail and are ultimately worth fighting for? How can the United States stand up against a government whose strength and determination are unparalleled in the history of the world?

"In my time, it hasn't been able to do either. The moral irresolve of the West is pitted against the maniacal fanaticism of those in the Kremlin who labor day and night under the absolute conviction that communism is the only proper system of political, social and economic organization.

SINCE WORLD WAR II

Crime Explosion In U.S. Has Hit Staggering Rate

By BERNARD GAVZER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Since the end of World War II, the U.S. population has increased by 39 million, the gross national product has reached a record $503.2 billion a year.

In this period, we shot our first rocket into space, found an answer to polio, added two states to our union, and put a television set into practically every home.

It was also the era of the crime explosion.

What you can see and hear of it is staggering.

What you can't see is bigger.

This is what Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover are talking about when they say crime ranks high among the nation's major domestic problems.

FBI statistics for 1961 are not yet complete but it is already clear that it will go down as another year in which crime has continued the spiral begun in 1946.

The crime bill, says Hoover, now amounts to more than $60 million a day.

To most people, the word crime means violence. The murderer, the burglar, the sex offender makes a direct assault. His crime strikes close to home. The victim has a name.

But this is only one part of crime. There are two other broad areas: bigtime organized crime and nonviolent, white collar crime.

All have been on the rise. The evidence indicates that the greatest increase has been in white collar and organized crime.

Hoover says: "We can trace our increasing crime rates today primarily to two malignant conditions—public apathy and moral deterioration or decay of our population."

Atty. Gen. Kennedy comments: "The television quiz scandals of several years ago; the basketball scandals; the corruption the McClellan committee found in important parts of labor, management, and the bar; the revelations that members of the Denver police department were themselves operating active and lucrative burglary rings, and this after similar revelations in Chicago; the corruption of public officials—all of this must be a source of sorrow and concern to every one of us."

Hoover and Kennedy have a special vantage point. Into their offices in the Department of Justice pours the daily story of breakdown in law and order. Bit by bit it comes together into an overwhelming picture. This is what they see:

Organized crime—

A multibillion-dollar industry. The vice lords are no longer Al Capone-type loudmouths but shrewd manipulators who keep out of the public eye, wear banker's gray, send their kids to private schools and take European jaunts. They traffic in extortion, labor racketeering, narcotics, prostitution, bootlegging, gambling and anything else that can turn a profit. They have steadily invaded legitimate businesses.

Illegal gambling alone produces a yearly profit of $7 billion. The handle, or amount of money gambled, comes to an estimated $47 billion—more than the 1960 U.S. defense budget.

Organized crime, says Kennedy, is richer, more firmly entrenched and more powerful than ever.

White collar crime—

Because of its nature, white collar crime is the most difficult to spot. But there are ways to measure it.

The Surety Association of America represents firms which bond people in positions of trust. It estimates that $1 billion a year is stolen by persons in such positions. This loss is nearly twice the amount caused annually in all known burglaries, robberies and auto thefts put together.

The Association of Better Business Bureaus says that schemers fast-buck operators of all sorts—take the public and business for $1.5 billion every year. It's done through such gimmicks as stock frauds, fake charities, questionable diet aids, fake cures, various mail order dodges and so on.

Crimes against persons and property—

These are the crimes that fill the nation's police blotters.

The serious offenses are murder, forcible rape, aggravated assault, burglary, robbery, larceny over $50 and auto theft.

One serious crime is committed every 15 seconds.

Hoover outlines the dimensions of the crime explosion by placing it alongside the population explosion.

Since the end of World War II, the U.S. population increased by a little more than a third.

In 1946, there were 931,894 known serious offenses. In 1960, there were 1,861,300—an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

In 1946, the crime rate—which is the number of offenses per 100,000 population—was 665.5. In 1960, the rate was 1037.9—an increase of 56 per cent.

These figures are gathered from more than 7,000 local law enforcement agencies by the FBI, which began the job in 1930.

Who causes crime?

Atty. Gen. Kennedy says all segments of society are involved, and adds: "No one group can point to another and say: 'There lies the fault.'

"No one section of this country can say: 'We are clean. They are corrupt.'

"No one financial or economic group can plead innocence."

Identifying the white collar criminal is particularly difficult. He—or she—can be the secretary tapping the petty cash box for daily lunch money or the state official raiding the state's treasury for millions.

They are often the last people in the world to be suspected of wrongdoing—and usually they are the last to be discovered.

The crimes against persons and property—murder, burglary, rape, etc.—are increasingly laid to two specific groups: Negroes and juveniles.

They pose one of the paradoxes in crime. They have virtually no role in white collar and organized crime—the ones which produce corruption, cheat the public and eat away at the nation's moral fiber. But they loom large in the area of crime that is quickly translated into headlines.

The role of the Negro in crime is shown in arrest for figures for 1960, a year in which Negroes comprised about 10.5 per cent of the total population. The figures are from 2,446 cities containing 46 per cent of the nation's population.

	White	Negro
Murder	1,536	2,511
Rape	2,459	2,778
Aggravated Assault	15,856	26,819
Robbery	10,994	14,155
Burglary	66,130	33,536
Larceny	129,158	65,063
Auto theft	32,271	10,601

There have been many explanations of the Negro involvement in crime. They blame pressures and conditions which restrict Negroes to the worst housing, poorest education, lowest-paying jobs, second-rate social status and the postwar population shift in which Negroes—as well as other citizens—found themselves in new environments with the added problem of trying to adjust to new ways.

Arrest figures also show juveniles getting involved more and more on the wrong side of the law. These figures are based on age alone, and include those who comprise the statistics on race breakdowns. In the 1950-60 period the number of juveniles between the ages 10-17 increased from 17.4 million to 25.1 million. But in the same period, Hoover says, the number of arrests in which they were involved more than doubled.

"This is an era when teen-age terrorism has become so commonplace that the American public has virtually a shock resistance to vicious murders, rapes, assaults, robberies, and, in fact, the entire spectrum of atrocities committed by young people," Hoover says. "The brutality of crimes committed by teen-agers certainly pales the all-inclusive pampering, palliative phrase of juvenile delinquency which is used today."

Some reckoning may come in a new $30-million, three-year program—backed by President John F. Kennedy—to combat juvenile delinquency. The money will be used to study a great variety of approaches, as well as training people, from police specialists and psychologists to probation officers and social workers.

Disturbing as the crime explosion has been, there is an even more depressing consideration: What is known is the failures of crime—the people who get caught, the misdeeds that are discovered.

There is still the part that is unknown and unrecorded. It may be the biggest part of the crime explosion.

CURIOUS BIRD gets the lowdown from Phyllis Desfor, 14, on an 8mm zoom reflex movie camera with professional features. The bird's eye view discloses: through-the-lens viewing and focusing; behind-the-lens electric eye system; a five-to-one lens zoomability; a variable shutter and film rewind.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

I've been Mr.-Average - Home-Movie-Maker ever since my grown children were infants. I've recorded their progress from crib to crawling to young maturity through 8mm family movies. In that time I've made my fair share of mistakes in handling movie cameras and judging exposures but we still have a creditable library of nostalgic films to enliven a rainy evening or a family gathering.

To that record I recently added a new experience: that of shooting 8mm movies with a precision instrument of almost professional caliber. To do it, I borrowed a Bolex Zoom Reflex 8 movie camera for testing.

The primary advantage of a reflex camera is its through-the-lens viewing. What you see in the viewfinder is what you get on the film frame. It eliminates parallax errors and permits you to focus precisely with its split-image rangefinder from 3½ feet to infinity. Its bright image is independent of the lens opening. You can see the subject clearly and focus sharply even when the lens is stopped down to f-16.

The camera's Pan Cinor f-1.9 zoom lens is its second notable feature. This has a five to one zooming ratio. This means a person or object can loom five times larger from its wide-angle position or an area can be enlarged or reduced 2 diameters by zooming in or out. This range, from a wide-angle 8mm to a telephoto 40 mm, is the greatest available presently for any 8mm camera. The zooming is done manually, slowly and smoothly, to suit the movie maker, as seen in the viewfiner.

The camera's third important feature is its inner Compumatic light-measuring system. Its electric eye sees only the light which has passed through the zoom lens, not the total light in front of the camera. Going a step further, a sensitive photo resistor cell, powered by a tiny battery, measures only the light of the exact area being filmed. This measurement determines the correct lens opening for proper exposure. It is carried out manually, not automatically.

Advanced movie effects are possible with two other features of the camera: a variable shutter and a film rewind. They make it possible to produce fade-ins, fade-outs and double exposures. A lap dissolve, which blends one scene into another, can be made in three steps.

First: the end of a scene is faded out by closing down the variable shutter. Second step: the film is rewound to the beginning of the fade. Third: the following scene is faded in by gradually opening the variable shutter and finishing the scene with normal shooting.

Checking my results, I discovered it's a mistake to zoom the camera while it is hand held. It usually isn't held steady enough to prevent eye-straining wobble. I corrected the mistake easily by using a tripod. I found later that a special Bolex trigger handle is a great help in steadying the camera when a tripod or unipod isn't handy.

RUNNING THE SCALES

'All American' Follows 'Birdie'

By JOHN CALE

The announcement of the opening date of "All American" has burst on the scene with full page advertisements in New York newspapers. This is another Edward Padula - L. Slade Brown production—the same team that produced "Bye Bye Birdie." The new play is "All American," and it will open in New York March 19.

This time, Brown is joined by another Louisiana product, Joshua Logan, who directs the entire production. There is, so they tell us, more of the same northeast Louisiana capital motivating the new musical which enabled "Birdie" to reach the boards.

Brown, formerly of Monroe and Orange, Texas, was influential in securing amateur production rights for the Little Theatre of Monroe to do "Bye Bye Birdie" which went into rehearsal here last week.

"All American" will star dancer Ray Bolger and Eileen Herlie, Ron Husman, Anita Gilette, and Fritz Weaver. It will play at the Winter Garden Theatre on Broadway. The out-of-town opening is set for February 5 through March 10 at the Erlanger Theatre in Philadelphia.

THIS WAY

Meanwhile, back in the South, the Louisiana Tech Concert Association has booked the Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra for two performances, February 9 and 12. They will present the "Passion According to St. John," by J. S. Bach.

Also playing shortly thereafter at Tech will be Schiller's "Mary Stuart," with Faye Emerson taking the role of Mary Queen of Scotts. This English translation of a German drama based on the tragedy of a Scottish queen who had grown up in France has been successful as a serious undertaking on Broadway.

The next booking on the Northeast series will be "The Music Man," slated for March 13 at Neville Auditorium.

Performing artists of greater-than usual talent play here on occasion, only to pass from the scene in later years. For instance, a young fellow named Richard Gregor played a piano recital here several years ago on the Cummunity Concerts series. The last we heard of him, he had joined his brother in a New York architectural firm.

But Ruth Slenczynska, piano soloist with the Boston Pops on its last appearance here, is still very much alive on the concert scene. A recent news release recalled her professional debut at the age of four. That was in Oakland, California, back in 1930.

She's one of the few child prodigies who held to her career after she stopped being a child. She likes out-of-the-way places. In Anchorage, Alaska, last November, her comment: "It was 4 0blow zero and the audience probably was postponing going outside."

Piano fans in the area will recall Ruth's playing here with the "Pops" even if they can't pronounce her last name. (It's Slenchin-ska) She played the Saint Saens Concerto in G Minor, which reaches near supersonic speeds in the last movement.

PAGEANTRY

Down south of the "Dixon's and Mason's Line," which, according to Cajun humorist Justin Wilson, runs across Louisiana between Bunkie and Cheneyville, is an annual pageant which might contain the roots of the operatic spirit. For some reason, opera has always flourished where the people have a liking for pageants, street dances, and noisemaking in public.

This annual affair is called the "Tournoi de la Ville Platte," which is modeled after one phase of the old tournaments of the Middle Ages. The highlight is the contest where Cajun horsemen try to spear the greatest number of target rings on their lances. The targets are arranged over a half-mile course. The winner gets a small check and a kiss from a Cajun beauty.

The tournoi is something of a Mardi Gras for the town of Ville Platte. It attracts visitors from throughout the state, but serious competitors come from the French country: Mamou, Bayou Chicot, Tate Cove, Andrepoint and other towns.

Is this opera? Not yet. But just wait until those people start singing in that bayou patois. It makes Verdi and Puccini sound positively artificial.

Interesting Story On A Ruler

DAME OF SARK. By Sibyl Hathaway. Coward - McCann. $4.

Most of us know by now that on one of the Channel Islands there is the last remaining feudal domains in the Western world, a political relic of an era long since gone, but not forgotten.

This book is the autobiography of the woman who inherited that domain and whose descendants will inhert it in time to come.

During World War II Sark was occupied by German forces, and one of the most interesting sections of this account details how the Dame of Sark met the situation. In the beginning, when an upper class (non-Nazi) officer was in control, it simply was a matter of quietly asserting the dignified rights of human decency. But as the war dragged on, it was necessary to descend to cruder problems of food and survival. The Dame and her subjects demonstrated the traditional stiff upper lip.

But this book also is an interesting study of a small, isolated, rural economy — depending partly on tourism for its income — presided over by a paternalistic or maternalistic autocrat who demonstrates all the solid virtues of a responsible ruler. The author reveals herself as, simultaneously, a conscientious shepherd of her flock and a woman who accepts the homage of international society as a sovereign.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Winter Season Best Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The winter season is definitely the time when a new book is eagerly received. Recently during the bad weather, the people who had new books to read were happy, those who were caught without any reading material on hand were most unhappy. We were not able to keep the libraries open all during the period of low temperatures, but we opened whenever we could. Each time we opened the patrons flocked to the library to get everything they could to read. We were happy to have so many new books for them.

The fiction titles offered this week, are especially interesting. Victoria Holt, author of last year's best seller "The Mistress of Mellin" has a new book. It is called "Kirkland Revels" and has it's setting in a 16th century house-once an abbey - in Yorkshire. This is a story of melodrama and nameless fears, but many readers will find it exciting reading. "Moscow Interlude" by former diplomat Charles W. Thayer is a novel which portrays the intrigues and iniquities of life in Moscow. Mr. Thayer spent eight years in the shadow of the Kremlin and one can sense the keen edge of experience in his story. Those who want to know more about this city will enjoy "Moscow Interlude". "In High Places" by Arthur Hailey is a novel of political turmoil in Canada. It deals with the efforts of the Canadian Prime Minister to persuade the Canadian Parliament that their best chance for survival is through Union with the United States. It is an interesting and intriguing book and will appeal to all those who are cognizant of present political conditions.

Evelyn Waugh has a ready audience who will want to read his latest book "The End of the Battle". This is another of his novels about the adventures of the Englishman Guy Crouchback. This one takes place during World War II and has a great deal of detail about the London Blitz, the Battle of Britain and war time life in general. Those who have read the previous books will certainly want this and those who have not read them will also enjoy it.

Books of non - fiction continue to offer a great variety. A book of great local interest in "Omega in Symbols; from Jesus Christ to John the Divine". This book written by U. S. Cockrell, who teaches at Woodlawn School in Ouachita Parish. This book is Cockrell's interpretation of the book of Revelation. This is a book about which little has been written and we congratulate our local author on his achievement. Copies of this book may be borrowed from any branch of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. An interesting and timely book for today's reader is "Our New Life with the Atom" by Robert Rienow. This book gives a thorough discussion of how the atomic bomb had affected our society. A book which is certain to be in demand is one issued by the Modern Bride and written by Emma Cole. The title is "The Modern Bride Book of Etiquette and Entertaining". It contains information as a guide to all sorts of problems of courteous behavior and advice for entertaining. Everyone is interested in American folklore and a lovely new book on this subject has just been published by Life Magazine. The title is "The Life Treasury of American Folklore". It contains a world of interesting information and is a beautifully done book. Another beautiful new book published by Life Magazine is "The Desert" which is another volume in the Life Nature Library series.

Diet is a subject in which almost everyone is interested and an authoritative new book on the subject is always welcome. The Nutrition Service of the Iowa State Department of Health has just prepared a new book in this field which could be most helpful and which they call "Simplified Diet Manual with Meal Patterns." One of the most popular sections in the library is the section of books in the field of flower arrangement. A new book by Rachel E. Carr is called "Japanese Floral Art Symbolism, Cult and Practice". It arrived just in time for one of the garden clubs which is studying this phase of flower arrangement and we are so happy that we have it.

Horse lovers will welcome an authoritative new book called "The Morgan Horse" written by Jeanne Melling. It gives a complete history and much information about this breed of American horse. Is merchandising your field? If it is, you will certainly want to see "Merchandishing for Tomorrow" by Edward Weiss. This is a very valuable treatment of the subject. An addition to our fine arts collection is "The Story of America's Musical Theater" by David Ewen. This book will interest musicians as well as those who are devoted to the theatre.

A very interesting new book is "Animal Dunkirk" by Erica Robins. This is the story of Operation Noah, which was aimed at removing all of the aminals from the region which was to be flooded by the Lake Kariva dam in Africa. It will appeal to many men and boys. The field of history has been well covered this week. Henry Stuart Hughes is the author of "Contemporary Europe" a very fine modern history. Another volume of Lawrence Gipson's "British Empire Before the Am Revolution" has just been released. This is Volume X and covers the period of the French and Indian wars. There are three titles dealing with the American Civil War. Alan Barker is the author of "The Civil War in America." Philip Van Doren Stern is the author of "Soldier Life in the Union and Confederate Armies and "Private Elisha Stockwell, Jr., sees the Civil War" is a reprint of a contemporary journal.

Satire As She Moves To Despair

THE END OF THE BATTLE, By Evelyn Waugh. Little, Brown. $4.50.

Waugh has completed his trilogy of World War II in this volume about Guy Crouchback's final years in the conflict and his conclusive relapse into civilian life.

The hero is one of those average British officers who gets kicked around from pillar to post so far as combat assignments are concerned, and takes a ruddy chance on parachuting into Yugoslavia for some liaison work with partisans. About the only thing he accomplishes there is to rescue some Jewish refugees who have little chance to survive.

Meanwhile his personal life has been going to pot. His ex-wife has gotten herself into a mess which he feels himself obliged to rescue her from; but this gesture reaches an end when a buzz bomb snuffs out her life.

The pertinent thing about Crouchback is that he has no particular aim in life. Even his volunteering for the assignment behind the lines has no particular motive, except to find something to occupy his time. As the end of his hereditary line, he is merely plodding on in the old British spirit, without any essential feeling for the present or the future.

Waugh's forte has been nasty satire, but this time he seems to have simmered down a bit, into the realm of dash - it-all disillusionment.

Some readers are likely to have the feeling that if this volume had been written 10 or 15 years ago it would have had more impact. Now its flavor has palled somewhat. Perhaps even to the author.

Tragicomedy On Doctor Is Excellent

CAPTAIN NEWMAN, M.D. By Leo Rosten. Harper. $4.95.

Mostly for laughs, but with some pretty strong elements of pathos too, is this novel by the man who created Hyman Kaplan.

The scene is a psychiatric ward at a fighter plane base in the Southwestern desert during wartime. The hero is a doctor with an intuitive knack of reaching into fear -filled minds and bringing them back to balance. He has a wise mind, and even better, he has a heart.

His ward is staffed with some of the most unmilitary personnel who ever graced a G.I. installation, but they get results. There is Gavoni, who supplies everyone with salami: Lawrence, whose odd compulsion is that he must swear at officers; and Liabowitz, who has his own unpredictable bag of tricks.

Most of the comedy arises from the characters who are not patients, such as the man who is stealing a jeep by mail, and the happy private whose bed is always made by a sergeant. And there is a riotous officers' party when the commander is off the post.

But in the midst of these rollicks, Dr. Newman devotes himself to the repair of sick minds, and although there are occasional failures, he makes some skillful conquests of fear. The story of one gunner's return to combat is a memorable one.

As a touching climax to these pages of tragicomedy there is the narrator's statement of faith, in the epilogue, which reaches the reader with a sharp poignancy.

Well worth reading, this is a good book.

Stamp News

The 4-cent Arizona Statehood commemorative stamp (for release Feb. 14 at Phoenix, Ariz.) will feature a flowering arm of the giant saguaro cactus, the bearer of the beautiful Arizona state flower. The central design shows the main trunk of the plant towering above the flowering arm. The "bleeding" effect of the design has been used to accentuate the vastness of the desert.

This is the first U. S. postal issue on which the engraving has been extended into the normal gutter between the stamps to produce the desired "bleeding." This has been accomplished as a result of extensive experiments at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

A full-grown saguaro is silhouetted in the foreground, with the moon behind a cloud bank reflecting on the valley below to create a typical desert night scene. This nocturnal theme was used since the saguaro flowers begin to open at night.

The stamp was designed by James M. Chemi and Jimmie E. Ihms of the Phoenix Gazette.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent Arizona Statehood commemorative stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Phoenix, Ariz. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Arizona Statehood Stamp."

Orders for first day covers must be postmarked not later than Feb. 9, 1962.

Belgium has issued a six value set of stamps to commemorate its annual anti-tuberculosis campaign. The theme for the set is "Mother and Infant." Designs are reproduced from the works of Belgian artists. The 40 centimes plus 10 shows Mother and Infant by P. Paulus; the 1 franc plus 50 c Maternal Love by F. J. Navez; 2 F plus 50 c Maternity by C. Permeke; 2.50 F plus 50 c The Virgin and Child by R. Van de Weyden; 3 F plus 1 F The Virgin With Apple by H. Memling; 6 F plus 2 F The Virgin With Forget-Me-Nots by P. P. Rubens. The additional values go to the anti-tuberculosis fund.

3 Wells Finalled In Union Parish Monroe District

Union Parish set the pace last week in slow activity throughout the 14 parish Monroe Oil and Gas District with a total of three wells finalled—all of them in the Monroe Gas Field.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook reported but eight new locations staked in the area, three in producing sites in Tensas Parish, as unfavorable weather continued to handicap drilling operations.

Activity marked a sharp slowdown later in the week after a spurt Monday which saw applications filed for six of the week's eight new locations. However, Cook predicts a resumption in normal operations with the first favorable break of any duration in the weather and looks for a strong upswing within two to three months.

Reports released yesterday through his office showed a total of 24 rigs actively drilling or testing in the district at week's end, with most of them, seven, spotted in fields in Tensas Parish. Ouachita Parish reported four—a wildcat and one well each in the Calhoun, Cheniere and Monroe Fields.

There was one recompletion recorded, that being H. L. Hunt's Goodpine No. 3 in the LaSalle Parish Olla Field.

No rigs were plugged or abandoned during the week and the total on inactive sites held firm at 99. Locations numbered 42.

Here is the usual weekly look at the completions, new locations and active rigs as they appeared through the preceding seven-day period:

Crude Output Seen To Set Record Pace

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Domestic crude production set a record pace the first two weeks of the new year.

Production averaged more than 7,423,000 barrels a day, the highest in history for early January.

A year ago the comparable average was only 7,157,000 barrels daily.

The only year to come within striking distance of the early 1962 pace was 1957, when domestic producers were rushing oil to Western Europe during the Suez Canal crisis. The average daily output the first two weeks of 1957 was 7,406,000 barrels.

Purchasers of Texas crude sounded warnings this week the current output level may be too high.

The Texas Railroad Commission accepted the warnings and cut the February statewide production allowable to an eight-day pattern, the all-time low that prevailed in eight months of 1961.

After seven consecutive eight-day months, Texas contributed to the current spurt in production by boosting the December-January allowables to nine days. The return to the eight-day schedule will drop Texas and domestic output about 26,000 barrels a day.

Early January drilling operations failed to match the pace set by crude producers.

Well completions the first two weeks totaled 1,902, compared to 1,917 a year earlier.

The figures indicate continued emphasis, however, on wildcat tests in unproven areas. The 1962 total includes 437 wildcats, compared to only 377 the same 1961 period.

This means development wells completed in proven areas the first two weeks totaled only 1,465, compared to 1,540 a year earlier.

Most 1962 forecasts call for only a modest gain in drilling operations over 1961, when completions dropped to their lowest point since 1952.

The Suez crisis pushed domestic crude production to its all-time high of 7,818,400 barrels a day the week ending March 21, 1957.

A rate of 7,445,210 barrels daily the first week of 1962 was the highest average for any week since May 24, 1957, when producers were slashing output sharply after the reopening of the canal.

The rapid cutbacks after the Middle East emergency teamed with a general business recession to drop domestic output to a low of 6,220,385 barrels daily in mid-1958.

Demand for crude was so bad domestic production broke the 7,000,000-barrels daily mark in only 10 of the 52 weeks in 1958 compared with 26 weeks in 1957.

A sharp improvement permitted 29 such weeks in 1959 but a world surplus of crude and products reversed the upward trend and 1960 had only 217,000,000-plus weeks.

Production last year did not drop below 6,888,060 barrels a day but did not exceed 7,397,060. The 7,187,000-barrels daily average or the year also was a record. The previous record was 7,170,000 in 1956.

Texas production last week averaged 2,658,050 barrels, compared to a record 3,333,000 set during the Suez emergency.

Louisiana output last week reached a record 1,303,750 barrels a day, compared to the Suez peak of 1,018,000.

This 27 per cent gain in Louisiana is backed by a 30 per cent increase in the state's proved crude reserves between 1956 and 1960. Texas reserves declined during the same period about one per cent.

Safety Supper

Employees of Louisiana Power & Light Company in the West Monroe District recently were honored Jan. 15 at a "Safety Supper," recognizing their completion of another six months of operation without a lost - time accident.

F. C. McConnell, district manager for LP&L in West Monroe, said district employees have now worked more than six consecutive years without suffering a lost - time accident. During this period, he said, West Monroe District employees have worked 480,000 safe man - hours.

The supper, which was held at the Highland Park Country Club, was attended by district employees, their wives and husbands, and these guests: J. W. Gaines, Jr., manager of LP&L's Northern Division, and Mrs. Gaines; Ralph Bird, engineer and representative from the Northern Division on LP&L's State Safety Committee, and Mrs. Bird; and Mrs. Vaughan.

Elected

R. Marlowe Harper, a native of Monroe was recently elected one on the new directors of the Peoples National Bank in Lexington, Va.

Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Hickingbotham of 3214 Gordan Ave., is presently serving as secretary with the Virginia Military Institute which he accepted in 1947. He is married to the former Mildred Moore of Lexington. They have two children.

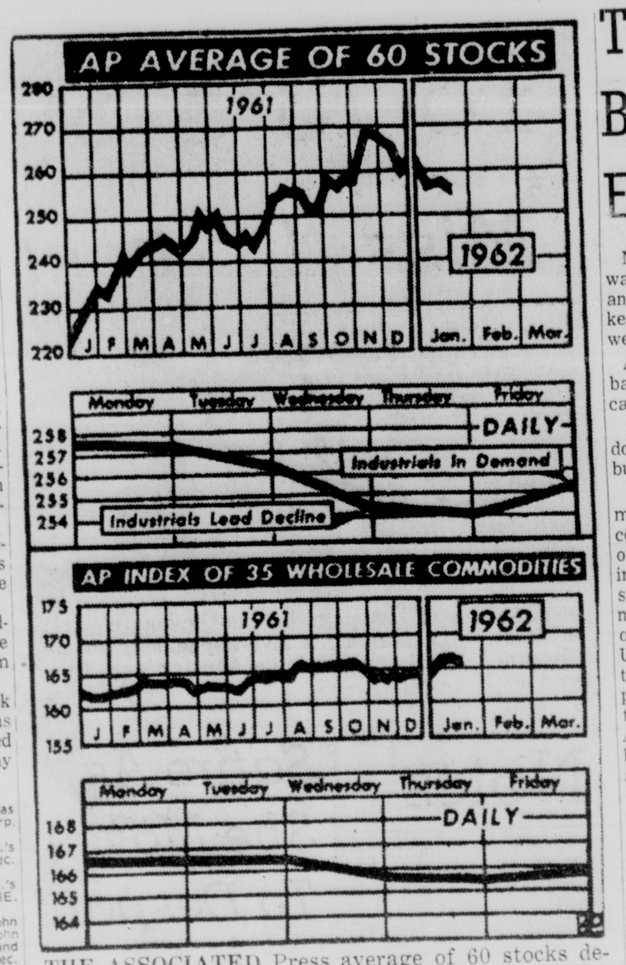

He will serve with the other thirteen directors of the bank.

A graduate of Washington and Lee's school of commerce, he also attended Northeast Junior College.

Technicians Hold Monthly Meeting

The Northeast Louisiana Society of X-Ray Technicians held their monthly meeting Thursday evening at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital.

The group discussed ways and means to obtain money to finance the Louisiana State X-Ray convention which is scheduled to be held in August.

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks declined sharply this week, closing at 255.1 from 257.6 a week ago. The Commodity Index moved lower, closing today at 165.9 from 166.6 a week earlier. Industrials and livestock showed the largest losses. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Mississippi Oil Company Strikes Field

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Larco Drilling Co. tested a wildcat, the Chapman No. 1, sec. 14-2n-6e, at 181 barrels of oil per day the past of a new oil field find.

The well flowed from a lower Tuscaloosa oil sand at 11,387-90 feet with the gravity of the crude set at 42 degrees. The discovery is about four miles south of McElveen oil field and nine miles north of Gillsburg oil field.

The confirmation well in the recently discovered Collins field of Covington County, Pan American Petroleum Corp.'s No. 2 Collins unit, sec. 25-8n-15w, has stuck drill pipe at 12,599 feet.

The well, with a contract depth of 14,500 feet, reportedly logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth in the Paluxy formation.

In Pike County, Shell Oil Co. was below 10,500 feet and nearing the coring point in the Board of Supervisors No. 2, sec. 16-4n-8e, second venture in the recently found Lazy Creek field.

In Adams County, Phillips Petroleum Co. and R. A. Campbell were reported preparing to resume testing a wildcat, the Stowner's No. 1, sec. 25-8n-2w, in an effort to complete a commercial producer. Operators were testing a zone in the Tuscaloosa formation at 10,041-58 feet.

In the hardrock country of north east Mississippi, Pan American Corp. was below 6,500 feet in an important Calhoun County wildcat, the Ashby No. 1, sec. 25-13s-1e, three miles northwest of Pyland.

The test was scheduled to 9,000 feet.

In Kemper County, Pure Oil Co. was below 6,000 feet in a closely watched wildcat, the Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-15e, located 13 miles northwest of DeKalb.

In Jones County, Ginther, Warren and Co. are drilling below 2,000 feet on a wildcat, the Black No. 1, sec. 7-6n-11w, located six miles west of Ovett.

Three new oilers were completed last week.

At Heidelberg in Jasper County, Victor Smith completed the McCormick No. 1, sec. 36-1n-12e, pumping 190 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 8,830-44 feet.

In the Dexter field on the Marion County, Vicking Oil Co. completed the Simmons No. 1, sec. 4-1n-13e, which flowed 102 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,568-80 feet.

Monsanto Chemical Co. completed the Magee-Sykes No. 1 sec. 18-1n-4e, in the Merit field of Simpson County. The well tested 423 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,932-42 feet.

Land Surveyors Meet Scheduled

The Louisiana Land Surveyors Association will hold its first annual meeting at the Holiday Inn in Baton Rouge on Feb. 2 and 3. Registration will begin at 9 a.m.

The meeting will include exhibits by Tobin Aerial Surveys and several of the surveying instrument manufacturing companies.

Tariff Wall Between U. S., Europe Falls

NEW YORK (AP)—The tariff wall between the United States and the European common market started tumbling down this week.

And President Kennedy sent a balanced federal budget for fiscal 1963 to Congress.

The two governmental actions dominated developments affecting business.

The European Economic Community, the formal name for the common market, reduced tariffs on a broad range of industrial imports from the United States, such as automobiles and machinery, and made some concessions on agricultural products. The United States reciprocated by cutting tariffs on many industrial products to the limit of the authority of the Reciprocal Trade Act. The average was believed to be considerably under 20 per cent, as provided for by the act.

It was estimated that $2 billion in trade would be affected.

The reductions are subject to approval by the common market Council of Ministers, the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trades and the U.S. Congress, but approval was considered a formality.

President Kennedy wants to lower the barrier even further. He has asked Congress for authority to cut tariffs across the board up to 50 per cent. He has begun an educational campaign that he hopes will convince congressmen that his program is in the country's best interest.

The Kennedy budget is a delicately balanced affair with anticipated revenues of $93 billion and expenditures of $92.537 billion. This compares with anticipated revenues of $82.1 billion and spending of $89.075 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30.

Most of the increased outlay would go for defense and space research and technology.

Other proposals which would have a direct effect on business include:

An 8 per cent tax credit for new business investment in depreciable equipment.

Withholding income taxes at the source on dividend and interest payments and repealing the $50 exclusion and the 4 per cent credit on dividend income.

Tightening laws on expense account deductions.

Allowing the 10 per cent tax on passenger travel to die after June 30 with the exception that it be extended on airline tickets to Dec. 31.

Opposition to the proposed merger of the nation's two biggest railroads, the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, mushroomed.

Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, which has 25,000 members working for the lines, threatened a strike unless they guaranteed job security. The railroads said they would discuss it later.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., called the proposed combination "a giant step toward railroad monopoly in the United States," and urged the Interstate Commerce Commission to defer decision "until a national merger policy and program can be developed and put into effect."

The numbing cold wave that swept Texas and Florida vegetable and citrus growing areas caused millions of dollars in crop losses. Housewives immediately felt the bite in food budgets as prices of vegetables and fruits bounced.

New car sales in the first 10 days of January, averaging 17,668 each selling day, were the best for the period since 1957.

Steel output was expected to show a continued climb this week after edging to 2.3-million tons last week, the highest level since April 1960. A strong order flow reflected increasing demand for immediate use and for stockpiling in event of a strike.

NATCHEZ NEGRO KILLED

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Fred Johnson, 40-year-old Natchez Negro, was killed Saturday when his car left the highway near here and crashed into a tree.

A companion, John Brown, 37-year-old Chicago Negro, was in serious condition at a Natchez hospital.

BY LOCAL BROKER

Communications System Installed

Local broker, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, have recently installed a super-speed automated communications system which will provide investers in the local area with much faster access to major security and commodity markets.

The system is known as an "automatic teletypewriter switching system." It was in the planning stages for more than three years and required nine months of construction in Merrill Lynch New York headquarters alone. The system's speed is 100 words per minute and will carry up to one million words and figures on a busy day. It requires 55,000 miles of leased circuits to link 135 offices.

George A. Miller, manager of the Monroe office, said that with the old method any message the local firm wished to send had to go through the New York office and then be relayed on to the receiving station. With the new system, Miller explained, the local office can now send a message to any other branch office direct.

The message still goes through the main office but is not relayed, Miller added. He gave an example by saying that if a message was sent to Shreveport on the old system, it would have to be relayed from New York. Now it will go direct.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company is among some 30 Bell System and independent telephone companies furnishing the service.

Cotton Prices Decline After Two-Week Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — A two-week gain by cotton future prices ended this week, with active contracts off between 70 and $1.60 a bale.

This partially erased gains of up to $4.50 a bale in the week ended Jan. 12, and gains of $1.20 to $2 a bale in the week prior to that.

The market experienced profit taking, hedge selling and scattered liquidation, attributed to continued slow business in the spot and export markets.

Cushioning the declines were limited price fixing and some demand as prices lowered. There were reports also of a slightly better than expected December consumption report.

Early estimates of December consumption placed the figure at 650,000 bales. However, the Census Bureau reported Friday domestic consumption for that month was 664,000 bales.

The daily rate of consumption was 3,200 bales in December, compared with 35,000 in November and 29,000 in December of last season. It was the fifth consecutive month that the daily rate average was higher than a year earlier.

Through December, consumption totaled 3,793,000 bales, 270,000 bales more than in the same period of the year before.

Exports for the week ended Jan. 16 totaled 149,000 bales, the New York Cotton Exchange reported. This compares with 140,000 bales a week earlier and 208,000 in the comparable week a year ago.

Olin To Hold Area Clinic On Buildings

Parish officials, municipal authorities and school planners from 14 surrounding parishes are scheduled to analyze new methods of building schools at a "Wood School Clinic" in Monroe, Thursday, January 25.

Announcement of the clinic was made by J. C. Conerly, of Shreveport, lumber products sales manager for the Packaging Division of Olin Mathieson. Mr. Conerly will serve as chairman of the program which will include visual demonstrations of "engineered wood" and other modern forms of school construction. The clinic, which is being sponsored by Olin, will be held at 7 p.m. at the Paragon Club. Assisting in the program presentation are the National Lumber Manufacturers Association and the Southern Pine Association.

In announcing the clinic, Conerly pointed out that the forest industries are one of the most valuable assets of the State of Louisiana and are a major source of income, employing approximately 39,000 people in the manufacture of wood products plus many additional thousands of workers in the forests. Payrolls of the Louisiana forest industries amount to $225 million per year.

School planners from Louisiana parishes and municipalities will confer with technical experts from the nation's lumber industry. Visual demonstrations will emphasize the engineered efficiency, economy and safety of modern wood construction techniques. Among those scheduled to participate are school officials, architects, builders, structural engineers, bankers, insurance men, as well as parish and municipal officials.

Maroons Rally To Beat Ole Miss In Last Four Minutes

Nudge Rebels 61-57 In 12th Win Of Year

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Tenth - ranked Mississippi State forged ahead to stay in the last four minutes Saturday night for a 61-57 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over arch-rival Mississippi.

W. D. (Red) Stroud, who was named the top player in the Sugar Bowl tournament won by State last month, was the night's top producer with 18 points, including 8-8 at the free throw line.

The lead swapped hands continually in the first half and at intermission the score stood 34-34.

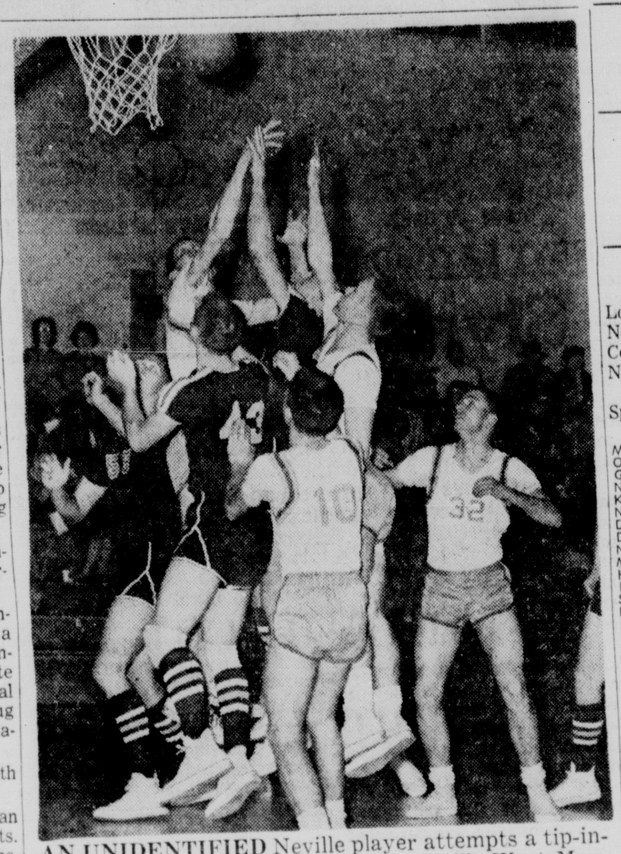

Mississippi, with Donnie Kessinger leading the offense, built up a four-point lead in the opening minutes of the second half. State caught up and the swapping deal began all over again before Doug Hutton's free throw put the Maroons in front to stay at 54-53.

The victory was State's 12th against one loss.

Kessinger was the No. 1 man for the Rebels with 21 points. The Rebels missed Sterling Ainsworth, who has averaged about 17 points per game this year. His mother died Friday.

Royals Ease By Lakers In Final Minute, 125-124

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Royals lost the lead to Los Angeles then regained it in a last-minute scramble that gave them a 125-124 victory over the Association game Saturday night.

As 7,373 fans watched, the Lakers, playing without Elgin Baylor, gradually cut down a 12-point Cincinnati lead at the end of the third period. Twice they edged to within three points and then Jerry West strung together five straight points to tie the game 113-113 with 3:59 left.

A moment later, Rod Hundley put the Lakers ahead with a free throw.

The Royals came back. Wayne Embry's tip-in gave the lead back to Cincinnati with 3:05 left. But with 0:42 left, that lead was still only one point.

Centenary Beats Hardin Simmons

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Centenary had a great night at the free throw line and marred the debut of Hardin Simmons basketball coach Carlos Berry Saturday night by handing the Cowboys a 71-66 setback.

The Gents converted 19 of 32 free throws and more than offset the 29-26 advantage in field goals of the Texans.

Nicholls Nudges Corpus Christi

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — Jack Barton sank 20 points to lead Nicholls State to a 68-63 victory over the University of Corpus Christi Saturday night.

West Virginia 5 Ge's 13th Win

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) West Virginia's basketball team oled to its 13th victory of the season Saturday night with an 38-78 win over stubborn Pitt.

The Mountaineers, who have o t three times, led all the way after the first minute of action, but had to fight off several Pitt rallies throughout the contest.

Yellow Jackets Get Upset Win

ATLANTA (AP) — Underdog Georgia Tech, led by Josh Powell's 24 points, whipped Vanderbilt 71-66 Saturday night for its first Southeastern Conference Basketball victory.

Powell's field goal with 1:25 left to play gave Tech a 65-63 ead, and the Yellow Jackets never gave it up. Free throws by Alan Anass and Mike Tomasovich and a last second field goal by Frank Landrey supplied the final victory margin.

NEVILLE GIRLS WIN TO

Tigers Outscore Rebels, 65 To 36

By WAYNE KING
World Sports Writer

The Neville Tigers rebounded strongly in the second quarter and breezed onto a 65-36 victory over the West Monroe Rebels in the Rebel gym last night.

This was the third, but most decisive victory for coach George Davis' Tigers over their Twin City rivals this season. They clipped the Rebels, 56-51, in the semi-finals of hte News-Star—World tournament Dec. 15, and again in the semi-finals of the Ouachita High school tourney, 55-49, on Jan. 6.

The victory last night boosted Neville's season record to 17-2. One of their losses was a District 2-AA setback Friday night at the hands of the powerful Ruston Bearcats, 80-54. That is Neville's only league match thus far.

Coach L. V. Norris' Rebels now have a 6-9 season mark and a 2-1 district record.

In the preliminary contest, Carolyn Courson pumped in 28 points to lead the Neville sextet to an exciting 37-35 victory over the West Monroe girls. Carolyn connected on 9 shots from the floor and cashed in on 10 of 12 free throws for her game-leading total.

Katherine Myers was the big gun for the West Monroe girls, canning 25 points on nine fielders and seven charity tosses.

Truitt Nolan dropped in 16 points to pace Neville's well-balanced offensive attack. Frank Keith was second with 13, Dave Christiansen a close third with 12 and Butch Cerniglia next with 10.

Gene Boney was the Rebels leading point - producer with nine. Bill Dorris and Jimmy Hudnall added eight apiece for the Rebs, and Jerry Chapman chipped in with seven.

Nolan's 16 ran his team-leading total to 292 points in 19 games for a 15.37 average. Cerniglia is second with 261 points and Keith third with 211.

Boney is pacing the Rebels with 243 points in 15 games, and a 16.5 average. Dorris has netted 229 points for a 15.27 average.

West Monroe was in command all during the first period, mostly on the accurate outside shooting of Hudnall. The West Monroe eagle-eye collected all eight of his point in the initial stanza on long set shots.

The Rebels held their biggest advantage — six points — at 15-9 with 1:49 left in the first quarter, but the Tigers started clicking at that point.

Nolan connected on a hook shot with the clock showing 1:34, later added a gratis toss, and Cerniglia made good on a tip-in with 0:36 seconds left to cut the Rebels lead to 15-14 at the end of the inaugural quarter.

The Tigers, with their superior height, were unstopable in the last three periods. Big Christiansen controlled all jump balls and completely dominated the backboards. He was also very effective on offense with his fading hook shot and set shot from the corner.

Nolan put the Tigers out front for good 0:55 deep in the second stanza with a pair of charity shots. Boney knotted the count at 16-16 with a free toss with 6:50 remaining in the opening half.

Christiansen looped in one of his left-handed hooks ten seconds later to give Neville a two-point advantage at 18-16. Chapman's tip-in with 6:23 to go in the second quarter tied the score—at 18-18 — for the fifth and final time.

After that Neville poured through 15 points while holding West Monroe scoreless to surge into a 33-18 lead at intermision.

The Tigers continued to dominate the game in the second half. With their superior height and jumping ability, they sometimes got five or six shots before giving up the ball, while the Rebels usually managed only one long shot.

West Monroe went almost seven minutes during the last portion of the second quarter and the opening seconds of the third before Chapman dropped in a follow-up shot 0:30 deep in the second half to make the score 33-20.

Neville continued to hold the Rebels at bay during the third period and opened up a 20-point lead a minute before the quarter ended. Jimmy Kent hit a jumper with 0:44 left in the third stanza to cut the Tigers advantage to 46-28 going to the final quarter.

Reserves played the final three minutes of the tilt and Randall Fallin drove in for a layup with 0:55 remaining in the game to give Neville its widest lead of the game — 29 points — and score the final two points.

DUMP GSC CHAMPS

Louisiana Tech Tops McNeese Five, 53-45

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Louisiana Tech's scrappy Bulldogs stayed in contention in the Gulf States Conference race here last night by downing defending champion McNeese State, 53-45.

The Tech victory leaves the Bulldogs and Cowboys each with 2-2 records in the GSC.

McNeese had edged Tech 60-54 in overtime previously in Lake Charles. McNeese is 13-5 and Tech 2-10 for the full campaign.

Tech pulled away in the final minutes on a barrage of free throws as a result of fouls made by the pressing Cowboys. Tech had a slim 43-42 lead with 6:00 to go when Jim Graves hit two free throws, Joe Abendroth got another and Graves hit two more.

Then a layup by Abendroth wrapped up the victory for the Bulldogs.

The Techsters jumped to a 5-0 early lead only to have McNeese catch up at 18-18. Tech had a 28-26 margin at halftime.

The second half was close until the final six minutes when Tech grabbed the lead for good.

Joe Abendroth was the only Bulldog in double figures with 17, but Graves had nine, Ron McNabb eight, and Jack Fair and Butch Miller seven each. Freshman Ray Penny turned in a good performance and grabbed seven rebounds. Abendroth led with 10 rebounds and Graves had nine.

Al Nesmith and Jimmy Shields provided nearly all the Cowboy attack with 17 points each. Nesmith also played a strong game on the boards, grabbing off 10 rebounds.

Tech is idle until facing Arkansas Tech here February 3.

Tech beat the Cowboys at their own game of deliberate play, strong rebounding and strong defense. McNeese standout Don Troutman was held to five points and could contribute only two rebounds before fouling out in the late stages.

Canine coach Cecil Crowley inserted soph quad Butch Miller in the lineup in the second half to drive the middle against the Pokes and he did it successfully, contributing two field goals and three of three at the free throw line within a short time.

The Techsters had one of their better shooting nights hitting 15 of 33 from the field for a 45.4 percentage and 23 of 34 at the free throw line.

The Pokes connected on 17 of 34 field goal attempts for 38.6 and 11 of 19 charity tosses.

The second half was a nip and tuck affair with neither team ever leading by more than three points until the Bulldogs went in front to stay at the eight minute mark.

McNeese took the lead after intermission when Nesmith scored five straight points, but Abendroth hit a hook shot and then popped one from the circle.

Miller drove the middle gain to tie it up 34-34.

Don Upshaw and Neismith baskets gave the Pokes a 40-38 edge but Miller got three points on a drive and foul shot to give Tech the lead 41-40 and McNeese never caught up again.

Abendroth and Fair missed on crucial one and one shots with Tech nursing a three-point lead, but Graves got his four straight free throws and all the Lake Charles crew could do but foul and hope for the best.

The Axe 2nd Takes Win At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The Axe 2nd scored a runaway 6½-length victory Saturday in the $27,950 San Marcos Handicap at Santa Anita Park before 31,300.

The race lost most of its attraction, however, when the event was switched from the grass to the dirt track because of rain, and T.V. Lark, the big horse in the field, was scratched.

The time for the 1¼-mile San Marcos was 2:03.

In a co-feature for mares and fillies, Mr. and Mrs. Bert W. Martin's longshot, Rose O'Neill, captured the $29,050 Santa Maria Handicap, with Oil Royalty second and Teacation third. The highly favored Linita ran a badly beaten 10th.

Navy Rebounds For 61-51 Upset

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—A battling Navy team, sparked by an outstanding second half performance, rebounded to a 61-51 upset basketball victory over the Temple Owls Saturday.

The Middies, paced by 6-foot-6 Mike Miga, poured in 48 points in the second half after being on the short end of a 26-13 halftime score. Miga, the game's top scorer, scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half.

Southeastern Falls

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) I Spring Hill Saturday night downed Southeastern Louisiana 85-83.

Spring Hill, outscored from the field, placed 39 of 58 free throws to eke out their third victory of the season against nine losses and their first win against SLC in the last six games. Joe Nolfe scored 29 points to lead Spring Hill.

The Badgers led 51-41 at the half but SLC, with Albert Link and David Votaw finding the range, kept whittling away and ran the 41 to 54 points and a tie early in the second half.

On three more occasions in the closing minutes SLC went ahead, once 79-77 but the Badgers went to 85 after an 83-83 just before time ran out.

Odgen, Baskin Take Title Wins At Baskin Meet

BASKIN (Special) — Baskin's hometown cagers rolled by Fort Necessity, 65-40, in the boys division finals, and Odgen slipped by Baskin 44-38 for the girls championship in the annual Baskin basketball tournament.

In the title game, Archie Evans poked in 20 points for Baskin, and Gerald Massey hit 12 for the lossers.

Linda Hatton got 30 for Odgen in the final game, while Julia Cook dropped in 14 for Baskin.

The boys all-tournament team included Massey of Fort Necessity; Evans and Searcy of Baskin; Russell of Holly Ridge; and Ross also of Fort Necessity.

Girls selected for the girls squad were Hatton and Adams of Odgen; Tucker of Crowville; Jarrette and Wallace from Baskin; and Walters of Mangham.

Northwestern Wins

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Glenn Collie, Tommy Mathis and Truitt Weldon topped the 20-point mark Saturday night and led Northwestern State to an 88-72 basketball victory over Louisiana College.

Collie connected for 24 points in hitting on 10 of 12 field goal attempts while Mathis dropped 23 and Weldon added 22.

NSC, posting its sixth victory against 11 losses, led 37-25 at halftime and overwhelmed the visitors in the last half.

Don Rogers' 16 points led Louisiana College, losing its eighth game against five triumphs.

All-American Hits 32, Gets 18 Rebounds

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Ohio State's precision basketball forces rode to their 18th straight basketball victory Saturday night as the Buckeyes shattered Minnesota 90-76 in a Big Ten Conference game.

Jerry Lucas put on a brilliant exhibition for the top - ranked Bucks, scoring 32 points and hauling in 18 rebounds.

The tenacious Gophers stayed within hailing distance in the first half, trailing only 41-36 at intermission. But the Buckeyes broke it open by outscoring Minnesota 12-3 in the first 3:15 of the second half.

Lucas and John Havlicek cleared rebounds with vacuum cleaner efficiency, scopping up 30 between them to outdistance the Gopher team rebound effort of 22.

A crowd of 17,208 saw Ohio State spurt to its biggest lead of 21 points at 84-63 with about five minutes left to play.

Lucas had 14-for-17 from the field and hit four of five free throws for his total. Havlicek garnered 24 points and Mel Nowell added 13.

For Minnesota, only Erick Magdan with 22 and Bob Batement at 17 were able to score consistently, as the tight Buckeye defense forced the Gophers to take bad shots and to fire from long ranges.

Lucas excelled on defense, flicking off shots and intercepting passes, yet went 31:13 before being charged with a personal foul.

Havlicek time and again bulled his way in for layup shots and hauled down rebounds to touch off Buckeye fast breaks. The Buckeyes hit 56.3 per cent from the field to 38.5 by the Gophers.

Ferriday Wins Both Divisions Of Hoop Rally

FERRIDAY (Special) — Ferriday swept both boys and girls divisions of its own invitational basketball tournament here last night.

St. Joseph took consolation honors in boys play and Monterey in girls.

Billy Fernette scored 22 points in leading Ferriday scoring in a 62-55 win over Monterey for the boys championship but was matched by Tad Wilson of the losers who also hit 22.

In the girls finals, Dorothy Staggs scored 18 points and Becky Purvis 16 in pacing Ferriday over Block 51-39. Bradford sank 20 and Elva McMillian 19 for the losers.

St. Joseph took a 50-34 win over Block for boys consolation honors and Monterey swarmed over Sicily Island 57-28 in the girls division.

Monterey swept past St. Joseph 73-49 and Ferriday topped Block 60-44 in boys semi finals, while Block downed Monterey 33-21 and Ferriday dropped Sicily Island 57-31 in girls play.

Michigan State Topples Rival,

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A pair of sophomores supplied most of the scoring punch as Michigan State racked up an 80-74 victory over arch rival Michigan in a Big Ten basketball thriller Saturday.

Pete Gent, 6-3 sophomore who is the Spartans' leading scorer, paced the win with 22 points on nine baskets and four foul shots while 6-9 Fred Thomann, a sophomore making his first start under Coach Forddy Anderson's team shakeup, scored 21 on nine field goals and three free throws.

Ouachita Wins Woodlawn Jr. Hoop Tourney

Ouachita won the boys championship and Swartz the girls in the Woodlawn Junior High basketball tournament here last night

Ouachita's victory was over Lee 33-31. Platt copped 16 points for the winners and Terrance 10 for the losers.

Debbie Quinn popped in 17 points to lead Swartz over Logtown 24-14 in the girls championship game. Pam Shipp hit six for the losers.

Woodlawn took the girls consolation match with a 29-28 edge of Transylvania.

West Monroe's boys won consolation honors in their division with a 27-10 victory over Woodlawn.

In girls semi - final play Logtown topped Woodlawn 25-19 and Swartz downed Transylvania 32-26.

Ouachita beat West Monroe 25-15 in one boys semi-final game and Lee defeated Woodlawn 24-12 in the other.

Named to the boys all tournament team were Reedes, West Monroe; Jensen and Platt, Ouachita; and Cookston, and Terrance of Lee.

Forwards on the girls all-tourney team are, Guinn, Swartz; Thompson, Transylvania; and Shipp, Logtown. Guards are Wade Woodlawn; Burney, Swartz, and Smith, Lee.

Harrisonburg, Lisbon Capture Title Victories

BERNICE (Special)— Lisbon's boys found Farmerville easy pickings, and Harrisonburg's girls out distanced Marion to take championships in their respective divisions of the annual Bernice cage tournament here last night.

In the boys championship game, which Lisbon won 72-41, Glenn Saulters popped in 30 and Dave McAdams added 22 for the winners, while Billy Rich and Jerry Allen got 10 for Farmerville.

Helen Randall sparked Harrisonburg's sextet to its final 53-48 victory, finding the tange for 31 points. Wanda Brasher led the losers with 20.

The boys all-tournament selections included Glenn Saulters and Dave McAdams of Lisbon, Joey Barron of Spearsville, Jerry Allen of Farmerville, and Tommy Atkins from Homer.

In the girls division, Harrisonburg and Marion both had two girls chosen to the all-star squad. Helen Randal and Elaine Boothe represented Harrisonburg, and Wanda Brasher and Janis Crow were Marion's picks. Vergie Elliott of Bernice and Rosa Futch from Spearsville rounded out the team.

In girls semi-final action, Harrisonburg advanced to the finals by downing Spearsville, 54-35, while Marion topped Bernice 51-30 to advance.

Lisbon's boys won over Spearsville 63-46 and Farmerville stopped Homer, 44-38 in boys semi final play.

Campbell Holds Lead In Crosby's Tourney

By JACK STEVENSON

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Cigar-puffing Joe Campbell fired an even-par 72 over the tricky Cypress Point course Saturday to hold his lead after three rounds in the $50,000 Bing Crosby Golf Tournament with a 54-hole score of 210.

Veteran Doug Ford moved into close contention for Sunday's finals of this 72-hole tournament when he shot a 3-under-par 69 over the same course for a 212 total.

In the pro-amateur division, the leaders remained pro Bob McAllister and 5-foot-5 Albie Pearson, the Los Angeles Angels outfielder. They had a best-ball score of 62 and a 185 total.

Ford, of Vernon Hills, N.Y., was 3-under-par through nine holes but lost a stroke when he played the over-the-ocean 16th the safe way and took a bogey. He dropped a 12-foot putt to close out with a birdie at 18.

Jack Cupit of Longview, Tex., only a stroke off Campbell's pace going into the round, carded a 78 at Cypress when he hit over the sea cliff on the 17th hole and took an 8, 4-over-par. That left him well back at 217.

Phil Rodgers, collegiate champion in 1958, and winner of the Los Angeles Open two weeks ago, made a challenge but took a double bogey at the 11th hole playing Cypress and finished with an even-par 72 and 214 total. Also at 214 was Ken Venturi of San Francisco with a 73 at Pebble Beach. He hit 16 greens but couldn't collect a birdie.

The weather was clear and cool after a couple of morning showers. A crowd of about 25,000 swarmed over the three courses which form the scene for Crosby's event.

Englishman Bernard Hunt of London headed the foreign contingent with a 70 at Cypress and a 216 total. Also in the 216 group were pros Doug Sanders and Tommy Jacobs, who carded scores of 74 and 70, respectively. Jacobs won last week at San Diego.

The tournament saw its third hole-in-one in as many days as Al Geiberger, former University of Southern California star, sank one on the 122-yard 15th hole at Cypress. His No. 8 iron shot hit 10 feet past the cup and backspin put it in. Art Doering sank an ace the first day and Hunt carded one Friday.

Campbell had a chance to beat par after playing 2-under for the first six. But he went over par on the eighth when his second shot landed on a sandy rough spot.

The 190-pound ex-Purdue golf and basketball star also took bogey's on the 11th and 13th, the former when he hit into a trap and the latter when he three-putted. He fought back to even par by sinking a 9-foot birdie putt at the 17th, the place where Cupit ran into his trouble.

It took a 54-hole score of 224 or better for a pro to stay in the tournament and Gary Player of South Africa, last year's leading money-winner, was among those who didn't make it. He shot a 75 for a 228 total. Bob Goalby, one of the leading pros, also was shut out as he had a 75 for 225. Mike Souchak went out with 74 — 226, and Jimmy Demaret was in the 228 group after a 76.

Geiberger also was eliminated despite his hole in one. He shot a 72 for 230.

Sterlington To Hold 2nd Annual Booster Tourney

STERLINGTON (Special)—The second annual Sterlington Booster Club Independent cage tournament will be held this year, February 28, through March 3.

The tournament, which was a big success last year, features college and former college players. No high school payers are allowed to participate.

Rosters and an entrance fee of ten dollars must be turned in by all teams entered. Anyone wanting to enter a team should write Coach L. J. Fontenot, general delivery, Sterlington. All who are interested should write Coach Fontenot now for information about the tourney. Entry fees can be sent in later.

No team can have over 15 members, and the rosters must be complete by the first game in the tournament.

All men's games will have eight minute quarters with the exception of semi-finals and finals, and these will be 10 minutes. Girls will play seven minute quarters except for the semi-finals and finals. These will be eight minutes.

Baseball Meeting Will Be Held In Vidalia Monday

VIDALIA (Special) — L. L. Harrison, president of the Vidalia Babe Ruth League, has announced that there will be a very important baseball meeting Monday night at 7:30 in the Vidalia Community Center.

The meeting is being held to discuss, and vote on, whether or not Vidalia will stay in the Babe Ruth League this summer or change over to Dixie League.

Officers for the coming season will also be elected. All parents are urged to attend the meeting.

IN LOUISIANA

Hurler, LSU, Stars Make Hall Of Fame

By BILL McINTYRE
Shreveport Times Sports Editor
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn.)

Two of the finest athletes in the history of sports at Louisiana State University — Malcolm "Sparky" Wade and Glenn "Slats" Hardin — and a National League basebal pitcher for more than two decades — William "General" Lee — have been voted into the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame for 1961, by members of the sponsoring Louisiana Sports Writers Assn.

Wade, one of the greatest basketball players in the annals of the game, collected a total of 18 votes — from the 27 members of the LSWA casting ballots — to easily monopolize the fourth annual poll among Pelican State sportswriters and sportscasters.

Hardin, an outstanding track springer for LSU back in the early 30s, drew a total of 15 votes, while Lee was named on 6 ballots. Each member of the LSWA was allowed to vote for three former athletic greats.

Wade and Hardin thus moved into the Sports Hall of Fame by acclaim after missing out in 1960 by just one vote apiece. Both former Bayou Bengals picked up four votes last year as Jack Torrance, another ex-Tiger, nosed them out with a total of five.

HALL INCLUDES DOZEN

The election of Wade, Hardin and Lee increased membership in the Hall of Fame to 12, with Wade appearing as the first representative of basketball. And for the first time in four years football failed to land a berth.

Previously elected to the Hall were Mel Ott, Ted Lyons and Bill Dickey (baseball); Gaynell Tinsley, Chris Cagle and Steve Van Buren (football); Tony Canzoneri and Peter Herman (boxing); and Torrance (track and field).

To be eligible for the Sports Hall of Fame, nominees must have been inactive in their respective sports for at least five years prior to admission, and must either be natives of Louisiana, or gain their athletic reputations while residents of the state. No two nominations in any one year can represent the same sport.

Invitations have been extended to Wade, Hardin and Lee for the annual Hall of Fame ceremonies, held in connection with the Ark-La-Tex Sports Award Banquet will be staged at the Shreveport Country Club on Friday, Feb. 9th.

Of the past nine Hall of Famers, six—Lyons, Dickey, Tinsley, Canzoneri, Herman and Torrance—have been present for the Hall of Fame banquet; Ott and Cagle were honored post-humously. Only Van Buren, a resident of Philadelphia, was unable to accept his in person.

Wade's total of 18 votes was the highest in the LSWA poll since 1958 when Tinsley, Ott and Canzoneri dominated the ballot box. Lee, who failed to draw support last year, barely edged out ex-LSU coach Bernie Moore, former Centenary College Coach Bo McMillin and former Centenary All-American football player Paul Geisler.

OTHER VOTE-COLLECTORS

Moore, McMillin and Geisler each tabulated five votes. Others receiving support were former Northwestern State College basketball coach H. Lee Prather and ex-Tulane footballer Jerry Dalrymple with four each; National Football League fullback Howie Ferguson with three; former LSU and professional basketball star Frank Brian with two; and baseball's Ed Head and Atley Donald, track's Dudley Wilkins and Al Moreau, football's Don Zimmerman, boxing's Bernard Docusen and ex-LSU basketball coach Harry Rabenhorst with one apiece.

Three sports figures who drew some backing in last year's poll — Roland Romero (track), John Chaney (basketball) and Maj. Bill Jones (coaching) — failed to receive mention in the latest balloting.

Two of the three newest Hall of Famers still reside in Louisiana. Hardin, a world record - holder over the hurdles and twice a competitor in the Olympics, lives at 1515 South 24th Street in Baton Rouge, and is employed as a public relations man for a printing firm; Lee, who spent most of his major league career pitching for the Chicago Cubs, while Hall of Fame predecessor Ted Lyons was hurling for the crosstown White Sox, is a businessman in Plaquemine, where he was born on Oct. 21, 1909.

Wade, anative of Jena, is a pilot for a commercial airline and resides with his wife and four children at 8420 Southwest 94th Street in Miami, Fla.

WADE TOP DRIBBLER

Although exact scoring figures are unavailable on "Sparky" Wade's basketball career at LSU, he was considered as perhaps the greatest dribbler and backcourt guardian in Tiger history. Standing only 5-9, the LSU All-American played for the Bengals from 1932-35, earning A-A honors in both his junior and senior campaigns.

LSU's only other All - American has been Bob Pettit, now with the St. Louis Hawks, in 1953-54. But where Pettit was a 6-9 pivot at Tigertown, Wade was a pint-sized ball-handler . . . Swift, accurate in shooting, and superb on faking a defender out of position.

Before moving to LSU Wade was named to the Louisiana All-State team three times from 1928-30. In his senior year — when Athens, Tex., defeated Jena by 22-18 for the national scholastic championship at Chicago—"Sparky" was selected as the most valuable player in a tournament which drew clubs from throughout the country.

At Jena, Wade paced the Giants to two Louisiana prep titles, and in 1935 he sparked a Rabenhorst-coached LSU squad to the nation-collegiate championship.

HARDIN ON CHAMPIONS

Hardin, a member of LSU's 1933 track and field squad which won the NCAA championship, the only national cinder title in the school's history, was a standout during a period when the Tigers —coached by Bernie Moore — turned out such headliners as Torrance and Moreau. And Moreau and Hardin were among the world's greatest hurdlers.

"Slats" established an unofficial world's record of 22.4 seconds for the 200 meter low hurdles, in a Southern AAU meet at Baton Rouge, and was also clocked at 50.6 seconds for the 400-meter distance, over three-foot hurdles. Of Hardin's latter skip, Moore—now Southeastern Conference Commissioner—described it as close to perfection for that period.

Said Moore, when once discussing his brilliant hurdler from Greenwood, Miss. 'Believe it or not, the trouble with Slats, when he first started competing in fast company, was that he had too long a stride I worked on him for the better part of a full season to shorten his leg action."

Although 200 and 400 meter distances are not run in collegiate track nowadays, cinder adherents can get one idea of his speed

He ran the quarter-mile in 46.6 back in 1934.

The national high school quarter-mile and half-mile champion during his senior year at Greenwood, Hardin was also an outstanding football player. As an All-State halfback he led his club to the Mississippi state title in 1930, enough to earn him a football scholarship to LSU.

But onece at Tigertown he concentrated on the cinders. The National AAU 400-meter hurdle champion as a freshman, "Slats" entered the 1932 Olympics that same summer and placed second over the 400-meter distance. However, his 52 flat clocking was still accepted as a world record when the winner in that timber event kicked over the last hurdle, and was disqualified.

As a sophomore in 1933 Hardin won SEC championships in the 440 with a time of 47.1, and in the 220 low hurdles, with a 23.2 sprint. Then he, and just four teammates, captured the NCAA title at Chicago, with Hardin winning the quarter-mile in 47-flat and the low hurdles in 22.9.

Along came his junior year in 1934 . . . And a world record of 46.8 in the 440 dash, the 22.4 world standard in the 220-yard low hurdles at the SAAU meet, repeat wins in both events at the NCAA meet, and a world record 51-8 clocking in the 400-meters at the National AAU championships.

That summer he was chosen on an All-American track and field team which toured Europe. At Stockholm, Sweden, "Slats" cracked the world record in the 400 - meter hurdles with a 50.6 time, which was to stand up for 20 years.

A leg injury hampered Hardin as a senior in 1935 but he still hung in there to again win SEC titles in the 440 dash and 220 low hurdles. At the Penn Relays he recovered from a spill to win going away. Later that year, at the NCAA meet, he placed second in both the 440 run and 220 hurdles, losing to Ohio State's Jesse Owens in the latter sprint for the wire.

Again in 1936 he competed in the Olympic Games (this time at Berlin. And won a gold medal for winning time of 52 seconds in his favorite event, the 400-meter hurdles.

Hardin's final total of accomplishments included eight national titles, three world records, an Olympic gold medal, and one Olympic record.

LEE TOSSES SHUTOUT

Bill Lee, who played freshman football at LSU before embarking on his National League career, made his big league mound debut on May 7, 1934, blanking the Philadelphia Phils by 2-0. He appeared in 40 games in his rookie campaign and finished up with a 13-14 record.

Before he hung up his glove and spikes in 1947 the "General" had won 169 games for the Cubs, Phillies and Boston Braves, while losing 157. Twice he came up with 20-game winning seasons In his sophomore 1935 stretch when he posted a 20-6 record, again in 1938 when he wound up with 22.9.

In 1936 with the Cubs he was 18-11 and in 1939 he posted a 19-15 mark. He appeared in 467 major league games in all, 369 of those with the Chicubs. Bill also worked in two World Series, dropping two decisions, and he worked a couple of All-Star games, taking the loss in one of those.

Among records posted by Lee He led the National League in won-lost percentages twice, in 1935-38; won the earned run average, games won and shutout titles in 1938; tied for the most number of shutouts in 1936; and equalled a league record for consecutive shutout games in a single season, with four during the month of September in 1938.

After a full decade with the Cubs, Lee was traded to the Phillies in August of 1943 for catcher Thompson (Mickey) Livingston; the Phillies then sold him to the Braves on waivers in July of 1945. He finished back with the Cubs in 1947.

Livingston was later to manage the Shreveport Sports in the Texas League during the early 50s. The Sports were based at a ballpark just a couple of miles from the site where Lee will receive his Hall of Fame plaque.

Wade, Hardin and Lee will be honored at the Sports Award Banquet along with Charlie Hennigan of the Houston Oilers and Roland Jackson of Rice University. Hennigan, a native of Minden who established an all-time professional football pass-catching yardage record during the 1961 season, was picked as the Ark-La-Tex Professional Athlete of the Year; Jackson, a high school product of Ruston who played fullback for the Rice Owls, was named as the Ark-La-Tex College Athlete of the Year.

They'll be appearing in good company With Wade, Hardin and Lee.

JOHN PENNEL

DAVE STYRON DON STYRON

NEXT SATURDAY AT LUBBOCK

Styrons, Pennel Continue Duels Against SWC Stars

Northeast State's Dave Styron is scheduled to continue his duel with Ralph Alspaugh in the 60-yard dash and pole vaulter John Pennel will have another crack at SMU's Dexter Elkins in the Lubbock Indoor Invitational Meet in Lubbock, Texas, next Saturday night.

Dave Styron and Alspauch have met twice this season, with each winning one race, while Elkins defeated Pennel in Houston's Bluebonnet meet, vaulting 15-6½ to Pennel's 15-4.

Don Styron is also slated to participate in the Lubbock affair. He missed the Bluebonnet meet because of illness. Don will compete in the 60-yard high hurdles with his top competition expected to come from Ray Cunningham of Texas, Bobby Bernard of TCU, Bob Swafford of Texas Tech and David Bennett of Texas.

All three of the Northeast athletes will compete as unattached entries in the meet.

Alspaugh, a former Texas University star now running for the Austin Athletic Club, and Dave Styron matched strides this season in the Sugar Bowl and Bluebonnet meets. Alspaugh edged Styron in the Sugar Bowl's 100-yard dash, both being clocked at 9.8, while the Northeast sprinter whipped the Texas runner in the Bluebonnet's 60-yard dash, both running the event in 6.2.

Pennel, who went 15-1½ in the Sugar Bowl, is expected to face both Elins and Rice's Fred Hansen at Lubbock. Hansen matched Pennel's height of 15-4 in the Bluebonnet meet.

Cunningham defeated Don Styron in the 120-yard high hurdles at the Sugar Bowl, winning the event in 13.9 while Styron came in thirds at 14.5. Bernard has run the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.0, Swafford in 14.2 and Bennett in 14.3. Both Don Styron and Cunningham have run the event in 13.7. Don's best time in the 60-yard high hurdles is 7.2. Styron is the world record holder in the 220-yard low hurdles with 21.9.

1961 ROUNDUP

Local, Area Schools Shone In Northeast La. Last Year

By PAUL MARTIN
Executive Sports Editor

Organized school athletics easily dominate the northeast Louisiana sports scenery in 1961 with an almost completely year around program of basketball, baseball, track, and football.

Stock car racing, boxing, and pro baseball, which have had strong programs running here in recent years, were notably absent in 1961, while bowling continued to grow, fishing and hunting boomed as participation outdoor sports, and Ouachita parish came up with its first archery club.

HARMON-ROWE

Sports away from the college and high school programs recorded the death of two of baseball's notables — Bob Harmon of Monroe, a former pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates, and Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, a former Detroit Tiger pitching star, who played semi - pro baseball at Bastrop and was an amateur basketball whiz for the old Brown Paper Mill Safety Firsts of West Monroe, twice SAAU champions in the 1930s.

Jack Torrance, former Oak Grove High football power, who won athletic fame at LSU and in the 1934 Olympics, was elected to the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame.

DIXIE SERIES

West Monroe, after inspection by Danny Jones, national commissioner of Little Boys Baseball, and Matt Goyak, national president, was awarded in December the 1962 Dixie World Series scheduled for next August.

The 13th annual Cotton States Invitational Golf Tournament was won on Labor Day by Gene Dahlbender, Atlanta, Ga., and Don Sims, Bastrop, won the annual Kraft Paper Golf Tournament.

Jim Mahoney, after building St. Matthew's of Monroe to basketball power in the Class A ranks, including three district 2-A titles and one state championship, left the Irish to join the staff of the new South Terrebonne High at Houma.

The Floyd Martin Memorial Sportsmanship trophy, an annual top award of the Ouachita Unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, was won by J. B. Thoman.

McBETH DOUBLE DIP

J. M. McBeth, manager of Bayou DeSiard Country Club, "double dipped" in being named first president of the newly organized Ouachita Bows, an archery club, and was also named commissioner of the Northeast Louisiana High School Basketball Officials Association. His wife, Elise, made news winning or placing high in the women's division of several archery tournaments.

Rains in late March resulted in cancellation of the annual Northeast State Easter Baseball Tournament, and the rains continued regularly throughout the spring and summer, playing havoc with high school and semi-pro baseball schedules and other sports events.

Monroe, blaming poor gate support, quit the La-Ark League in mid-summer. Rains hurt the La-Ark as well.

Neville High of Monroe produced state champions in double-A baseball and football, and Monroe also came up with another Brown - Rivers - Scogin state champion American Legion Junior baseball club for Coach Ralph Sims.

Dubach won the state Class B baseball championship.

Tallulah's Trojans repeated as state Class A grid champions, and Carroll High of Monroe won the state Negro triple-A championship.

Newman of New Orleans dethroned St. Matthew's as state Class A cage kings; the Ruston boys won the state double-A basketball title; and girls' state cage crowns also went to Lake Providence, Class B, and Ferriday, Class A.

Louisiana Tech won Gulf States titles in baseball, track and golf.

The Neville quintet won the first annual News-Star — World Invitational High School basketball tourney; Baptist won the annual Christmas Basketball Tournament at Northeast State.

STYRONS RETURN

Northeast also welcomed the September return of the Styron twins, Dave and Don, a couple of Colorado boys who won track fame for the Tribe before moving to Illinois for one year.

Deer hunters had one of their biggest seasons, but the north Louisiana duck hunters were a disgruntled bunch over the worst season in their memory. The duck season was poor for this area because of the early opening and closing, November 10 to November weren't coming in later.

Some of the area highlights for the year:

Warriors Take Seventh Straight Win Over Detroit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Warriors continued their National Basketball Association domination over Detroit Saturday, defeating the Pistons 123-107 in a nationally televised game.

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain scored 44 points as the Warriors won their seventh straight from the Pistons.

Philadelphia went on the warpath in the third period to nail down the victory after trailing 52-51 at the half.

In the third period the Warriors totaled 36 points to the Pistons' 23.

Guy Rodgers and Joe Ruklick were the playmakers behind the Warrior victory. Rodgers, in action all but four minutes, sparked the third period rally. He scored 16.

The game was tight throughout the first half, with the score tied 11 times. Detroit had several leads, ahead by as much as eight points at one time.

However, Ruklick, netting 10 points in only 14 minutes of play, sparked a second half surge that brought the Warriors within one point at the half.

Foxx Tries New Line Now; Selling Instead Of Signing

By HAL LEBOVITZ

CLEVELAND (AP) — At one time a hot item in the sporting goods business was a glove or a bat autographed by Jimmie Foxx. Today Roger Maris' bats and gloves are best sellers.

And here's the twist: Jimmie Foxx is selling the Maris models.

You'll find the 54-year-old Hall of Fame slugger on the second floor at a downtown department store. He's a salesman in their sporting goods department. It's a new job for Jimmie, known in his baseball prime as Double X.

Foxx is starting all over again as breadwinner for the Foxx family, which consists of his wife and son, Jimmie Jr., a sophomore and athlete at Lakewood High School.

Foxx recently went through bankruptcy. "I didn't want to do it," he explained, "but a food company I had been associated with collapsed and all of a sudden I got a big bill that wasn't mine. I had no choice."

Financially, he admitted, he's wiped clean, a bank account showing zero, and unable to afford a telephone at home. Misfortune has been frowning on Foxx for some time. Yet, he smiles pleasantly.

"Why not?" he said. "I'm alive."

Jimmie came to Cleveland a couple of years ago. His friend, Mickey O'Neil, a former major league catcher, owns a nursery in the area and offered Foxx a job. Foxx, however, was unable to handle the physical work involved. A few years ago, while he was trying to move a trunk, his foot caught and he fell down a flight of stairs, fracturing a spinal disc and causing a permanent partial paralysis to his left side.

Next he obtained a job at city hall, but civil service stepped in and he lacked the qualifications. Out of a job, the Ohio State Unemployment Service signed him up, putting him to work getting jobs for others. Again civil service stepped in. "I was sick the day the test was given and couldn't take it," he said. "And truthfully I wasn't qualified for the work."

JIMMY FOXX

His back feels much better when he's up and around as he is now doing at the department store. Some of the customers have recognized him, he mentioned, including a few women. "There's nothing like women baseball fans," grinned Foxx. "They're the most rabid kind."

Naturally he enjoys talking about baseball. It's his game. The record shows he was remarkably good at it, being named most valuable player of the American League in 1932, 1933 and 1938. He is the only man to hit 30 or more home runs for a dozen years. In 1932 he hit 58 homers, two short of Babe Ruth's mark. His lifetime batting average was .325.

This is the year he had in 1938 for the Philadelphia Athletics: 175 runs batted in, 50 homers and a .349 batting average.

And for this remarkable year he received his all-time high salary—$27,000.

The story of Foxx's life could be entitled, "too little, too soon." "I was talking to Joe DiMaggio recently," recalled Foxx. "Joe said, 'Jimmie, you were born 25 years too soon.'"

Bonuses were unheard of when Foxx signed his first pro contract in 1924. "I got $125 a month, period," he recalled.

But Foxx confessed he did make enough from baseball to live comfortably now if he had handled his money more intelligently.

"I spent my share," Foxx admitted. "We lived all right. If I had it to do all over I'd invest differently and not live as freely."

But that's all behind him and he refuses to brood about the past. Foxx smiles behind the counter and shows the customers the merchandise. He tried on a Maris glove. It was too small for his big hand.

He talked about Maris. "He has good power, but he isn't a good hitter," said the slugging great. "But he hit 61 homers. That's the important thing. It's a lot more important than being a good hitter."

Would Foxx have a different life today if he had managed to equal or break Ruth's record?

"Oh, I'd have made more money," he observed. "But not nearly as much as Maris will make. We didn't have as many endorsement opportunities."

Hunter Hired

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—Harold T. (Hal) Hunter, a former star lineman at Pitt, was named Saturday as offensive line coach of the West Virginia University football team.

"Mr. Williamson? This is Red Glasco at Brown-Rivers-Scogin"

During the 21 years that this Ford dealership has been operating, I've seen some fantastic deals made but never any to match those that are being made now during our record busting month of January. It's a good time for you and me to get together and close the deal on that Falcon station wagon we've been discussing."

SEA ISLAND OPEN

Wright Gains Lead In Ladies Tourney

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Mickey Wright armored herself against the weather with heavy clothing Saturday and posted another 75, 3 over par, for a one-stroke lead in the Sea Island Ladies Open Golf Tournament.

Hitting the ball well, Miss Wright, from Dallas, Tex., demonstrated her mastery of the Sea Island course.

Twice she drove into the water only to recover and post nines of 39 and 36 for a two-day total of 150.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., miscued on the 18th hole and had to settle for second at 151 on the basis of her 75. Her short approach shot went wide of the cup and the 12-foot putt that would have gained a tie failed to drop.

Most golfers in the field of more than 100 complained that the Sea Island course was too demanding to start a tournament year.

Marilynn Smith of Jupiter, Fla., who had tied Miss Wright the first day, carded a 78 and 153 total. Her final nine was a 5-over-par 41.

Miss Wright, three times previous champion of the 54-hole tournament, accused herself of "an idiot shot" on the 13th when she put her drive in the water. But she turned in an even par 36 on the nine.

Sandra Haynie, Fort Worth, Tex., retained fourth spot with another 77 for a 154 total.

A fifth place tie at 156 with Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., was gained by newcomer pro Beth Stone of Muskogee, Okla. She shot the day's low round of 74, eight strokes better than her first day.

ONE OF WORST EVER

River Ice Gorge Stalls Towboats

CAIRO, Ill (AP)—Prospects of an early breakup of a gigantic ice gorge in the Mississippi River are so dim that most crewmen on stalled towboats have been sent home on vacation.

About 20 towboats and 250 barges are tied up at Cairo as a result of the ice jam, described as one of the worst of the century. And more are arriving every day.

Capt. Aubrey E. Turner of the motor vessel Miss Lou said it was the worst ice lockup he has seen in 20 years on the river.

"And some of the real oldtimers say this is the worst since 1903, but that's a little before my time," Turner added.

He estimated that some 250 barges are tied off at the boat terminal on the relatively ice free Ohio River at Cairo. The Miss Lou was pushing five empties and five loads from New Orleans to St. Louis.

Turner and some other rivermen took a car tour of the river Friday and the Mississippi seems to be jammed bank to bank with ice for 26 miles above Cairo, he said.

"We'll need rain and warm weather before she breaks up," said the captain.

He said about 10 boats and their bows were stopped above the ice jam at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Most of the captains have sent all but skeleton crews home on accumulated time off, Turner said. Rivermen build up a day off for every day they work.

Turner said there was some worry that the Ohio River, too, could become blocked with ice if the cold weather continues. He said some boats, originally on orders to Mississippi River points, have been diverted up the Ohio. These had mainly cargoes of oil that could be sold at points other than the original destination.

The Miss Lou has been held at Cairo for eight days and Turner said some boats have been there longer.

"We tried to break through a couple of times at first but soon gave that up as the gorge would just close in behind us," Turner said.

Negro Is Booked On DWI Charge

Monroe police booked a 26-year-old Negro man for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages early Saturday morning.

Chief James C. Kelly identified him as Ira Albert, of 1903 Breard St., Monroe.

Albert was taken into custody at 12:15 a.m. in the 200 block of Renwick Street. He was held under a $500 bond.

Envoys Say Soviet Cools Berlin Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Some western diplomats surmised Saturday that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is cooling off the Berlin crisis deliberately for tactical reasons of his own.

If this assumption is correct, the Soviet leader will take his time about signing a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

It is even possible that Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's Communist leader, has been so informed.

Informants stressed, however, that such developments should not be hailed with relief by the West. Quite the contrary. All that may be happening is that Khrushchev is making the diplomatic chess match for Berlin's future more complex. The basic conflict of East-West interests remains.

Khrushchev could be convinced that time is working to his advantage in the divided city. In the words of one diplomatic source, he may be waiting for West Berlin "to wither on the vine."

Western statesmen privately concede that West Berlin might become a ghost city in time if the present stalemate continues. As long as the Communist wall there remains unbreached, there is always the danger that the morale of the West Berliners will slowly be sapped. Statesmen in the West have given considerable thought to ways of preventing just such adevelopment.

British and American diplomats have disclosed that Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson's diplomatic probe in Moscow has made little progress thus far. Prospects for an early East-West conference on Berlin's future have not improved.

Western sources say Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has assumed a stiff and unyielding attitude.

Why? Is Gromyko playing for time while a struggle for power goes on in the Kremlin between Khrushchev and the old Stalinists who believe the Soviet premier is taking too soft a line with the West?

Such a theory is discounted by many diplomats. They are prepared to believe that some sort of policy struggle is going on in Moscow, but they think it is being fought out in wider issues than the Berlin problem alone.

BIG TEST STILL AHEAD

Algerian Struggle 3-Cornered Affair

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—A war of blood and nerves is being fought in Algeria and France, threatening any day to plunge the countries into ruin.

The struggle is three-cornered—involving President Charles de Gaulle, the Algerian rebels and the rightist secret army organization.

Like poker players with gigantic stakes, each is keeping his hand partly shielded, awaiting the right moment to make his play.

Since the holidays, at least 300 persons—Europeans and Moslems—have fallen to terrorist bullets and grenades as the seven-year-old Algerian revolt entered a new and climactic stage. Thundering charges of plastic, touched off by the secret army, have caused heavy property damage within this capital itself. But the big test is yet to come.

Much studied opinion is this: it will come when—and if—the rebels and De Gaulle announce a formal agreement on Algeria's future or move their secret talks out of the shadows to a public, official stage. Some leaks from the secret army tend to confirm what has long been fairly evident: De Gaulle and the rebels are basically in accord that Algeria will be independent, and will maintain links with France.

Nothing seems to stand in the way of a formal announcement of a broad agreement in principle—nothing but the secret army organization.

Many feel—and the belief is shared in French official quarters—that the secret army is holding off its all-out effort until it has such an agreement for a clear target. This has become reasonably clear from a flood of secret army tracts.

One source said a few days ago: "When an agreement is announced there will be a general uprising in Algeria among the Europeans. It's perfectly normal because they will feel they are acting in self-defense—defense of a French Algeria."

De Gaulle and Premier Michel Debre meet almost continuously with defense and Algeria administrative chiefs. Spokesmen assert "drastic action" will be taken against the secret army to prevent "bloody folly." Paris police patrols have been doubled.

THIEVES STEAL POISON

PARIS (UPI) — Police reported Friday that thieves stole a truck Thursday which carried a package of 500 grams of curare, enough of the deadly poison to kill 25,000 persons. Police made frantic radio and television appeals for its recovery.

JFK PLANS SEVERAL

Economic Message Next For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—This being the busy season for White House prose, anyone in official Washington who isn't contributing to a presidential message must feel as conspicuous as the only son left out of a will.

President Kennedy sent his budget proposal to Congress on Thursday. On Monday comes his economic message. Then his foreign trade message, one on farm income, another on welfare programs, another on transportation.

These are Kennedy's expressions of his programs for 1962 and beyond. They are based on material contributed by departments and agencies all around town. The agencies have men who stay up nights writing accounts of what happened last year and what ought to happen next year.

The State of the Union message is the most highly polished document a president prepares for Congress. In person, he recounts his deeds and ambitions to listeners who often feel they've been through the whole business before.

Kennedy's State of the Union message evolved over a period of weeks. It finally emerged at 2 o'clock on a bitterly cold winter's morning, after being promised to newsmen hours before with the understanding that it could not be used before delivery at 12:30 p.m.

Shortly before 2 a.m., Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to the President, dragged into his office and told weary secretaries they could go home. Sorensen is Kennedy's main speechwriting aide.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger called in reporters and distributed the texts.

Early Thursday afternoon Kennedy spoke for 52 minutes to a packed House chamber, concluding the production of a speech he had started fitting together Christmas week in Palm Beach, Fla.

The finished article bore little resemblance to the original draft. Kennedy takes the usual pride of authorship in a well-turned phrase—and is as willing to rewrite himself as any author who has won a Pulitzer Prize—as he has. He had decided at the outset this would not be a high-style speech, in the manner of his inaugural and first State of the Union message, but more of a straight recital.

MONROE MORNING WORLD

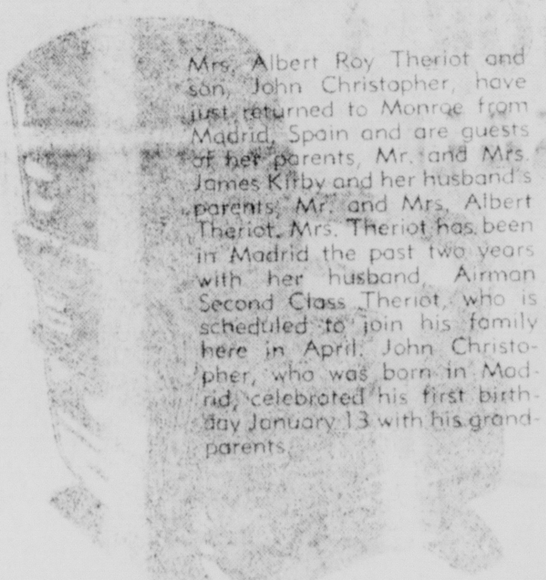

January, 21

Engagement of Miss Betty Jo Slaughter, daughter of Mrs. Elmer Carlton Slaughter and the late Mr. Slaughter, 1509 Spencer Avenue, to John Richard Dunn of Houston, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Andrew Dunn of West Monroe, is announced today by the mother of the bride-elect. The wedding is planned for April 21 in St. Paul's Methodist church of Monroe. Miss Slaughter is a junior student at Rice University in Houston. Mr. Dunn, a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute is employed in Houston.

Mrs. Murray Otis Bridges, prior to her marriage Saturday; January 13 in Christ Episcopal Church at Bastrop, was Miss Betsy Rawls, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Larche Rawls of Bastrop. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Otis E. Bridges, also of Bastrop. The couple will be at home after February 1 in New Orleans, where both will continue their studies.

Mrs. Albert Roy Theriot and son, John Christopher, have just returned to Monroe from Madrid, Spain and are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kirby and her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Theriot. Mrs. Theriot has been in Madrid the past two years with her husband, Airman Second Class Theriot, who is scheduled to join his family here in April. John Christopher, who was born in Madrid, celebrated his first birthday January 13 with his grandparents.

Established in their new home, located on Elmwood Drive are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olmsted and family, who moved to Monroe last August from Wichita, Kansas. Pictured with their mother in the living room of their new home are Eddie, 13; Billy, 11 and Janet, 4.

Visitors in the city from Abqaq, Saudi Arabia have been Mr. and Mrs. Wayne M. Matheson, who were guests of her cousin, Mrs. Morris Harrison and Mr. Harrison, 1015 N. Second. The Mathesons, who spent the past 13 years in Saudi Arabia, are en route to Orlando, Florida, to establish residence.

Bastrop Episcopal Church Scene Of Vows Uniting Betsy Rawls, Mr. Bridges

Simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Betsy Rawls and Murray Otis Bridges which was solemnized Saturday, January 13 at 10 a.m. in Christ Episcopal Church at Bastrop. Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Jack Larche Rawls and Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Bridges, all of Bastrop.

Four silver altar vases holding pyramid arrangements of white stock, alternated with six single office lights, were placed on the retable to form a setting for the exchange of vows. The Rev. Richard R. Cook, rector of Christ Episcopal and St. Andrew's churches, officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

Preceding the ceremony a concert of nuptial selections, including Lohengrin's Wedding March was presented by the organist, James V. Jones Jr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white wool suit, complemented with pearl buttons and a white mink collar. To complete her ensemble she wore a white pillbox and white accessories and carried a nosegay of candytuft and white velvet leaves encircling a white cattleya orchid.

Miss Vikki Jan Nielsen was maid of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore a suit of muted turquoise wool with matching accessories and carried a nosegay of pink pompon chrysanthemums with pink velvet leaves.

Dr. Bridges attended his son as best man and ushers were Scott Rawls, brother of the bride and Carlisle Bridges, brother of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rawls was wearing a green printed silk costume suit with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bridges selected a blue wool suit with accessories to match and both wore corsages of yellow - throated white orchids.

A wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. A footed white milk glass compote filled with white tulips and stock graced the piano in the living room to form a background for the receiving line. A miniature arrangement of white pompons in a milk glass bowl was placed on the coffee table.

Miss Sarabeth Ferguson presided at the bride's book and background music throughout the occasion was provided by Jim Jones.

The refreshment table, covered with a white imported linen cloth was centered with a five-branched candelabra, encircled with white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Lawrence Spier, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl; Mrs. Ben Berry at the silver coffee service and Mrs. J. V. Jones served the cake.

Among the out-of-town guests were James R. Callender of Baton Rouge; L. E. Rawls, Monroe; Miss Sandra Folse, Northwestern State College, Natchitoches and Miss Lillian Dupree, Shreveport.

The bride is a graduate of Bastrop high school and attended Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is presently attending Soule Business college in New Orleans. Mr. Bridges, also a graduate of Bastrop high school, is attending Louisiana State University, where he is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

For a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast, the bride wore her wedding suit, with a white mink hat and a tangerine coat. Her corsage was the orchid from her bouquet. After February 1 the couple will be at home in New Orleans, where they will continue their studies.

REHEARSAL SUPER

On Friday evening preceding the wedding of their son and his fiancee, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Bridges entertained the bridal party at a rehearsal dinner in the Orchid Room at Arlie's Restaurant in Bastrop.

White chrysanthemums and stock combined with greenery formed the central arrangement for the long white covered table. For the occasion Miss Rawls was wearing a turquoise raw silk frock with matching accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums. During the evening the couple exchanged gifts and presented gifts to their attendants.

Other guests included Dr. and Mrs. Rawls, the Rev. and Mrs. Richard R. Cook, Miss Vikki Nielson, Scott Rawls, Carlisle Bridges and Jim Jones.

Welcome Home Party Honors Mrs. Theriot, Son

A party honoring Mrs. Albert Roy Theriot and son, John Christopher Theriot, who have just returned to Monroe from Madrid, Spain, was held Sunday afternoon, January 14 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Theriot on Chaucer.

The occasion was to welcome home Mrs. Theriot, who had spent the past two years in Madrid, where her husband is stationed, and to introduce young John Christopher, who was born January 13, 1961 in Madrid.

Decorated cakes were served with punch from the dining table during the afternoon.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Kirby, parents of Mrs. Albert Roy Theriot, Miss Cora Theriot, Freddie Theriot, Mrs. Leslie Kiper, Dottie Lue and Richard Kiper, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Briley, Randy and Kathy Briley; Mrs. Annette Moore, Anita and Tommy Moore; Mrs. Louis Elias, Mrs. Sam Lasuzzo, Mrs. Anna Garrigus, Miss Ronnie Hervey, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holdiness, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Kenny, Mrs. M. B. Ratcliff, Therese and Deryl Ratcliff; Mrs. Skeeter Smith, Randy and Kim Smith; Mrs. Paul Goldman, Mrs. Phil Goldman and Anna Pat Goldman; Jerome Braud, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvian Ardoin, Denise, Sylvia, Mike, Robert and Walton Ardoin and the honorees.

Surprise parties are fun at any time of year, and never more so than during gloomy, cold, wet Winter. When the social calendars lists few large galas and weather prohibits outdoor activities, then 'tis time for intimate gatherings and visits with friends.

This week there were three surprise parties over on the Island. Two celebrated birthdays and one a coming birth. Saturday afternoon JEANIE DOWNING was honored on her birthday at a gathering planned by daughter RENEE, seven years old. The little hostess enlisted her father's help in ordering sandwiches and birthday cake; then invited about ten of Jeanie's friends over for a tea party. Later in the evening the birthday girl was treated to an evening out with the family for dinner and a movie.

On his fortieth birthday, JIMMY MOORE was surprised with a dinner party at home, Saturday night. Betty arranged for him to be called away "on business while seven couples, all friends since high school days, gathered. Included on supper menu were ham and turkey, a green bean casserole, and combination salad, with birthday cake made and decorated by the children.

A stork shower was the surprise planned for HELEN LEWIS on Wednesday morning. Hostesses for the party were BARBARA RIVERS, JEAN HAMILTON, and CAROL M'DONALD, in whose home the party was given. Helen, ostensibly invited for bridge, received an orchid corsage as well as a doll buggy filled with gifts. A spring bouquet of tulips, daffodils, and Dutch iris, decorated the living room. On the dining table was a centerpiece using a figure of a stork with lavender flowers. Coffee was served, with assorted pastries.

Several parties in the last week have honored the VAN CLARKS, who left Monroe yesterday. The Clarks and their children, KATHERINE, KAREN, and THOMAS, are moving to Spokane, Washington to make their home.

On Monday evening, LOUISE BIRD and MATTIE LAYNE MALONE honored Juanita Clark at a conversational hour in the Bird home. Guests included members of Juanita's garden club and a few other friends. The honoree received from her hostesses a pin cushion of blue velvet and antiqued gold; and from the garden club, a matching picture frame. Her corsage was of red carnations with forget-me-nots. In the centerpiece, balloons with faces, carrying out the theme of "New Faces" were used with ivy and yellow chrysanthemums. Open-face sandwiches, hot tamale dip, and assorted candies were served with coffee to about thirty-five ladies.

Other parties honoring the Clarks have included a dinner at the home of the BEUFORD JACKAS Friday evening, and dinner with the CARL HESSICKS and DONALD WADLEYS Saturday. On Tuesday, the WALTER REEDS were hosts at a family party, and on Wednesday the LEE HERRONS invited the Clarks for dinner at the Embers.

This week we were privileged to visit the new home of the DAVID HILLEYS on Country Club road. This house, built of antique brick, is situated on a lot running through the block to Lakeside Drive, so that it has a "front elevation" in both directions. One enters from Country Club through a charming white fence with swinging gate. The antique brick of the construction is repeated in entrance hall flooring. Furniture in the hall includes an old dry sink with an arrangement of greenery beneath a gold framed mirror, and a deacon's bench against another wall.

To the left, the living room runs through the house, with long windows overlooking both streets. Tiered curtains are of bone white, matching three walls of the room, and carpeting is turquoise. Covering the fourth wall is a turquoise paper, patterned after an old New England design. This pattern is repeated in the material used to cover two wing chairs. A white sofa faces the antique brick fireplace, set in a white-painted panelled wall. Above the fireplace hangs a Federalist eagle, and to one side, an old brass lantern.

Off the living room and behind the entrance is the family room, which opens onto the gallery across the back side of the house. Here flooring is of antique brick as is the large open fireplace with its hanging crane and barbecue grill. Chartered oak is used for panelling, bookshelves, louvered door covering a roomy sewing closet. Furniture includes an antique desk with pewter lamp, blue sofa with coffee table made from an old meat bench, wing chair covered in Indian tree pattern.

In the kitchen, arranged for charm and efficiency, turquoise stove, refrigerator, dishwasher, are surrounded by cabinets of chartered oak, neatly built to fit. Behind the stove is a wall of old brick, and walls above the cabinets are covered with wallpaper in a blue and green print.

In the master bedroom, a blue and green print wallpaper is used behind the bed, with walls and carpeting picking up the avacado green of the pattern. Curtains and dust ruffle are white, as are draperies hanging from the headboard attached to the wall above the bed. . . . The bedroom shared by HARRIET and LINDA is painted in palest pink, with shelves to hold doll collections and furniture. Pink and white striped chintz is used for dust ruffle and valance, with coverlet of pink quilted chintz. . . . SUSAN's room features an unusual arrangement, with the bed set in a curtained recess. A beautiful material of white chintz printed with violets in natural colors is used for draperies, and dust ruffle, with a lavender coverlet and lavender carpeting.

DAVID and JOHN have an all-boy type room, with Western scenic print paper above charter oak wainscoating. Double decker folding beds are built into the wall and covered by louvered oak doors.

A most unusual feature of the bedroom wing is arrangement of bathrooms, with several partitions dividing sections. Master bedroom, boys' and girls' rooms each have a private "powder room." The stall shower has two glass doors which open one into boys' room, one into master suite. The bathtub is accessible to girls' and their parents, with louvered doors dividing this section from the others.

Our poem today is by Glen Allen, entitled "The Woman I Am."

The woman I am hides deep in me
Beneath the woman I seem to be.
She hides away from the stranger's eye—
She is not known to the passers-by.
She goes her way, the woman I seem.
But the woman I am withdraws to dream!
The woman I seem goes carelessly—
When love goes by does not seem to see.
But the woman I am knows sudden fear
And hides more deeply when love draws near!
For love might look closely perhaps . . . and see
Her beneath the woman I seem to be!

Coffee Fetes Residents Moving To Washington

A farewell courtesy honoring Mrs. Van Clark and her mother, Mrs. T. O. Woolley was an afternoon coffee given Tuesday, January 16 at the home of Mrs. Mildred Chapman, 1516 Nat in West Monroe, with Mrs. Ed Cagle and Mrs. Alan Roberson as Co-hostesses.

Mrs. Clark with her husband and their three children and Mrs. Woolley moved yesterday, January 20 to Spokane, Washington to establish residence.

For the occasion Mrs. Clark was wearing a brown crepe sheath with blouson bodice and Mrs. Woolley wore a magenta suit with overblouse of matching shade. The honorees were presented corsages to complement their ensembles by the hostesses, who are nieces of Mrs. Woolley and cousins of Mrs. Clark.

The hostesses and Mrs. Neal Duncan, who presided at the silver coffee service, also wore corsages.

Placed on the registry table near the entrance was a bronze bottle used as a container for spring flowers and grapes, beside which was a single candle in a crystal holder. Mrs. Cagle presided at the punch bowl at opposite end of the table from the coffee service. Centering the table was a brandy snifter in which floated pink roses with candles in crystal holders at either side.

A large number of relatives and friends called between the appointed hours from 1 until 4 p.m.

Presbyterian Church Site Of Russell-Waddill Vows

White gladioli and white candles formed a setting in the First Presbyterian Church Solarium for the wedding of Miss Betty Waddill and C. R. Russell, which was solemnized Saturday, January 13 at 7:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Burg Waddill, Horseshoe Lake Road, and the late Dr. Waddill and Mr. Russell is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Russell of Monroe.

Rev. W. H. McFadden performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the family members and close friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Paul Ransom. She wore a powder blue wool suit with a brief veil attached to her flower pillbox hat. Her other accessories were in navy and her bouquet was of white glamellias.

Mrs. Paul Ransom, sister of the bride, served as her only attendant and the bridegroom's cousin, Ed Russell, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. White gladioli formed the centerpiece for the bride's table where Mrs. A. C. Ransom served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. John Renaud presided at the punch bowl.

After a wedding trip in Natchez the couple will be at home on Horseshoe Lake Road. Mrs. Russell was graduated from Louisiana State University and Mr. Russell attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Ronnie Jean Brumley to Harvey Alton Spillers Jr., is announced this weekend by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Brumley of Chatham. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Spillers of Eros. The wedding will be solemnized February 24 at 6 p.m. in the First Methodist Church of Chatham, with Rev. Leon Scott officiating. A reception will follow in the education building of the church.

Nominating Committee Elected By Ft. Miro DAR

Election of a nominating committee to select new officers for Fort Miro Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution was held at a meeting Saturday, January 13 in the Louis Lock Room of Ouachita Parish Public Library.

Those elected to the committee are Miss Frances Flanders, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. E. K. Flournoy, Mrs. Duncan Cook and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery.

The meeting was presided over by the regent, Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg and opened with the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag and prayer by Mrs. O. C. Roddey, chaplain.

Mrs. Kellogg introduced the guest speaker, Pascal Norris, who talked on "The Greatness of America." In his remarks he warned of the ever increasing powers of the national government and the trends toward socialism in a welfare state that have gradually grown since the addition of the amendment to the constitution which gave the national government power to tax a person's income. He pointed out that the government has nothing to give until it first gets it from the people. "Federal aid to education would only be another way of increasing federal power and by the same token decreasing our states rights," he said in urging the group to strive to keep the schools in control of local and state government.

During the business session Miss Frances Flanders gave a report on National Defense. She urged all members to keep themselves informed on national issues and to write their congressmen on the many issues coming before this session of congress.

Mrs. E. J. Brown gave a report on conservation, stressing facts pertaining to the growing of pine trees.

Mrs. James W. Moore and Mrs. Tripp Faulk were elected delegates to the D.A.R. Conference to be held at Lake Charles in March. Alternates will be Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, Mrs. Roland D. Brown, Mrs. W. B. Inabnet and Mrs. R. C. Goodman. The National Conference of D.A.R. will be April 17-23 in Washington D. C. Delegates elected to attend are Miss Harriett Boyle, Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Mrs. Roy L. Junod and Mrs. J. E. Middleton. Alternates elected are Mrs. Monte Cone and Mrs. W. B. Matthews. It was announced that a bus will leave from Louisiana for the National Conference and any D.A.R. member interested making the trip is asked to contact Mrs. Kellogg.

Mrs. J. P. Zoll reported on the organization of three Junior American Citizen clubs at Lakeshore school and of the interest shown by the groups in learning about our great American Heritage.

Refreshments were served at conclusion of the afternoon. Mrs. James Moore served as hostess chairman and Mrs. Kellogg presided at the silver coffee service.

Members present were Mrs. R. L. Junod, Mrs. R. C. Goodman, Miss Elizabeth Langford, Miss Frances Langford, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. W. R. Matthews, Mrs. E. J. Brown, Mrs. M. M. Funderburk, Miss Carrie Dee Drew, Miss Harriet Boyle, Mrs. Lewis Slater, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield Jr., Mrs. Wista Worthen, Mrs. T. I. McDonald, Mrs. B. S. McRaney, Mrs. Henry Montgomery, Mrs. John Middleton, Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. W. H. McGee, Mrs. J. Q. Graves, Mrs. F. L. Faulk, Mrs. H. R. Hayes, Mrs. J. C. Brown, Jr., Mrs. Pascal Norris, Mrs. Elmer C. Slagle, Mrs. Eugene Flournoy, Mrs. Guy H. Popham Jr., Mrs. Paul Ozment, Mrs. S. W. McLean, Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. Herbert Steed, Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, Mrs. Harry Stone, Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. W. E. Smith Jr., Mrs. John P. Zoll, Mrs. H. M. Butler, Mrs. W. J. Pierron Sr., and Mrs. S. O. Williams.

Cadeville Club Has Luncheon At White Home

Mrs. Cleburn White was hostess to members of Cadeville Home Demonstation Club and the parish agent, Mrs. Audrey Dawson at a meeting Monday, January 15 in her home at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Harold Roberts, president, conducted the meeting which opened with the pledge to the flag and group singing of "God Bless America," led by Mrs. Lee Wilder. The poem of the month entitled, "The Difference," was read by the vice-president, Mrs. W. O. Roberts.

Mrs. Dawson gave a demonstration on "Do It Yourself Refinishing Walls," which was followed by a covered dish luncheon served to 12 members and four guests. During the recreation hour "Blue Bird Sisters" were revealed and names drawn for the new year.

The next meeting will be February 19 in the home of Mrs. Lee Wilder.

French Cooks Go American

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a real evolution in the French kitchen, says cheese man, Jean Paul Mittaine, consultant to the food and agricultural organization of the United Nations.

The French wife is even beginning to serve his beloved roquefort cheese, American style — mixed with salad dressing, he says.

He doesn't object, of course. Any use of roquefort by the housewife is to be commended, says Mittaine, head of the roquefort cheese producer's society. But will the French woman adopt other American cuisine, such as the store-prepared dinner

"We already have become barbecue cooks," he says, shrugging his shoulders. "The French are eating steaks charcoal - broiled, like Americans, and there are more buffet lines. Who knows where we will go from there?"

As long as French women can keep maids, he says, he is not sure that steak would ever replace Boeuf Bourguignonne or Beef ala Mode on the French menu, both dishes made with red wine. But maids are getting scarce.

French dishes take a good deal of preparation. French maids love to shop, prepare food and serve it. They'll cook it too, if they can get the French wife away from the stove. French women love to cook, he says.

"But now they are getting these little cues from Americans, like easy-does-it, so who knows?" says Mittaine.

Labor is cheap, but you can't hire a maid unless you guarantee her market privileges. And it must be at least three or four times a week or she will not work for you. Marketing is great for socializing, Mittaine says.

"French people have always talked about American women and their cooking, and how they'd rather eat in restaurants. But I don't agree. Ninety-nine per cent of French women could do no better than American women, given the same circumstances. If the French woman must continue to fight to keep her way of life, she will no doubt turn to more American shortcuts."

FEBRUARY 24 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Mary Elaine Luttrell of West Monroe and Wilfred Dean Cloyd, Sulphur. The ceremony will be solemnized at 6:30 p.m. in McClendon Baptist Church in West Monroe. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Laura Luttrell of West Monroe and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cloyd of Sulphur.

Monroe Couple Exchanges Vows

Mrs. Roy Langdon Fisher and Jack William Kemper McDowell announce their marriage which was solemnized Thursday, January 18 at St. Matthew's Catholic Church in Monroe.

After a trip to Mexico City and Acapulco the couple will be at home in Monroe.

Handy Measure

A woman who sews a great deal will appreciate an apron to which a measuring tape has been basted. Sew the tape upside down to the bottom of the apron. It is necessary that it be sewed upside down so that the wearer can read the figures without any strain.

Music Guild To Elect At February Luncheon

The home of Mrs. Cecil Hill, 2112 Island Drive, was scene of the January 17 meeting of the Music Guild with Mrs. Robert Davis and Mrs. B. B. Martin as co-hostesses.

Refreshments were served preceding the meeting as members were invited into the dining room upon arrival. Centerpiece for the table, which was covered with an imported cutwork cloth, was an arrangement of pink carnations and fern with pink tapers in a silver epergne candelabra. Mrs. Martin presided at the coffee service.

Mrs. Thomas Spurlock, president, had charge of the business session during which time a nominating committee was appointed to select new officers for next year. The committee is composed of Mrs. L. C. Noland Jr., Mrs. Veo Gray and Mrs. Allen Coon.

A contribution to the memorial fund of the Y. W. C. A. was made in memory of Mrs. P. A. Poag, a past president of the club.

Announcement was made that election of officers will be held at a luncheon meeting in February.

Hymn of the month, "God Of Our Life, Through All the Circling Years," was sung by Mrs. L. C. Noland Jr., accompanied by Mrs. N. W. Hickman. Mrs. Jack Kimball presented the life and works of Leonard Bernstein and piano selections from West Side Story by Bernstein were rendered by Mrs. Veo Gray. A vocal, "I Hate Music," (Bernstein) was by Mrs. Spurlock accompanied by Mrs. Gray after which the Life and Works of Bela Bartok were discussed by Mrs. Kimball. Mrs. Max Dillingham, at the piano, played a group of Rumanian folk dances and the program was concluded with a vocal solo, "Tears of Autumn," Bartok, by Mrs. N. W. Hickman.

Members present were Mrs. J. Norman Coon Sr., Mrs. Allen Coon, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. Max Dillingham, Mrs. Max Funderburk, Mrs. Veo Gary, Mrs. Jack Kimball, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mrs. L. C. Noland Jr., Mrs. T. Earl Ogg, Mrs. James Pharis, Mrs. Marvin Shipp; Mrs. Marvin Smith, Mrs. Thomas Spurlock, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, Mrs. N. W. Hickman and the hostesses.

A Sharp Coterie Has Program Of Piano Numbers

Members of the A Sharp Coterie were entertained Saturday morning, January 13 in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson, 1403 Park Avenue, with Linda Atkinson and Carolyn Clements as hostesses.

The program featured piano solos by Carol Genung, Betty Waller, Gayle Kelley, Cynthia Leigh, Edwina Hopkins, Carolyn Clements and Linda Atkinson.

Light refreshments were served by the hostesses at conclusion of the program. Others present were Mary Ann Caldwell, Alice Haynes, Ann Heard, Kenny Smith and the counselors, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie and Mrs. H. G. McDonald.

REIGNING AS QUEEN of the 12th annual Blue - Gray Colonels Ball in the Coliseum at Montgomery, Alabama was Miss Nell Thornton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Thornton of Montgomery. She is the niece of Mrs. O. C. Roddey of this city. A freshman at the University of Alabama, Miss Thornton was presented by Commander Eugene Loe, and for the occasion was wearing a princess style ball gown of silk tissue, lavishly embellished with rhinestones, bugle beads and seed pearls. The queen and her court were presented at the Blue-Gray game and were also honored at other fetes during the gala weekend.

Suburbia Is Described As A Dormitory

BOSTON (AP) — After taking a look at the United States, Miss Jane Drew, prominent London architect, has decided that many things are done better in England.

She thinks the average American housewife has the world's best kitchen in her new suburban home. But "suburbia in the United States tends to be just a dormitory for people who work in the main cities." Such suburbs, she says, have no real identity.

In England, she says, suburban area planning calls for distinct communities, complete with city hall, public health center and a library.

She feels sorry for the housewife left home all day because her husband must take the family car to work.

She likes a kind of English planning, seldom found in the United States in which vehicle traffic moves on streets behind houses. The street in front of houses is restricted to pedestrians. "It is destined with a mall effect," she explains.

She admits to a strong professional distaste for American outdoor advertising. Entire areas in England outlaw outdoor signs because they take away from the attractiveness of the scene, she says.

Miss Drew is well travelled. She designed the University of Nigeria, new capital buildings in Punjab, India, and many hospitals, schools and homes—most of them in tropical climates.

Hem Marker

To keep hems straight, cut a piece of cardboard the exact width of the hem and about six inches long to use as a marker when you sew. Start the hem, insert the card and slip it along as you work.

MISS GINGER WILSON will become the bride of Terry Wayne Owens in a ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, January 27 in Sardis Baptist church, Farmerville. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Wilson of Farmerville and Mr. Owens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Owens of West Monroe.

Taylor-Jones Nuptials Read In Home Scene

A double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Jewel T. Jones, of Winnfield and Garland Taylor of Alexandria, was solemnized December 29 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Rev. M. L. Moffett performed the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in a setting of poinsettias, greenery and candles.

The bride is the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Judge Jones of Winnfield and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hesley Taylor of Dodson.

Mrs. Roy Jones played "Always," and the traditional Wedding March preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a suit of azure blue with white veiled hat and matching accessories. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

Mrs. Felton Maxwell of Winnfield, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a blue sheath dress with matching accessories.

Cordell Taylor attended his brother as best man.

A reception in the home followed the exchange of vows. Miss Metty Jean Bartley and Miss Nelda Sue Jones, nieces of the bride, presided at the table which was covered with a white cutwork cloth over green and centered with a seasonal arrangement in a brass container. Red candles, poinsettias and greenery completed the setting.

Following a short wedding trip the couple has established a home in Alexandria.

Improves Flavor

To take away the "raw cabbage" taste from coleslaw, prepare it at least a half hour in advance and sprinkle it very lightly with salt. Drain just before serving and add the desired dressing.

Home Decor Is Topic For NLSC Club

"Interior Design and Guides for the Purchase of Furniture," was the program topic when the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's Club met Monday evening at the Trend House.

Members were greeted in the foyer by Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Craig Morgan and Mrs. Tom Frazer. Carl Tidwell, Robert Lewis, Don Bushnell and Harvey Paige gave informal talks on home decoration, which were followed by a tour of the store.

Aspects of color, design, use of accessories and quality of furniture were discussed. Mrs. Tom Frazer displayed place settings of china and silver.

Refreshments were served from a table, covered with white and complimented by a pyramid arrangement of white chrysanthemums in a silver urn.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. E. J. Foster, chairman; Mrs. Moise L. Peters, Mrs. Gladys King, Mrs. Levelle Haynes, Mrs. W. J. Christmas, Mrs. E. W. Lockhart, Mrs. Albin Lassiter, Mrs. George Luffey, Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, Mrs. J. J. Barnes, Mrs. W. K. Easley and Mrs. James Nicholson.

Pattern Aid

Before cutting out a dress pattern, place it on the material to be cut and press over it with a fairly hot iron. No pins will be needed to hold it in place, for the paper will cling and hold in perfect position.

Be Your Own Dream Girl In Stylish Flannelettes

Have a fashion fling in flannelettes this winter!

Be your own dream girl in that short, informal hour of lounging before bedtime. Day-by-day routines often throttle your fashion efforts, but at the end of your day, whether you are TV viewing, cold creaming, sewing or reading, get out of your everyday clothes and into one of the new flannelette fashions that fit your mood.

Do you like to look pert and sassy? Then buy the lilting new French sailor girl pajamas. Do you yearn to be feminine and frilly, and yet chichi? Don't miss seeing the new plus-four pajamas tied just below the knees with a velvet ribbon and edged with frilly lace.

If Ivanhoe and King Arthur are your heroes, and you picture yourself as Lady Guinevere, you will welcome the new crusader-style fashions in Sanforized, solid color flannelette, whose chain-of-mail jackets reach clear down to the knees and have elegant trim reminiscent of medieval days.

Yes, designers of flannelettes sense this need for women to dramatize themselves, and this year have styled a whole kaleidoscope of nightwear fashions to meet the variety of needs. Such novelties are a wonderful "try-out area" for you to test new colors, new silhouettes.

Flannelettes in these newest styles are wonderful sleepers, of course. They are warm and cuddly, on the coldest nights. Many have matching booties to keep the toes warm. Best of all, they are long wearing and practical. Just toss them in the family wash each week. Most of them have Sanforized on the label or tag, which is your assurance they won't shrink out of fit. Be sure to look for this when you buy. Flannelettes can be a serious shrinker so that you end up with too short sleeves and too snug shoulder fit if you aren't wary.

COLORS ARE EYE-OPENERS

A shift in the color story gives a new dimension to flannelette nightwear this season. There are willow greens and vivid peacock blues; tingling tangerines and fragile orchid or lilac shades.

Yes, colors have been borrowed from the world of street and sport fashions to replace the traditional pink and blue florals. If you insist on pink, this year it will be Hot Pink. Gold shades are popular, but more often they are called "honey colored."

Red and navy continue in the fashion line up, but there are fewer of them. Sometimes the red accent is picked up with lace dyed-to-match.

Startlingly new are the bold gay awning strips. Inch wide and even wider-one bright color borders another, and all clash diagonally in pajamas and nightshirts.

PAJAMAS IMPORTANT

We hope you like pajamas because they far outnumber all other garments this year. A few of the pajamas have capri length pants, which were popular last year, but the newest look centers on ankle length pants. Some of the same pajama styles are available too in baby doll and Bermuda shorts versions, but these are mainly for early season wear.

Matching the new length in pants is the new length in jackets. There are many tunic-length blouses which are especially becoming for lounging. Even longer, reaching as far down at the knees, are the new Crusader fashions.

Nightshirts, shifts and waltz length gowns in Sanforized cotton flannel are your alternate choice to the pajama styles. These are especially popular in the "kooky" styles. Nightshirts especially feature big square pockets — painted or appliqued in comic, bold, colorful or dramatic themes.

BORROWING FROM SPORTSWEAR

Not only colors are borrowed from sportswear, but more and more styling details are showing up in cotton flannelette nightwear fashions. Many pajama jackets simulate sports jackets. Chanel types are seen frequently and this year some follow Norfolk styling. Plus-fours are another adaptation from sportswear introduced this season. Dad wore plus-fours in English tweeds on the golf course, but today his college-going daughter wears them in floral patterned, Sanforized flannel pajamas, the pants of which are bloused and tied just below the knees. Madras plaids have been reproduced on flannelette and are styled as eton jacket pajamas with matching robes.

Yes, there's something to please nearly every one in the Kaleidoscope of Fall flannelettes. The biggest problem will probably be one of decision, so let here and you are sure to be your dream girl instinct take over satisfied!

Plants Shown At Ladies Day Luncheon

A display of plants was a feature of the Ladies Day luncheon held Wednesday noon at Highland Park Country Club. Approximately 80 members and guests attended the monthly event.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Wiley Roach Jr. who talked on "New and Unusual Plants." He illustrated his talk with a display of plants which withstood the hard freeze of the past week.

Door prizes were awarded following the program. The next Ladies Day luncheon event will be February 21 at which time Spring fabrics from the Fabric House will be shown.

The couple plans to establish a home in Vicksburg following their marriage.

Report Of Flower Show School Given Garden Club

Highlights of the advanced flower show school and refresher course sponsored by the Louisiana Council of Nationally Accredited Amateur flower show judges held in Alexandria on January 8 and 9 were given by Mrs. V. S. Garnett at a meeting of the Welcome Garden Club Monday afternoon, January 15 in the Louis Lock Room of Ouachita Parish library.

Mrs. Garnett, president of the club, attended the two - day session in the Bentley Hotel in Alexandria.

Mrs. W. E. Kramer introduced the speakers for the afternoon, Mrs. H. G. Thompson and Mrs. J. Y. Brooks. Mrs. Thompson talked on "Birds at My Window," telling of their eating traits, those who sing and those who lived on insects and others who eat seeds.

For her discussion on Potted Plants, Mrs. Brooks displayed numerous varieties of plants which she donated to the club. These were later sold at auction along with a white elephant sale conducted as a fund raising project by Mrs. Garnett, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. W. R. Laing and Mrs. Jerry Robinson. Each year in December the club decorates and helps with parties at the five convalescent homes in the city, and proceeds from their projects are used for this purpose.

Mrs. Irene Reid was hostess chairman for the afternoon. Tea and coffee were served from a table, covered with a white imported lace cloth, with a silver service at one end, opposite an arrangement of white tulips, white stock and Bells of Ireland in a low round silver bowl. Sandwiches and cookies were served from silver trays.

Mrs. W. A. Whitfield and Mrs. Reid alternated at the tea service and were assisted by Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. Lela K. Breard and Mrs. R. W. Bandy.

Shirley Cupit Becomes Bride Of David Lovett

Vows uniting Miss Shirley Cupit and David Lovett were solemnized at the Pine Hill Baptist church in Sicily Island on Friday, January 5 at 6 p.m.

Rev. A. N. Baum performed the marriage vows before a white draped candlelighted alter. Joyce Baum rendered nuptial music and also accompanied Johnny Meyers, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," at conclusion of the ceremony.

The bride wore a full length wedding gown with a filmy veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible, surmounted with her bridal bouquet.

Miss Betty Lee Weeks was maid of honor and the bride's sister, Mrs. Betty Lou Glascock, was matron of honor with Miss Frances Bird as bridesmaid. They wore blue gowns with matching accessories.

Alvin C. Hill attended Mr. Lovett as best man.

The couple left following the ceremony for Jackson, Mississippi, where they have established a home

SHOWER

Miss Cupit was honored on Thursday preceding her wedding to David Lovett with a prenuptial shower in the recreation room of Pine Hill Baptist church. Hostesses were Mrs. A. V. Bird, Miss Frances Bird and Mrs. Leroy Weeks. A large number of friends called between the hours of 3 until 5 p.m.

Decorate Walls, 'Dens', Mantels To Individuality

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Old houses are fun to own if you are a do-it-yourself type or can afford to hire someone to make the necessary improvements. But it can be frustrating when the budget keeps a good decorating plan from being carried out.

Here's a letter with a wall problem that is not a rarity in an old house:

"We bought an old house and the only drawback is the walls. I had dreams of papering the bedrooms in gay Colonial patterns, but wallpaperers discouraged me because of our gouged, bumpy walls. It is too costly to replaster all the walls. Do you think fabric could be smoothed over them? I have read that decorators use ticking and other fabrics on walls."

Decorators do use fabric on walls but the walls must be smooth. They use paper behind it, applying the fabric to the paper, not directly on the wall. When the walls are not flat, they either sand them smooth, or attach the fabric to plyboard. The method is to stretch the fabric over the board and then staple it to the wood at top and sides using a staple gun. Attach the plyboard to the walls and then paste or tack braid over the stapled areas. One other possibility, of course, is to paint your walls a single color, utilizing the bumps and hollows to provide texture.

Here's a fireplace problem.

"We would like to have a fireplace in our ranch house but my husband says it is a structural impossibility because of the space required for the fire bricks. Would a phony fireplace look too modern in a room that is furnished in early American style or would the coziness of the room be upset by a fireplace that is run by electricity?"

Fake fireplaces and those run by electricity are made in early American designs which fit nicely into a cozy room. Also there are many stylish woodburning fireplaces available which do not employ conventional chimneys. If you investigate the possibilities locally, you will find that some have flue arrangements that take up little space and the fireplace itself can be very decorative. It also is well to check with your fire underwriter, who may have suggestions for safety in connection with both electric and small-flue fireplaces.

The trend is to more color in the home, but many people have difficulties in assembling a satisfactory color scheme as this letter indicates:

"I want to furnish my home in Colonial style but find that I am stymied when it comes to color schemes. I just don't know how to begin. Where can I get help?"

One clue may be obtained by examining documentary fabrics in stores, noting the colors that are used. These are authentic reproductions and offer great possibilities in selecting paints, rugs an fabrics for a period room. A fabric swatch of a color scheme you like could give you an easy way to solve your decorating problem throughout your house. You could alternate dominant, related and accent colors and get a coordinated color scheme in the various rooms. Deep yellow, tole red, apple green, brown and blue are colors you are most likely to find in some of these early patterns.

How to place furniture around a fireplace isn't as easy as it sounds when you want to make it the focal point of a room as this letter points out:

"I don't have two small sofas to use in the usual fashion at the fireplace in a new home. I have tried putting one sofa in front of it but it looks too bare. I have put a small upholstered armless chair on either side of it, but that looks skimpy. The other furniture I have includes an oblong low table, a large upholstered chair, a desk, a Regency bench and two miniature chests which are now used at either side of the sofa along one wall."

If the room is wide enough to permit it, you could use a sofa on one side of the fireplace and the two armless chairs opposite it. You might use the miniature chests at either end of the two chairs, to make that group equal in length with the sofa opposite. The small table could be used in the center of the arrangements.

Another decorating problem:

"My sportsman husband has put a mounted fish up on the living room wall, duck decoys on the fireplace and pheasant feathers in floral arrangements. The last straw is a large poster listing shooting rules and regulations which he placed on our bedroom wall. How do other women cope with this idea?"

A man should feel that the home is his as well as his wife's. Put his prizes around a desk or occasional table and he'll be ecstatic. A mounted fish can be attractive if placed properly on the wall, over a desk for instance. Pheasant feathers combined with other dried flowers may make a delightful arrangement on the desk or table. Duck decoys may be used in the same area. The shooting regulations could be framed and put on the wall.

There is a current trend to using wall plaques, old signs, posters of every description, so you can be right in style.

New Finish

After a cane, rush, rattan, or reed chair seat has been refinished — and is completely dry—apply a mixture of equal parts of white shellac and denatured alcohol. This seals the stain, prevents the seat from becoming brittle, and provides a washable finish which can be sudsed off repeatedly.

White Louvered Doors Suggested For Dark Room

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My husband papered one wall in a white brick pattern and painted three walls white to offset the dark woodwork in our living room, which we are not permitted to change. The sofa is in a print, white with green and salmon. One chair is salmon, another is green. What color draperies for a large bay window and what color rug would you suggest? Also would like to hang draperies in an archway.

A: To keep room bright, I would have white draperies with white valance and a salmon or soft green colored rug. Because the archway is architectural in structure, I would suggest white louvred doors in place of draperies.

Q: In my living room, one wall is in eggshell grass cloth, the opposite wall has a large Japanese mural in gold and green. Other walls are sea green. Draperies are natural colored linen with end panels in gold and grey. Sofa and two chairs are slip covered in sea green. What color color rug should I have?

A: Rug could be either a deeper sea green than slip covers or a deep egg shell.

WOMEN WEIGHT LIFTERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University reports that a woman lifts her iron about 200 times an hour while ironing. Based on use of a three-and-a-half-pound iron and six hours to do the ironing for a family of four, she lifts a total weight of more than two tons.

"Hello Tom? This is Carl Thompson at Brown-Rivers-Scogin"

I just wanted to tip you off that right now is the best time I know for us to get together on that new Ford truck. As you know, I've been with this dealership over 20 years and I've never seen anything like the deals we're giving for this month."

THE FRESH NAIVETE of a schoolgirl's tie makes an enchanting two-piece dress by Coleknits. All in imported doubleknit worsted, designed for now into spring, the pullover is enhanced by contrast banding . . . the skirt is slender.

GALLERY LENDS ORIGINAL PAINTINGS

LEEDS, England (AP) — This textile city has started a picture-lending library in an effort to stimulate interest in art.

Residents who yearn to hang a Klee or a Matisse on their home walls can have one for one pound ($2.80) a year.

Rental works include 150 original paintings and many more prints. There also are reproductions.

Most of the loan collecton was a gift to the Leeds Art Gallery from the Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation. The gallery's permanent art collection will not be available for rentals.

"We believe we are the first gallery to lend original artists' prints and actual paintings," said Dr. ohn Sweetman, curator of the print room at the Leeds Gallery.

Eleven of the nation's top twenty retailers of 1960 (according to sales) were supermarket chains.

Girl Scout News

GIRL SCOUT NEWS From SILVER WATERS COUNCIL

Plans for the observance of the Golden Anniversary of Girl Scouting are under way as a result of last week's neighborhood meetings. From all accounts, meetings were well attended, with much enthusiasm shown for the Golden Day of Rededication in Girl Scout Week.

Looking forward to the Senior Roundup next summer with more than usual interest are the Brownie Scouts of Troop 90, Mrs. L. F. Bewick, leader. Jane Edwards, Senior Scout of Troop 1, who has been serving as program aide with the troop, is one of the selectees. To show their love and appreciation, the girls and their leader presented Jane with a Christmas gift of a sum of money to help with Roundup expenses.

One need that we've seen in Girl Scouting is intertroop activities, where girls get to know each other and younger girls learn what lies ahead in program. Two such meetings were held recently in the West Monroe Neighborhood.

Girls of Troop 10, whose leaders are Mrs. Walter Bell and Mrs. F. M. Waren, were invited to visit Troop 23 to learn what an Intermediate troop does. Troop 10 will soon "fly - up" or graduate into Intermediate Scouting and Troop 23 is a second - year Intermediate troop, whose leaders are Mrs. B. B. McWhorter and Mrs. Lamar Hayden. The Brownies found Troop 23 spending their indoor meetings during bad weather carrying out activities on the Drawing and Painting badge. All the while, their leader says, they are planning outdoor activities, with an overnight at Pine Wood at the first opportunity.

Second year Brownie Troop 61, at Mitchell School, considers itself a big sister to Troop 24, the Brownie troop organized recently at the same school. The troops enjoyed games and refreshments together. Mrs. George Wade and Mrs. George Fortenberry are leaders of Troop 61, Mrs. William Holstead and Mrs. R. C. Sharbono of Troop 24. Girls of the latter troop were invested in the traditional ceremony recently. Girls registered in the troop are: Janis Ann Deacon, Cheryl Herrington, Brenda Sue Holstead, Kathy Koserog, Shelia Ouchley, Wanda Rhodes, Debbie Roy, Marsha Scarbrough, Sandra Sharbono.

We are still hoping to publicize the troops that succeded in placing the Girl Scout Anniversary Calendar in every home represented. So far, Troop 8, Mrs. E. M. Varnado, leader, has qualified. Those who fail to obtain one of the beautiful and useful calendars will miss having a valuable reminder of the 50th Anniversary.

Training for new and prospective leaders continues at the main library, with sessions scheduled for the next two Thursdays, January 25th and February 1, at 9:30. Any interested adult is invited to participate.

Men's wear stores all over the nation did a $2.6 billion business in 1960. To attract as many customers as they can, they use daily newspapers as their primary advertising medium. Every year, they invest 80-89 per cent of their promotion budgets in their local papers.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hall of Famer, Grover Cleveland Alexander, pitching for the Chicago Cubs in 1923, set a major league record when he pitched 52 consecutive innings before allowing his first walk of the season.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Expert On Violets Feature Of Show

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Mrs. F. E. McCarty, a member of La Violette Club and Dixie African Violet Society, of Monroe, and an expert on growing these wonderful house plants, "African Violets," presented a very inspiring show last week for the 5th District Garden Center and T.V. show.

Mrs. McCarty gave a similar show about a year ago, and, I am sure that all who saw her then have now become true African Violet enthusiasts. However those who already were enthusiasts could appreciate the new tips given on raising these wonderful flowers.

Mrs. McCarty started her program by reviewing the basic rules one must consider to grow these plants properly. There are five. The first is soil. Mrs. McCarty said that a loose or coarse type soil is necessary for growing African Violets. This soil drains well.

A good recipe for soil of this type is one part of peat moss, one part perlite and one teaspoon lime per quart of mix (this keeps the soil from becoming too acid).

SECOND RULE

Second rule — Mrs. McCarty stressed proper lighting. Never expose the plant to direct sun light. Light from the window is excellent just so the sun is not shining in directly on the plants. If you do have this problem, a thin covering of nylon cloth can be used to filter the sun light and thus protect the plants during certain times of the day. Artificial light can be used successfully. In fact, Mrs. McCarty showed several plants that had never had any other type lighting. Plants need light in abundance to afford good blooming. Good foliage and no blooms are usually due to a lack of light.

Next rule to consider — humidity — African Violets thrive in a high humid atmosphere. If your home lacks enough moisture for the plants, it is good to place them over a bed of moist sand or pebbles. Moisture evaporating from sand and pebbles helps to maintain higher humidity.

The fourth rule, and an important one, is food. Just like a baby the violets need regular feeding schedule. Mrs. McCarty said that she makes a weak solution of one-fourth teaspoon African violet plant food per quart of water and feeds her plants twice a month.

WATERING

Proper watering was the last rule given by Mrs. McCarty. Too much water will rot the roots. It is very important to know when and how much water is necessary for the plant to have. Mrs. McCarty said that top or bottom watering method can be used. If water is applied to the top of the plant be sure not to get the crown leaves wet. The bottom method is preferred by Mrs. McCarty who said that she placed water in a shallow pan or saucer under the pot. After about an hour she checks the pot to see if there is water left. If there is water left this is emptied immediately — thus keeping the plant from getting soggy. Water is applied to the plants only when the soil feels lightly moist. Warm or tepid water is used.

One might think that these plants require too much attention, but, after seeing the lovely specimens grown by Mrs. McCarty you appreciate them so much and can understand why so many become true enthusiasts. Mrs. McCarty says she finds this to be a very relaxing hobby.

SUCKER LEAVES

Mrs. McCarty demonstrated the way to remove the sucker leaves that form under the larger leaves. These small leaves are pulled off carefully and planted in a rooting box for new plants. This pruning keeps the plant well shaped. The small plant is placed in a very small pot. As it grows and blooms it is then transplanted into a still larger pot. The very largest pot used is only four or five inches across the top. When a plant becomes too large or too old the crown group of leaves is plucked from the old plant, rooted in water, then replanted in a smaller pot. This was demonstrated by Mrs. McCarty on her T.V. program. Very interesting to see how this was done. She gave a very good tip about how to use clay pots. If the rim of the clay pot touches the bottom leaves of the violet, they will turn brown and drop off due to a chemical reaction. This can be avoided by coating the rim of the pot with wax, Mrs. McCarty explained. If you are entering a plant in a flower show it is necessary to use a crown plant in a clay pot.

Just another tip from Mrs. McCarty: The plastic pot is excellent for your house plants since you do not have the problem of a chemical reaction on the plant.

Words cannot describe the beauty of the plants that Mrs. McCarty brought for display on her show. I just hope that you saw the show so that you can appreciate the real beauty. They were full bloom. The colors were pink, lavender into purple, cerese, and pink into light green. The names of some of these were: The Star (a deep purple), Gay Nineties (semi-double star) a lovely pink color, Pink Jade (very double), Sir Lancelot (bi-color of lavender into deeper lavender), and a miniature plant, Racy Red (double), a very good bloomer.

Thank you, Mrs. McCarty for this very inspiring program. I am sure that you will encourage more African Violet growers. You gave such good information and showed the wonderful results — how can we help ourselves? We do hope to have you again as soon as we can for another program.

By the way there will be another new book in the Garden Center soon for the African Violet grower. Mrs. McCarty highly recommends "1001 African Violet Questions Answered by Twelve Experts," by Wilson.

This week — watch for our next T.V. and Garden Center show. Our special guest is Dr. John Wright from Ruston Tech.

Camera Art Exhibit Set This Week

Outstanding photographs, taken by both amateur and professional camera enthusiasts, are being entered in a black and white exhibit to be held Tuesday in the First National Bank Building in West Monroe.

The exhibition and judging is being sponsored by the North Louisiana Camera Club.

ENTRIES

Between 80 and 85 entries are expected in the exhibition. Already received are some of the entries from such clubs as Fort Worth and El Paso in Texas, and several smaller clubs in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

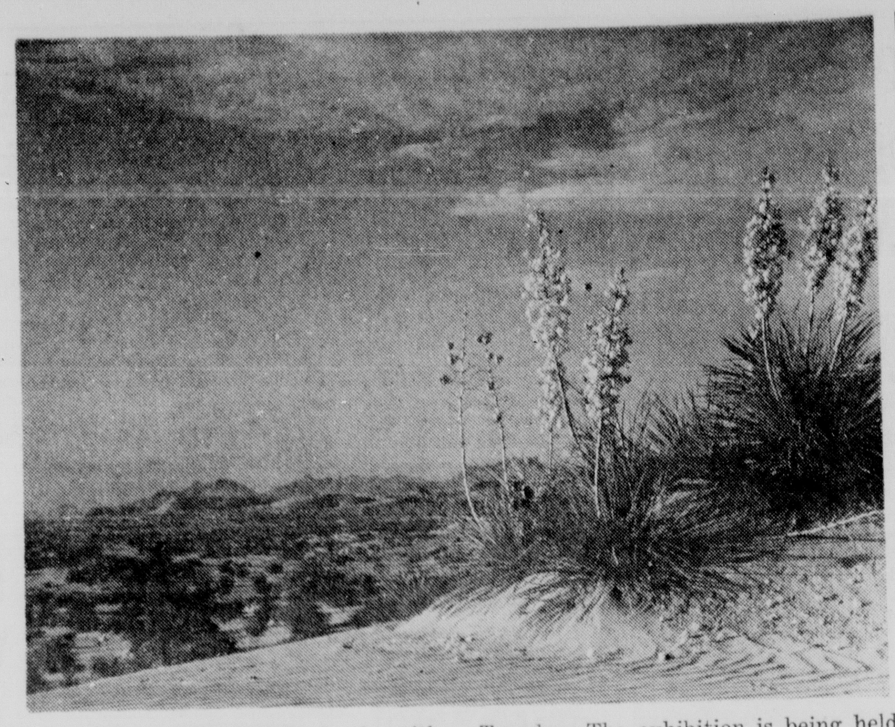

The exhibits are from member clubs of the area, extending from Florida and Georgia on the eastern seaboard, to Arizona.

Judging will begin at 7:30 p.m. The names of the judges will be revealed following the announcement of the winning photographs.

ON DISPLAY

The winning photographs will be put on exhibit in the bank building, club spokesmen said, and will remain there for several days.

On February 6 the club holds its regular meeting in the bank building. It is open to all persons interested in photography, both amateur and professional.

'DESERT LANDSCAPE' is the title given to this photograph, one of the many entered in the exhibition slated for the First National Bank building, Tuesday. The exhibition is being held by the North Louisiana Camera Club. This shot was made by Walter S. Case of El Paso, Texas.

AN OUTSIDE CONCERT AREA, vacated for the winter, makes another fascinating photograph which will be on exhibition at the North Louisiana Camera Club show Tuesday at the First National Bank in West Monroe. This picture was entered by Hal Jarrott, Fort Worth, Texas, Camera Club, and is entitled "No Concert Tonight."

Industrialist Seeks Ideas Of Employes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lawrence D. Unger does not need a suggestion box in his factory.

Unger receives the complaints and ideas of his employes in person.

At least once every eight weeks, Unger talks to each of the employes of Foremost Industries, Inc., manufacturers of soda fountain equipment.

It keeps him in touch with the inner workings of the business and builds employe morale, he believes.

LAW, INDUSTRY

Unger, 51, is a native New Yorker and a lawyer by education, but he is an industralist by experience. He started learning about business at an early age from his parents, who ran a five and 10-cent store. After graduation from St. John's University, he practiced law and became involved in real estate, securities and textiles.

When Unger stepped into management of the affairs of Foremost in 1956, the company was in serious straits. His worst trial came, however, when the factory burned to the ground.

Under Unger's direction, the company moved to temporary quarters and made good on every order. Today, he claims for the company second place in the field of manufacture of food dispensing equipment for chain store operations in the United States, and forecasts a gross business of more than $2 million in the current fiscal year.

SUCCESS KEY

Part of Unger's success lies in his encouragement of employes, he feels. He tries to let them know he is aware that they are hard workers. He likes to bring them together at informal gatherings at which their wives are included.

And he is always alert to the "gripe" or idea.

As for himself, Unger believes in getting away from business as often as possible and finding recreation with his wife or visiting his grown daughter or son. Relaxation is a good antidote for office nerves, he finds.

Unger plays golf and reads, but he finds the greatest therapy is gardening. After a good battle with the crab grass in his Great Neck backyard, he is ready for almost any business problem, he says.

FIGHTING TENNESSEAN

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Occupying a place of honor in the home of State Atty. Gen. George McCanless is an unsigned portrait of a Civil War veteran who never talked about his experiences.

Hints of Jake Donelson's little-known war record appear in an almost illegible note attached to the portrait:

"Jake Donelson, Co. H, 3rd Tennessee Regiment, C.S.A.

"Enlisted at Camp Cheatham, May 1861. Captured at Ford Donelson, Feb. 16, 1862. Prisoner seven months and two days at Camp Douglas, Chicago. Died at Cornnersville, Tenn. 1864. Buried with military honors."

Jake Donelson of the Confederate Army was a Tennessee rooster.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Evergreens Are Colorful

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

A visit to one of the larger nurseries in the south will acquaint you with the many colorful needle evergreens.

We have been discussing some of the larger ones like the spruces and firs and the oriental species especially suited to our south, like cunninghamia and cryptomria. Most of us, however, are puzzled by the fancy types of smaller conifers we see in yards and gardens.

GROWTH

Nearly all of the slow-growing smaller conifers will eventually get to be very large. There are a few really dwarf kinds, but they are usually grown as bonsai in tubs and large pots. The grey and silvery and purplish "furry" conifers that show up so beautifully in gardens at this time of the year belong mostly to the true cypresses (Cypressus). Our native "cypresses" are in another group.

Lawson's cypress is native to our West Coast and is a great timber tree out there. When grown from seed, this beautiful conifer produces all sorts of varieties that differ from the common tree, and these have been grafted and given many names. There are yellow kinds — "aurea" in the catalogues; silvery kinds — "argentea"; erect, spire-like kinds — "alumi;" dwarf kinds — "nana" and so on and on.

SHAPES

The Monterey cypresses along the coast below Montrey, Calif., are famous for their spectacular horizontal shapes and the way they hang out over the crags along the Pacific. The special varities of this cypress have never been offered for sale here in the South to any extent.

JAPANESE CYPRESSES

It is the Japanese we have to thank for many exquisite forms of small cypresses. They have selected these from their two native species, the Hinoki and the Sawara cypresses. These are the priceless tiny conifers we see growing in pots in pictures of Japanese houses and gardens The very best of these little cypresses for ordinary out-door culture in the south is the dwarf Hinoki cypress. We have discussed it many times in the column, and it can be obtained from southern nurseries when they are not out of it. Remember that it will grow very slowly to be 15 to 20 feet high and an equal number of feet thick in about 50 years or less. It will not remain small unless grown as a bonsai in a pot. Th foliage is the most elegant of all dense conifer foliage, and one of thse shrubs is worth going far to see.

There are so very many kinds of fancy cypresses that you will never get to know them until you visit a nursery and see them growing in the rows. We have come to look down on them since the advent of so many fine broadleaf evergreens, but they are returning to their well deserved place in the favor of gardeners. In another column, we shall discuss how best to use these fancy conifers in the landscape.

SLOGAN REFLECTS DRAMA'S TWO MASKS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A flexible slogan has been adopted by the Playhouse Theater as part of its campaign to increase audiences by selling tickets on the credit plan.

Jim Mendenhall, producer, inaugurated the idea with a "Laugh now, pay later" slogan—because comedies are the main feature of the establishment. When a drama or tragedy is shown, he added, the phrase would be "Cry now, pay later."

STAGE PLAYS BACK AT BILTMORE

NEW YORK (AP) — The Biltmore Theater, restored to stage production after being used for 10 years as a television studio, has a "time capsule" atop the marquee.

The weatherproof receptable includes programs of the 82 plays put on since the theater was built in 1925, some props from "Life With Father" and the script of "The Number," which was the playhouse's final production prior to the coming of video.

George Abbott, who directed that show, is incidentally director of the new tenant, "Take Her, She's Mine."

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

This week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board is Mrs. T. G. Watson, Orlando, Fla., for this idea.

"For keeping pins in a handy place, pin a strip of velvet or felt, about 4 inches wide, around the head of your sewing machine. You will never have to hunt for pins and it is also a convenient place to put your pins as you are sewing."

SEWING TIP FILE

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have saved every article you have written in the paper and my stack of papers is getting out of hand. Please consider writing a book, but in the meantime, can you give me some ideas for saving these valuable tips?" Mrs. R.G.

Dear Mrs. R.G.:

I have had many suggestions from you readers about how you save the column for future reference. One of the best suggestions was to cut each question apart and past it on a separate file card. These cards can be placed in a recipe file and the divider cards could be marked "sleeves," "hems," "alterations," etc. In this way, they are always at your finger tips.

Another suggestion was to use a loose leaf notebook, filing the questions in much the same manner. However, with a notebook, you have more space and can also save pictures of details you hope to use, swatches of fabric, etc.

This is the time of the year when most of us have to spend more time indoors, and can catch up on these jobs which we are always intending to get to, but somehow, never do.

PRESSING HINT

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have been making a coat with a very heavy fleecy look, and when I press the edges with my press cloth, even though I do this on the wrong side, the fleece looks flat and definitely spoils the look of the coat. If I don't press with the press cloth, the edges look thick and lumpy. Is there any way you can help me with any good suggestions?" Mrs. M. M.

Dear Mrs. M.M.:

If you will lay a large scrap of your heavy, fleecy fabric (right side up), on your pressing board, then place the right side of your garment down, so the two right sides will be together, you can proceed with the press cloth and you will find the fabric will not flatten out nearly as bad. Fabrics such as this should always be professionally pressed when completed.

CUT ON GRAIN

To the many readers who ask about cutting instructions on the Lengthwise or Crosswise grain of the fabric:

Always cut your garments on the lengthwise grain of the fabric. They will hang so much better. This means that any point of the line printed on our pattern and marked "lengthwise grain," is to be the same distance from the selvage edge of your fabric.

The only exception to this rule would be where you are using a striped or a plaid fabric, and wish to cup part of your garment on the opposite grain for decorative purposes. Naturally, with many of today's patterns that are cut on the bias grain, you would have to follow the specific cutting instructions given with the individual pattern.

USE TWO PATTERNS

"Dear Eunice:

"I always dreaded sewing, but with your help and inspiration, I just love it now. Some of the patterns I buy have large unpressed pleats in the front of the skirt instead of darts. I don't look good with these pleats and want to know if I can make darts out of them?" Mrs. R.E.S.

Dear Mrs. R.E.S.:

As a general rule, you cannot make darts from unpressed pleats because the darts would be too wide, consequently, there would be a pucker of extra fullness at the pointed end of the dart.

The best way to change the darts is to lay a pattern which has two darts on either side of the skirt front, over your other skirt pattern. Mark the darts in the same position as the unpressed pleats were placed. You will also find that you will usually have to make the skirt a little more narrow at the side seams because you will not need the extra fabric needed for the unpressed pleats.

Please send all your questions and suggestions to Sew Simple in care of Monroe Morning World.

DORE SCHARY'S PARENTS

NEW YORK (AP) — An autobiographical play - with - music about the old days is being written by Dore Schary under the title "For Special Occasions."

The action centers on family life before World War I, when Schary's parents operated a catering service in Newark, N. J. Schary, busy also as a producer and director on other projects, tentatively lists the play for staging next season.

EXTENSION NEWS

Some Plants May Revive

By AUDREY DAWSON

Old Man Winter has really visited our gardens this season. Hope that you find, as yours truly did, that the damage was not as great as the first look indicated. At first glance all of the new plants added this past month really looked as though they had all frozen to the roots, but I believe they will be right.

If any of your plants have been damaged by the past freezing, do not prune them until new growth begins. This will show you how much of the plant is damaged, and, too, some of the plants that you feel sure are lost may revive in the next few weeks.

If the weather is favorable you, Mrs. Gardener, may plant your dahlia tubers the last week in January. Be sure to stake them at time of planting so as not to injure tubers later. Other bulbs, tubers that can be planted in late January, are amaryllis, anemone, ginger lily, crinums and iris.

SEED TO PLANT

Flower seed that can be sown this month are phlox, pinks, salvia, snap dragon, sweet alyssum, four-o-clock, Cornflower, Calendula, African golden daisy, larkspur, petunias, nasturtium and early cosmos.

February is the time to prune roses and also an excellent time to add the new ones. In pruning be sure to remove the weak diseased wood first then leave five to seven strong canes. Make a sharp cut just above a leaf and not between the joints, this leaves a stub which invites disease.

Late January or February is the time to prune evergreen and late summer and fall flowering shrubs. Do not prune spring flowering plants. This will remove the already formed flower buds.

CLOTHING WORKSHOP

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to learn to make pre-school girl dresses, you can enroll in our workshop at the Agriculture Building beginning Monday, Feb. 1, 2, 5, & 6th. The workshop will begin at 9:00 a.m. each day and end at noon. This workshop has been planned especially for mothers who cannot be away from home more than the morning hours. If you are interested, call our office at FA 3-2251 and get the final instructions.

COUNCIL MEETING

Home Demonstration Council members your President, Mrs. L. J. Bower, asked that I remind you of the important meeting of Ouachita Council, Friday, January 26, at 10:00 a.m. at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe. The speaker, D. W. Smith, will really give you some new ideas on use of forestry products in the home.

NUTRITION LEADERS

Your training meeting will be Wednesday, January 24, at 9:30 a.m. at the Agricultural Auditorium. Be sure to be on hand to get the latest information of nutritious low cost meals. The meeting will be over by noon. Be sure your home demonstration club is represented.

FOODS IN THE NEWS

One of the "hottest" developments in food today is the freeze drying process. Major U. S. food firms are optismistic for the future of freeze dried foods that are moving from research labs into tonnage production. After freezing and drying, foods are put immediately into air tight cans or pouches where they'll keep at room temperature for years.

The big advantages are long term preservation, compactness and ease of storage and shipment. Now in some stores are soup mixes containing freeze dried chicken. Oregon State University food technologists have helped the army develop freeze dried hams. The list of foods that have been successfully subjected to the new process is impressive.

They include beef steaks, pork chops, ground beef, diced beef, sausage meat, chicken parts, whole eggs, cottage cheese and a number of fruits, vegetables and juices. Freeze dry foods do not change shape, but take on the consistency of a dry, brittle sponge. They are reconstituted by placing in water for approximately 20 minutes. The food then goes back to nearly its original flavor and texture.

A THOUGHT:

Gossip is a sound that goes in one ear and out the mouth.

Paint Inside House When Winter Here

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Garden and tennis court are buried under snow, the swimming hole and trout stream frozen solid, and the screens don't have to be put up for months: the ideal time for indoor painting, according to the National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association.

The new paints are quick-drying, relatively odorless and, while you should have adequate ventilation, they don't require that windows be thrown wide open.

CHOOSE COLORS

First thing, of course, is to choose your colors. The experts suggest for inspiration pictures of rooms you like, a valuable rug, a painting you own or one you plan to buy, or a choice made just becuase you like it.

In general, they say, small and average rooms should be painted in colors and values that will make them look larger — the cool blues, blue-green, light green, blue purple. Lighter tints should be used, rather than full strength colors. The warm yellows, reds and oranges, and darker shades should be restricted to accent notes.

In larger rooms, however, the full-strength colors and tints of the warm reds, orange and yellow and yellow green can be used to make the walls seem to approach and give greater intimacy.

Personal preference need by the only factor in the choice of water-thinned paints, popularly know as latex, vinyl or acrylic, or the tough alkyd-based paints and enamels. Neither has a strong, painty ordor. The latexes dry in an hour or less, show no lap marks and tools clean in plain water. Drying time of the alkyds is longer, but generally they are considered tougher.

ROSE REFLECTIONS

I walk today through roses
In my garden set apart,
And see again the roses,
Reflected in my heart

I started loving roses
The day I started loving you.
You brought me bright red roses
When we were both just twentytwo.

Across the Bible that I carried,
Lay a rose of purest white,
Symbol of the love we vowed
On our wedding night.

Yellow roses on my window sill
Filled my heart with joy,
And you kissed my lips and whispered,
"We have our baby boy"

Soft Pink baby roses
On yet another morn,
Foretold the news you brought me,
"Our baby girl is born"

Roses too on other days,
Year after pleasant year,
Their story told and bade me
Hold these special days more dear.

Fifty golden roses
For the golden years we've known
Bespeak in sweet reflection,
That our love has sweeter grown.

Yes I walk today through roses
In my garden set apart,
And I see again the roses
Reflected in my heart.

TRAINING FOR ACTORS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Catholic Universiay has set up a project to provide on - the - job training for student actors selected from 22 institutions of higher learning.

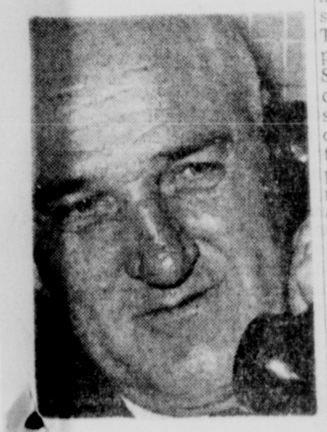

Two - year contracts are to be awarded under the program. During the first year, selectees will study and work in university productions. During the second year they will become salaried members of Catholic University's National Touring Company, which has been active for 14 years.

JANE FONDA TO STAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Although she has appeared in only two short - lived Broadway plays, Jane Fonda is to get star billing in her next outing, "The Fun Couple."

The Neil Jansen - John Haase play concerns a young physician and his wife. Production is set down for April.

Miss Fonda, daughter of star Henry Fonda, made her bow last season in "There Was a Little Girl" and followed with "Invitation to a March."

"Mr. Bryant? This is Frank Smith at Brown-Rivers-Scogin"

I'm calling to let you know about the tremendous deals we're offering on new Ford cars and trucks at Brown-Rivers-Scogin. This month is an excellent time to let us figure with you."

'Hey, Let's Twist' Now At The Jim

The fantastic story of how the Peppermint Lounge in New York overnight became the newest and wildest dance rendezvous of society, intelligentsia and columnists, is now at the Jim Theatre in "Hey, Let's Twist!"

It is told wth the same headliners who perform nightly at the Lounge, Joey Dee and the Starlighters, and the twisting Peppermint Loungers.

In addition, there is a great supporting cast which includes pert and pretty Jo - Ann Campbell, recording star, who has appeared in many top TV shows; nightclub entertainer Teddy Randazzo; Zohra Lampert, currently featured in "Splendor in the Grass," Kay Armen and stage star Dino di Luca.

FILMED THERE

"Hey, Let's Twist!" was actually filmed at the Lounge which has earned for itself the apt description, "The Temple of the Twist." The Lounge is a small place off Broadway on West 45th Street and it is filled nightly to capacity, with people waiting outside clamoring for admission. Society folk mingle with teen-agers, trying to out - dance them; many people just come to watch and many return home frustrated because they were among those who couldn't get into the Lounge. Now, with Paramount's release of "Hey, Let's Twist!" everybody who wants to get inside the Lounge will be able to do so simply by seeing the picture.

CAMERA VIEW

But "Hey, Let's Twist!" is more than a camera's-eye-view of the famous Peppermint Lounge. It is a warm, sympathetic story of a father trying to put his sons through college on the non-existent profits of a small Italian restaurant near Broadway, and it tells how the boys not only turn the place into money-coining Peppermint Lounge, but find romance as well.

"Hey, Let's Twist!" has six numbers featuring the twist, played and sung by Joey Dee and the Starliters, and danced by the Peppermint Loungers. It was produced by Harry Romm and directed by Greg Garrison from an original screenplay by Hal Hackady.

PLAYS CHILD-PRICED

NEW YORK (AP) — Public school pupils were supplied with 44,407 low - priced tickets to Broadway and off - Broadway shows last season, the American National Theater and Academy reports.

'Pocketful Of Miracles' At Paramount

"Pocketful of Miracles," the wackiest, most heart - warming Cinderella story ever to burst, like a joyous rocket, out of Hollywood, opens today at the Paramount Theatre, through United Artists release. Filmed in Panavision and Eastman Color, the comedy, produced and directed by Frank Capra, is in his great tradition of movie magic for which he has won three Academy Awards. It is based on a story by Damon Runyon and stars Glenn Ford, Bette Davis, Hope Lange, Arthur O'Connell and co - stars Peter Falk, Thomas Mitchell, Edward Everett Horton and Mickey Shaugnessy.

For his latest miracle, Capra rubs a magic lamp — in this case a shiny red apple — and lo! we have . . . .

Glenn Ford, as Dave the Dude, buying an apple a day for gambler's luck, from Bette Davis, as Apple Annie, a Broadway characters who writes phony society letters to her daughter in Spain until the girl's imminent arrival causes.

Hope Lange, as Queenie, Glenn's girl - friend, and more than a few Broadway guys and dolls with hearts of gold, to transform Bette into the grandest society doll of them all.

This warm - hearted screenplay, with emphasis on the heart, was written by Hal Kanter and Harry Tugend, based on Robert Riskin's original screenplay, and puts the Runyon classic on wide screen for the first time. To keep the authentic Times Square setting of the thirties, art director Hal Pereira recreated yesterday's Manhattan on five huge sound - stages and virtually all the city blocks of one of Hollywood's most famous set - cities.

All roads lead to the Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane, where the cast and crew of "Bye Bye Birdie" are rehearsing nightly.

If you happen to stop in you will have to wade through actors and actresses studying their lines in the lobby, "Conrad Birdie," in the person of Bob Flanagan, rehearsing "The Last Kiss," in the Green Room, and the chorus practicing the telephone number on stage. Never a dull moment around here and the password anywhere in Monroe is "Bye Bye Birdie."

CHOREOGRAPHER

Santa Giglio, or choreographer, is on the job and really giving the teenagers a workout. Giglio is from Shreveport and you will remember that he was the choreographer in the Shreveport Little Theater's production of "Wonderful Town," last season. The current attraction of the Shreveport Little Theatre is "Not in the Book," which opened this week. You will be interested to know that their next attraction will be "Five Finger Exercise," and their opening is scheduled for February 22nd.

Jim Nuckels and his crew, Earl Graser, Earl Sherman, and George Patterson, are busy on the set construction. This is a very detailed and important part of the production and we are fortunate indeed in having such available, willing and talented people to take charge of the set.

THANKS

The Little Theatre of Monroe would like to thank W. E. Whetstone and the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company for providing seventeen telephones, in rainbow colors, to be used in the telephone scene. This is one of the more delightful and colorful scenes and you will thoroughly enjoy it.

Heading up the Costume Committee as chairman is Mrs. Bob Evans (Judy). This is a most important committee with much responsibility. Working with Judy is Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Beryl Franklin and Mrs. E. T. Nichols. We also received word that Vi Cotton and Jean Gentry have volunteered to help on this committee. There is always plenty to be done, so I am sure Judy will put you to work.

VISIT, PRAISE

Jack Ansel of New York City, and formerly of Monroe, where he has participated in Little Theatre productions, visited the Strauss Playhouse, while he was in town. He was very impressed with our theatre and had only the highest of praise for it.

Everyone will be glad to hear that patron member Aline Petty is back home after having been hospitalized for several days.

Several people have received postcards from Ivan Uttal, former director of the Monroe Little Theatre. He tells us that he is soon to direct an off Broadway play. This is good news for his many friends here.

The Phi Beta Music and Speech Fraternity had a Silver and Green Program Tea last Sunday at the home of Dr. Walker. The program consisted of poetry and choral numbers and was directed by Jerilyn Gilstrap, who was assistant stage manager for "Five Finger Exercise." Those participating were Gerry Peterson, Betsy McBride, Jo Ann Machen, Dell Womack, (who is in the cast of "Birdie"), Peggy Morgan, Joan Griffin, Shirley Allen, Niki Poulos, and Donna Martin.

QUICK PAY OFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Four of Broadway's new nonmusical shows have rapidly paid off investment costs.

The group includes "Take Her, She's Mine," which was financed at $185,000; "A Man for All Seasons," $60,000; "A Shot in the Dark," $75,000; and "Write Me a Murder," $125,000.

Ocean-Going Hotel Makes Initial Trip

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world's first ocean-going hotel is on the high seas today on a maiden voyage introducing a new concept in sea travel.

The vessel is the Transvaal Castle, a 33,500-ton luxury liner built for the Union-Castle Line in Scotland. She sailed from England Thursday, bound for Cape Town and Durban, South Africa, with a stop at Madeira, Spain.

HOTEL CLASS

Instead of having the entire ship divided into two or three classes or making it a one-class ship, the Union - Castle Line has adopted a hotel class service. This means that all 740 passengers have equal access to all public rooms aboard ship. The fare is based on accommodations, just as hotel rates are based on the size and location of rooms.

For example, on the 13½ day trip from Southampton to Cape Town, a suite consisting of a sitting room, bedroom and twin bathrooms costs $1,960 per person. A cabin containing two, three or four berths costs $336 to $380 a person.

Feud Boils Behind TV Show Scenes

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A boiling behind-the-scenes feud, involving the top stars, is threatening to make a shambles of the new CBS TV series, "The Dick van Dyke Show."

The program, which also features such proven performers as Rose Marie and Morey Amsterdam—as well as the up-and-coming Mary Tyler Moore—is fighting to establish itself. It has even switched to a different night to make the grade.

QUESTION

But the mystifying question is why there should be such trouble with all that talent around. The reason—and the explanation for the feud—are one and the same:

The emphasis thus far has been on the cute, homey, family life of Miss Moore and van Dyke. Producer - writer Carl Reiner, one of TV's most gifted brains, feels this aspect of the show is most likely to establish it. On the other hand, many critics and some of the stars—including the outspoken and upset Rose Marie—feel the emphasis should be on the comedy that van Dyke encounters when he works with her and Amsterdam in the office.

They play comedy writers. Reiner doesn't think the public is particularly interested in comedy writers.

"Everybody's being restrained" said Rose in her dressing room at Desilu studios. "Dick is a wonderful showman. Morey and I have proven ourselves. But every time you get started, you feel you're being pulled back into the restricted family series pattern.

"Family shows are dead, anyway. If people want to watch them, let them tune in Donna Reed or Danny Thomas.

UNHAPPINESS

"And if they're not going to let us cut loose, why did they hire us in the first place? They can get any two-bit actor."

Insiders also say there is unhappiness about the way the publicty is being handled. They say some people believe van Dyke and Miss Moore are being built up at the expense of Rose and Amsterdam, who are co-stars—and who like doing the show but don't really need the money.

YOUNG SANDRA Dee finds her college professor friend, John Gavin, interesting both romantically and educationally as they co-star in "Tammy Tell Me True," romantic comedy in color which opens today at the Delta Theatre.

'GIDEON' ON THE GO

NEW YORK (AP) — Paddy Chayefsky's "Gideon" is going on far - flung travels.

In the seven weeks following arrival of the drama on Broadway, production rights were obtained by overseas impresarios for presentations in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Italy, Aregntina and Uruguay.

Total drug store sales reached nearly $7.5 billion in 1960. In an effort to inform as many people as possible of what they're selling, druggists invest 73 per cent of their advertising budgets in their local newspapers.

AT SOUTHERN MARKET

New Furniture Apartment Sized

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP) — American furniture designers today are as space-conscious as the population at Cape Canaveral.

Remaining true to the same old and new styles, they have nevertheless drastically shrunk the size of things. Furthermore they have insisted that one piece of furniture consuming floor space do the work of two or three.

FILE THEM AWAY

Thus, from all indication at the fall Southern furniture market here, this is the home furnishing year designed to delight apartment house dweller.

With the ingenuity of shipbuilders, furniture manufacturers have, by means of multi-purpose furnishings, arranged a place for everything. Beds, sofas, chairs and tables are so full of secret and not-so-subtle built-in storage units that the average homemaker might need a file clerk to keep track of things.

HIDING YOUR TREASURES

To provide blanket or linen space, beds are equipped with hinged headboards and concealed drawers. Chests and highboys are companion pieces with places for clothing, silverware and more linens. Bed benches, window seats and telephone tables are cedar-lined for mothproof blanket and linen storage.

Music lovers will be able to buy hi fi, stereo and television cabinets with more storage compartments than for the usual spirits and record albums. Even end tables contain extra drawers at least large enough for a deck of cards and a score pad.

Some cocktail tables get high—that is, they grow up to be big tables with the proper manual persuasion. Others, you guessed it, contain storage compartments for bedding and table linens.

CHAIRS ROCK ON

Sleep sofas, do not hide bedding, just beds. But all styles are designed so artfully they can be trusted not to reveal their dual purpose to an unwanted guest.

Of course, rocking chairs play a prominent role here in this, the birthplace of the President's sedentary, oscillating equipment. His wife, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, also left her autograph on order blanks around this town when she was outfitting her Middleburg, Va., summer retreat with lounge chairs.

EARLY AMERICAN WINS

Although the classic lines which Mrs. Kennedy favored then, gets plenty of buyer attention now, the most popular home furnishing fashion is Early American, with the Far Eastern influence edging in.

The Early American trend which took shape immediately after World War II is said to be the effect of the modern, ever-shifting American family's inherent desire for roots.

Accessory designers here give the trend two birds, the vanishing bald eagle and the prolific barnyard rooster. These symbols of power and the provincial respectively show up on wall plaques, as lamp bases, on drapery and slip cover fabric, and even carved into furniture.

But shouting for attention are Oriental furnishings, often painted Chinese red with weeping willow trees, delicate damsels and menacing mandarins stenciled in gold.

Wigs Soar To New Heights In Popularity

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Leaving one's hair at the barber or beauty shop for a cut or a curl is not a joke these days. It's a fact that no longer carries a stigma.

And wigs are a fashion that is reaching its peak, ironically, at a time when the wig-making craft is dying out.

Within a brief span women's coiffure tastes have evolved from merely adding chignons, buns, braids and coronets to their own heady growths to adopting complete wardrobes of colorful wigs.

Now men, some of whom still think elevator shoes and huge shoulder pads are fraudulent, top their gleaming pates with toupees without vanity or guilt.

Their wives usually talk them into it, says Richard Hardwich, a European who spent his boyhood amidst the wig-making atmosphere of baldheaded manikins.

ARE PEOPLE TALKING?

"The breaking-in period is painful for a man. There are days of indecision, of analyzing friends' comments for their honesty, of catching his reflection from every angle before he finally wears his hairpiece with youthful confidence."

Women, on the other hand, have already conditioned the men in their lives to expect radical change in their appearance within a matter of hours, claims the hairdresser - wigmaker. Thus those who literally can afford to be different can switch like chameleons to pink, green, blue, or even lavender-hued hair and back to natural again.

Nevertheless, the practical advantages of wigs in a busy woman's life are the real reasons why their popularity has soared, says Hardwich. Today's hair coloring vogue has prompted women to buy wigs to cover up dark roots between dye jobs. The always-ready coiffures also come to the rescue when a swim or bad weather plays havoc with a hairdo. Women in the entertainment world usually have from three to a half dozen wigs, he says.

Mr. Adcock was a retired farmer and a member of the Zebedee Baptist Church.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home in Bastrop until Monday morning.

Two Are Booked For Shoplifting

Two Negroes were booked for theft yesterday afternoon in connection with shoplifting cases, according to Monroe police.

They were identified as Theo Hill III, 18 of Route One, Box 43, Monroe, and Vedelure Hill, 37 of Route One, Box 126, Choudrant.

Hill was taken into custody at 2:50 p.m. in a DeSiard Street store, and booked for the alleged theft of a 29-cent article. Bond was set at $350 bond.

The Negro woman was taken into custody in the 300 block of DeSiard Street at 4:25 p.m. She allegedly had taken around $5 worth of items from a downtown store that included socks, a purse, needles and a hat. Her bond was not set yesterday afternoon.

Milk Producers, Distributors Grades Reported

VIDALIA (Special) — Grades of all milk producers and milk distributors in Concordia have been announced by Dr. J. A. Coleman, director of the Concordia Parish Health Unit.

The State Sanitary Code requires the Health Officer to announce at least once every six months, grades of all milk and milk products processed, sold or offered for sale within his jurisdiction, and to issue grade certificates.

The grades have been determined by the Health Department in accordance with the grade specifications of the State Sanitary Code.

Following are the grade specifications, together with the names of dairies, milk processing plants, and their operators, listed under the grades they have been awarded:

Grade A Raw Milk for pasteurization. Raw Milk which has been produced and handled in conformity with the minimum requirements for raw milk, with an average bacterial plate count which does not exceed 100,000 per millikiter.

Douglas Chandler, Chandler's Dairy, plant producer, Route 1, Clayton; Richard C. Daggett, Daggett's Dairy, plant producer, Wildsville; Ralph Davis, Davis' Dairy, plant producer, Forgmore, La.; and Claude Hammett Hammett's Dairy Plant producer, Ferriday.

Grade A pasteurized milk produced from grade A raw milk: E. H. Boon, Manager, the Borden Co., processor, distributor, Monroe; Mrs. Ella Johnson, Cloverleaf Dairy products, Monroe; Bert Davis, the Milk House, Winnsboro, and Ernest H. Kramer, agent Sealtest Foods, Inc., New Orleans.

Steps have been taken to exclude from the market all milk and milk products that have been judged to be immediately dangerous to the public health. Dr. Coleman offers the full facilities of his office to the operators of the dairies and processing plants for advice and assistance in the improvement of the grade of their milk supplies.

Dr. Chambers Is Given Award

Dr. Doyle Chambers, son of a Start woman, Mrs. Ethel Chambers, has been named recipient of the first Don Tyler "Professor of Dinstinction" award for his outstanding work as a member of the Oklahoma State University animal husbandry staff. He received $1,000.

Chambers graduated from Bonita High School where he was valdictorian. He then went on to LSU where he received his bachelor's and masters degrees. He received his doctorate from Oklahoma State University.

Biology Course For Television Slated At NLSC

A biology course will be taught by television during the spring semester at Northeast Louisiana State College, Dr. Aaron Seamster, dean of the division of pure and applied sciences, has announced.

The course, Biology 116TV, is the second half of a course which was taught during the fall semester.

Televised class lectures will be held beginning Jan. 30 from 6:45 to 7:15 a.m., Monday through Friday, over KNOE-TV, Channel 8, Monroe.

A conference session will be held weekly on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 on campus in Stubbs Hall, Room 143. Dr. Seamster will supervise this session, with the first meeting scheduled for Feb. 5.

Dr. Ray Koppelman, assistant professor of biochemistry at the University of Chicago, will lecture on the telecasts.

The course will be concerned with the processes of living matter: the biochemistry, biophysics, genetics, ecology and evolution of organisms.

For undergraduate credit only, the course is open to all persons who meet the regular admission requirements of the college. A $15 registration fee will be required.

Registration will be held on Thursday and Friday, Jan. 25-26, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. duirng the College's registration for late afternoon, evening and special Saturday morning clases.

Persons wishing additional information should contact Dr. Clint Hanna, dean of instruction, or Dr. Lake Oxford, registrar.

Woman Asks Aid; Needs Operations

"People say air is free, but the lack of air has put me so far in debt that I don't know which way to turn."

These are the words of Mrs. Mary Van Landingham, who resides with her family at 1019 N. 6th St., in Monroe.

Mrs. Van Landingham has a serious throat condition. She has had two major operations in a Monroe hospital and five in the Ochsners Foundation in New Orleans.

Dr. Frances LeJune, New Orleans, said that her throat passage is too small for her body and she is not receiving enough air. Therefore she will have to undergo two more operations.

Mrs. Van Landingham says that unless she receives some aid, she will be too deep in debt to get out. She said that she already owes every doctor that will let her.

Vice President

JONESVILLE (Special) — Leroy Benge, native of Sicily Island, has recently been appointed a vice president of the Crocker-Anglo National Bank in San Francisco.

NOW IT IS THE NIGHT OF THE SNOW BALL AT OLD MAUMEE... THIS IS THE REALLY BIG PARTY OF THE YEAR — AND THE COMPETITION FOR QUEEN IS NO MERE BEAUTY CONTEST...THE WINNER IS USUALLY A BIG WOMAN ON CAMPUS, AS WELL AS A PRETTY CHICK...

EVERY STUDENT WHO HAS A PAID-UP FEE BOOK CAN VOTE, SO THE BALLOTING IS HEAVY! ALTHOUGH THE VOTES ARE GATHERED AND TALLIED BY AN ACCOUNTING FIRM — THE WORD IS OUT...

WHO'S GOT THE BOOK ON MAUMEE?

SOME FRESH MONEY, HERB!

WHAT'S THE PRICE?

NOTHING OPEN EXCEPT ON THE POINT SPREAD!

...THAT TEKKIE, THE PRESIDENT OF THE SORORITY TO WHICH POTEET WAS FORMERLY PLEDGED, IS SURE TO WIN

HERE, TEKKIE! YOUR CONTACT LENSES...

OH, TEKKIE, THAT CANYON GIRL TRIED TO REACH YOU AGAIN TONIGHT!

IF SHE IS TRYING TO BE REPLEDGED, SHE CAN PHONE UNTIL SHE IS HOARSE!

TEKKIE, YOUR DATE IS HERE!

THE TENSION MOUNTS AT THE SNOW BALL...BEFORE TEN P.M. THE CANDIDATES FOR QUEEN NERVOUSLY WAIT IN THE WINGS TO BE INTRODUCED...THEN...

IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER — THE PRIDE OF OLD MAUMEE... FIRST; REPRESENTING ELLINGTON HALL...MISS DOROTHY ANCIL!

ALL THE OFFICIAL ENTRIES ARE HERE EXCEPT MISS LATTE LAVACCA....SO I TURN THE PARTY OVER TO MR. GENE SANQUE OF THE ACCOUNTING FIRM!

I HAVE THE NAME OF THE WINNER IN THIS SEALED ENVELOPE!

WHICH I NOW OPEN! — THE 1962 SNOW QUEEN IS —

LATTE LAVACCA!

AH - UH - THE RULES STATE THAT THE QUEEN WINNER MUST BE PRESENT — SO IF YOU WILL READ THE SEC -

BUT MISS LAVACCA IS HERE!

MAUMEE SNOWBALL

I TRIED TO TELL TEKKIE — I TRIED! — I TRIED!

WELL, JOHNNY, THERE'S THE OLD RESERVOIR, FULL TO THE BRIM!

"WHEREIN I SPAKE OF MOST DISASTROUS CHANCES, OF MOVING ACCIDENTS BY FLOOD AND FIELD." -SHAKESPEARE.

NICE THEY WAITED FOR A GOOD MOON! WE'LL SEE THEM FINE FROM HERE!

ODD HOW DIFFERENT PEOPLE THINK! NOW THOSE CHAPS PLAN TO TRAP US IN OUR SLEEP, TORTURE AND ROB US. AND THEN KILL ... ALL IN THE GREAT CAUSE-OF "PEACE"!

YEP! ETERNAL PEACE FOR ALL WHO DISAGREE WITH THEM!

AH, THERE THEY START OUT NOW TO BECOME HEROES! SAY "WHEN", JOHNNY!

48...49... 50! ALL ON THE CANYON TRAIL NOW! LET 'ER GO!

THERE! THE GATES AT THE BOTTOM OF THE DAM ARE OPENING! HEAR THAT ROAR?

THEY HEAR IT, TOO!

FIFTY-FOOT WALL OF WATER! LIKE RATS IN A TRAP! EH, PARTNER?

A VERY APT DESCRIPTION, PARTNER!

WELL, THAT WAS FAR SIMPLER AND MORE HUMANE THAN FIGHTING IT OUT WITH GUNS AND KNIVES, AND NO GABBY STRAGGLERS TO WORRY ABOUT!

I IMAGINE THIS WILL MAKE QUITE AN ENGROSSING MYSTERY FOR THEIR RADIO PALS!

BY THE WAY! WHEN THAT CANYON WAS FLUSHED, WHERE WAS EVERYTHING FLUSHED TO?

DOWN INTO THE DEEP CRATER LAKE ...OUR HARBOR, THAT IS!

OH, NOTHING THAT GOES DOWN IN THAT BLUE POND EVER IS SEEN AGAIN!

IF YOU SAY SO, BUT...

JUST NOW YOU SAW WHY THAT CANYON TRAIL WAS NAMED "DEVIL'S GANTLET"! WELL, THE PIRATES CALLED THIS HARBOR "THE DRAGON'S NEST"!

I SUPPOSE THEY HAD SOME REASON!

THE BEST, JOHNNY! I'LL TELL YOU ABOUT IT LATER. IN THE MEANTIME, JUST DON'T GO SWIMMING IN THAT SPARKLING WATER! I MEAN THAT!

OH? OW! ER I WON'T!
